Hint U.S. bombs hit hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee is investigating reports that enemy hospitals may have been the target of American warplanes.

Gerald Greven of Miami, a former fighter pilot, was scheduled to testify today that he saw a Viet Cong hospital hit by an American air strike.

Senate sources said that he had been admonished by his superiors not to report the incident.

Also scheduled to appear at the hearing was Army Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam during much of the secret tactical air strikes by fighter planes and B52 bombers in Cambodia and Laos.

On Tuesday, the committee heard a former Air Force intelligence officer say he was ordered to falsify several air strikes daily in Cambodia by reporting them in the eastern, rather than the western, part of the country.

At the time, it was announced U.S. policy to hit North Vietnamese sanctuaries in border areas of eastern Cambodia, but not generally in other parts of that country.

The testimony by former Air Force Capt. George R. Moses was the first indication that tactical strikes were covered up by the Nixon administration.

Meanwhile, Gen. George S. Brown, currently Air Force chief of staff, said he did not order and was unaware of any such false reporting while he commanded the 7th Air Force during some of the time Moses was in Vietnam.

Brown said in an interview that reports reaching him accurately reflected the bombing of approved targets. While not disputing testimony that there were false reports, Brown disclaimed knowledge of who may have authorized them.

Brown said he didn't understand the reason for any falsification of tactical missions in Cambodia after May 1970 because the U.S. government had acknowledged it was carrying on air operations there.

Pentagon officials have acknowledged a dual reporting system—one for the public record and one for a few officials with a "need to know."

And on Tuesday, the Defense Department also acknowledged 180 additional B52 strikes that actually occured as late as April 1972 in Laos. They had previously been reported falsely to the committee and the press as having occured in either South Vietnam or Cambodia.

'ACCIDENT' VICTIM — A Cambodian girl, wounded in an accidental B52 bombing of Neak Luong, Cambodia, is carried from a boat to an ambulance. More than 150 persons were killed and more than 300 injured in the mistake, the worst bombing incident of the Indochina war.

Nixon readies scandal reply

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the sun faded on a smoggy summer evening, President Nixon plied the Potomac searching for words to explain Watergate to his fellow Americans.

His dinnertime cruise Tuesday was a signal, to use a Nixonian sports cliche, that the ball was now in his court.

The Senate Watergate committee plopped it there on Tuesday when it recessed its hearings until after Labor Day.

Not long after the Senate Caucus Room emptied, Nixon gathered his top speechwriter, Raymond K. Price, and headed for the presidential yacht, Sequoia.

For two hours, they navigated the gentle chop of the river below Washington.

What they discussed wasn't disclosed, but it was clear that Nixon was accelerating preparation of his personal response to the swelling political scandal.

The White House insists that the President hasn't decided how or when he will make that response. But this scenario seems to be emerging:

Sometime soon, perhaps late this week but more likely next, Nixon will request a prime-time slot on the national television networks for an address from the White House.

This speech probably would last less than a half hour, but would give the President the forum to formally launch his effort to dispel the shadow Watergate has cast on his second term.

The television appearance could coincide with the release of a presidential "white paper" giving a point-by-point rebuttal of charges leveled against him and his administration.

Next could come one or more news conferences, where Nixon would respond to direct questions on the controversy that has plunged his popularity in the polls to an all-time low.

Ohio retail sales show increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail sales in Ohio climbed by 11 per cent in June from the same month in 1972, the center for business and economic research at Ohio State University reported today.

The center said sales in June increased by 2 per cent from May levels, continuing an upward trend.

For the first half of 1973, the center said, Ohio retail sales were 11 per cent above those for the first six months of 1972.

Watergate staff keeps busy preparing for more hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee is giving the public a one-month summer break from its hearings, but there will be no vacation for its investigators and lawyers.

After 37 days of questioning 35 witnesses whose transcribed testimony fills more than 7,500 typed double-spaced pages, the panel recessed public hearings Tuesday until at least Sept. 10. But committee chief counsel Samuel Dash said the investigation will continue at full pace through the summer break.

The panel may even add to its workload. Dash said that if the newly disclosed criminal investigation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is found to involve occurrences during the 1972 presidential campaign, the committee will investigate them, too.

Meanwhile, the panel's lawyers planned to file a lawsuit today or Thursday seeking a court order to compel President Nixon to honor subpoenas for tape recordings of his own conversations about the wiretapping and cover-up.

Nixon's lawyers said in court Tuesday that the judicial branch of government has no power to compel the President to give up the tapes, leaving open a possibility that Nixon might continue to defy the courts even if they rule against him.

Dash said staff members also will draft a status report advising committee members what they could include in an interim report, if the panel decides to issue one.

The committee's final report on the entire 1972 presidential campaign is due next February, but consideration is being given to writing a report to sum up what has been found out so far.

Until now the committee has confined itself mainly to the Watergate wiretapping and cover-up. Several possible witnesses, including former presidential adviser Charles W. Colson and Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt, may be heard on that subject when public hearings resume after Labor Day.

But after that, the committee may split into subcommittees to investigate other aspects of the campaign.

Freeze ends Monday; food to soar

Sharp price hikes coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices are virtually certain to follow the lifting of the 60-day price freeze next Monday. But Nixon administration spokesmen are unwilling to predict the size of the increases.

One reason is the difficulty in forecasting the effectiveness of Phase 4 controls, which will replace the freeze. Another is that past predictions on price increases and the rate of inflation have been far off target.

The Agriculture Department ventured a guess Tuesday that retail food prices this year could wind up 20 per cent above the 1972 level. But that outlook is based on a 12-month period, not just on the 4½ months that will follow the freeze.

The bulge could be even greater, depending on the effectiveness of Phase 4 and other wage-price actions, the department said.

The department's Outlook and Situation Board noted forecasts of record corn, wheat and soybean crops, but said the increase in supply could be offset by continued high domestic demands and the prospect of more grain exports.

Some members of Congress have suggested last year's exports, especially the $1-billion sale to the Soviet Union, resulted in a domestic shortage and higher food prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz acknowledged the exports had some effect on domestic prices.

But Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer-affairs adviser, denied in Pittsburgh Tuesday that exports brought higher prices.

She spoke of an "imaginary" food shortage and said supplies and prices should stabilize after the freeze on beef prices is lifted Sept. 12.

Meanwhile, beef supplies continued to dwindle. The American Meat Institute said the number of cattle slaughtered Monday was down to 75,000 head, compared with 118,000 during the same period a year ago.

In Chicago, the price of wheat bought for September delivery rose to $4.14 per bushel, and some analysts said traders are betting that demand will exceed supply, sending prices even higher.

The price of wheat has leaped 40 per cent in three weeks, and has almost tripled in the year since the massive sale to the Soviet Union.

The Cost of Living Council, meanwhile, released final regulations that will apply to much of the economy after the price freeze ends.

Serious crime dips slightly during 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serious crime in the United States fell 2 per cent last year for the first decrease in 17 years, Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said today.

Though the overall numbers dropped, the volume of violent crimes continued to increase but at rates somewhat less than in previous years, according to the FBI report released by Richardson and FBI director Clarence M. Kelley.

The 272-page volume of statistics is the annual edition of the FBI Uniform Crime Reports, containing final tabulations for 1972.

Richardson has said he considers the reports an inaccurate and incomplete measure of the crimes committed because they are based on data from state and local police officials.

In its report, the FBI agreed that many crimes go unreported but said the compilation offers at least some measure of crime trends.

The report defines serious crime as murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny $50 and over, and auto theft.

The total reported for 1972 was 5,891,900, compared with 5,995,200 for 1971.

Violent crimes, which totaled 828,100, reflected an overall 2 per cent increase over 1971.

Rape increased by 11 per cent, the same as in the previous year. Murder was up 5 per cent and assaults 7 per cent, less than increases recorded for those crimes in the past five years.

Auto thefts dropped 6 per cent, the largest decline of any single category. FBI officials have attributed the decrease to the efficiency of computerized listing of stolen vehicles and to the effectiveness of steering wheel locks.

Robbery, burglary and larceny all reportedly declined, reversing previous trends.

The FBI said serious crime declined 8 per cent last year in cities of more than 250,000, reversing a trend reflected in the 2 per cent increase in 1971 and the 18 per cent boost in 1968.

But outside the cities, crime continued to rise. It was reported up 2 per cent in the suburbs and 4 per cent in rural areas.

In another breakdown, the FBI said there were 2,829 crimes for each 100,000 U.S. residents last year.

Skylab mission expected to last full 59 days

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — With Skylab 2's astronauts finally settled into an orbital routine, space agency officials have expressed confidence that the mission can go the full 59 days.

"The worst may be over," one official said Tuesday in looking back on the astronauts' illnesses and technical problems that plagued the flight during its first 11 days.

The three crewmen, Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, planned a day of experiments today with their solar telescopes, medical devices and earth resources photosensors.

Garriott, the first solar physicist in space, finally got his long-awaited chance to exercise the solar telescopes on Monday—a task delayed a week because of the earlier problems.

His observations are expected to add a new dimension to the study of the sun, its source of power and how it affects weather and communications on earth.

Flight Director Milton Windler expressed confidence about completing the mission and said the astronauts would spend part of each day during the coming week in troubleshooting numerous problems still outstanding.

The most serious problem is with two steering rockets on the Apollo command ship which is to ferry the astronauts back to earth on Sept. 25. Experts feel the Apollo can safely do the job, but until they fully understand the trouble, they have as a precaution ordered launch crews at Cape Kennedy to prepare a rescue rocket and spaceship.

Crews are working around the clock, and the rescue ship is scheduled to be ready for launch on Sept. 10, or shortly after, if it is needed.

Other problems include a leak in a cooling system, a short circuit which burned out electrical wiring in one telescope television system, and a balky, but useable, device which removes moisture from the cabin air.

Deputy marshal sues Ross County Judge Ratcliff

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A deputy U. S. marshal here is suing a federal judge for $250,000 for allegedly throwing him in jail illegally following a courtroom quarrel July 24.

Herbert A. Caddell filed the suit in U. S. District Court here Tuesday claiming Ross County Common Pleas Court Judge J. Donald Ratcliff interfered with the performance of his duties and defamed his reputation.

The suit said Caddell was assigned to serve a summons on Judge Ratcliff in connection with a civil suit filed by a prison inmate.

The judge refused to accept the summons, the suit said, and after a quarrel the judge ordered Caddell arrested and placed in jail.

Nearly four hours later, Ratcliff ordered Caddell released, then "falsely and laiciously" told newsmen the marshal had been discourteous and lacked manners in the performance of his duties, the suit said.

Probe alleged Agnew payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tightening the lid on its investigation, the Justice Department has refused to comment on a report that Spiro T. Agnew received $50,000 from private contractors after he became vice president.

The report was carried today by the Knight newspaper chain, which quoted sources as saying federal prosecutors have been told that contractors paid Agnew $1,000 a week over a period of years, and the $50,000 sum after he was elected vice president.

In a story from its Washington bureau, the newspaper chain quoted the source as saying some of the contributions may have been put to Agnew's personal use.

The Justice Department has acknowledged only that Agnew is the subject of a criminal investigation, a fact disclosed Monday night by the vice president himself. He proclaimed his innocence and said he would not comment further.

No charges have been filed against the vice president, and the case, being investigated by U.S. Atty. George Beall of Baltimore, has not been referred to a grand jury.

The investigation involves allegations of bribery, extortion and tax evasion growing out of kickbacks allegedly paid by building contractors and engineers to Maryland and Baltimore County political figures.

Republican fund-raising efforts also are involved, but Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has decided against referring the case to Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

However, Samuel Dash, chief counsel for the Senate Watergate committee, says the panel may investigate the case if fund-raising for last year's presidential election is involved. The committee is empowered to investigate any wrongdoing in connection with the election.

The investigation was started last January, and originally was aimed at political corruption in Baltimore County, where Agnew got his political start.

As a result of the probe, William E. Fornoff, the Baltimore County administrative officer since 1957, pleaded guilty two months ago to a minor tax charge and was granted immunity from further prosecution.

He admitted in court that he funneled cash payments from contractors to an unidentified county official beginning in 1967. Agnew had been elected Baltimore County executive in 1962 and became Maryland governor in 1966.

Fornoff said Tuesday that in no way had he implicated Agnew.

The Knight Newspapers story said Jerome B. Wolff, a Baltimore County consultant, "has given federal prosecutors details of alleged payments to Agnew amounting to $1,000 a week."

The story said Beall and his task force, which includes Internal Revenue Service agents, are investigating allegations that:

—About $1,000 a week was contributed to Agnew by contractors from 1962 until 1966, and after he was elected governor.

—A contractor gave Agnew $50,000 in 1970 or 1971 for past and possibly future favors. Agnew became vice president on Jan. 20, 1969.

—Agnew campaign fund-raisers solicited contributions from contractors in exchange for state and federal contracts.

Watergate panel hears Petersen, goes into recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angrily, his voice at times squeaking, Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen poured out his resentment at losing control of the Watergate case to a special prosecutor.

"Damn it, I think it is a reflection on me and the Department of Justice," said Petersen, who rose from messenger to major-domo in 26 years in the department.

Following Petersen's testimony, the Senate Watergate committee recessed Tuesday to an indefinite date after the congressional summer recess ends on Sept. 5. The committee has heard 35 witnesses since it began its televised hearings May 17, but still has not quite finished the first — the Watergate — phase of its three-pronged investigation of presidential campaign practices.

Meanwhile, the committee's chief counsel, Samuel Dash, said the panel was about ready to file its lawsuit asking a federal judge to order President Nixon to supply the committee with tapes and documents relating to Watergate. He said the suit will be filed by Thursday.

Nixon, through his attorneys, told a U.S. District Court judge Tuesday that the courts have no authority to force him to turn over the material in a similar suit, filed by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

After Petersen erupted in anger over losing the investigation to Cox, he apologized to the committee.

"Excuse my emotions but I have been there too long and this has been a terrible year," he said.

Petersen took charge of the investigation hours after five men were arrested inside Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate complex June 17, 1972.

As head of the criminal division, he supervised the three young prosecutors who gained convictions of the five burglars and two former White House aides — G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Then, when new breaks in the case implicated higher-ups last April, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst was forced out of the case, and later out of office, because some of the accusations were leveled against his friends. Petersen began reporting directly to the President.

But within weeks the new attorney general, Elliot L. Richardson, fulfilled a promise to the Senate and named Cox as an independent special prosecutor to take over the case.

"You will excuse me, I have to get something off my chest," Petersen told the Watergate committee.

"I resent the appointment of a special prosecutor. Damn it, I think it is a reflection on me and the Department of Justice.

"We would have broken that case wide open and we would have done it in the most difficult of circumstances. And do you know what happened? That case was snatched out from under us when we had it 90 per cent complete ..."

Petersen said the prosecutors suspected all along that some cover-up was underway among officials of the Nixon campaign committee.

"There were no records. Things were destroyed. They didn't act like innocent people. Innocent people come in and say, 'Fine, what do you want to know?' It was not like that."

He said he hadn't suspected ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III. And until Dean's accusations, Petersen said he had only one run-in about the case with Ehrlichman, when the then chief presidential domestic adviser tried to order him to quit bothering Nixon campaign finance chief Maurice H. Stans.

After that incident, Atty. Gen. Kleindienst told Ehrlichman he might be accused of trying to obstruct justice. Kleindienst told the committee Tuesday. Kleindienst said he told Ehrlichman to stop meddling in the investigation, and threatened to resign if the President authorized Ehrlichman to give direct orders to the Watergate investigators.

Petersen said he thought that was

Deaths, Funerals

CHARLES H. WOODROW — Funeral services were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Parrett Funeral Home for Charles H. Woodrow, 66, with the Rev. Dale Orihood, of the Church of the Nazarene, officiating. Mr. Woodrow died Saturday.

George Grace sang two hymns accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Wallace. Pallbearers for the burial in White Oak Cemetery were Drexel Hynes, Gary Mickle, Ralph Blondell, Robert Haines, John Woodrow and Robert Campbell.

Seek child heard crying over radio

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — An air and ground search continued today for an unidentified child whose cries for help were picked up by ham radio operators on both coasts.

"We heard the little boy crying and screaming. He was hysterical and wanting help and he said his father was dead," said Mrs. Darlene Ross of Fontana, Calif., the citizens band radio operator who first reported the distress calls to New Mexico State Police late Tuesday.

Officers said Mrs. Ross reported the distress calls at about 6:30 p.m. Radio operators in Florida and Mississippi, as well as throughout New Mexico, also reported hearing the plea for help.

A state police spokesman said the calls continued until at least 2 a.m., but "the transmission was very poor and getting weaker."

The spokesman said the child could be "a minimum of about five years old or as old as 10."

He said the boy, who has given no indication of his name or location, "could be anywhere in New Mexico, or anywhere at all for that matter.

The spokesman said the boy apparently was unfamiliar with the equipment and was going from channel to channel, with transmissions reported on at least six channels during the night.

Mrs. Ross reported that the boy said only that he was in New Mexico.

Highway patrol post shaken up at Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — The Chillicothe State Highway Patrol Post has a new commander and assistant commander after the disciplinary transfer last week of five patrol officers.

The new commander is Myron C. Benson, formerly of the Fremont Post, and the new sergeant is Michael D. Hosler, of Elyria.

District commander Capt. Roger Wilson said former post commander Lt. Bruce Scholl and Sgt. W. D. Adams were transferred for failure to maintain control over their men during a party for another patrolman.

Wilson said patrolmen R. W. Doak, W. M. Wilburn, and L. Van De Wissell were transferred, and a fourth patrolman, Harland Chase was dismissed over the incident.

Viet Cong claim many prisoners

PARIS (AP) — A Viet Cong spokesman said today the South Vietnamese government still holds more than 200,000 political prisoners and the United States is financing "the penitentiary regime."

The statement was made by Dinh Ba Thi, a spokesman for delegates of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government. He addressed a news conference after the 20th meeting between Viet Cong and South Vietnamese government delegates trying to reach a political settlement for South Vietnam.

Meter maid tags sheriff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sheriff Raymond Percich discovered the law in St. Louis, at least where overtime parking is concerned, applies equally to all citizens.

In a hurry when he arrived Tuesday for work, Percich parked at a meter on the street rather than in the parking lot, putting nickels in the meter and his sheriff's sign in the car window.

When he came out for lunch, a $3 overtime parking ticket was on his windshield.

Corralling the meter maid, Percich said he pointed to city vehicles parked at expired meters without tickets, to no avail. Percich said he even called the Parking Meter Division to argue over a city counselor's opinion that the sheriff can be ticketed for overtime parking.

"And while I was on the phone, she (the meter maid) had put another ticket on my car," Percich said.

Both sides said there was no progress in today's talks.

just a mistake in judgment by Ehrlichman, not part of a cover-up.

Petersen and Kleindienst added some details to what already had been told.

Petersen said that five days after the Watergate raid, realizing the possibly explosive political implications, he urged that the President publicly order Kleindienst "to run an all-out investigation and let the devil take the hindmost."

But he added, "Unfortunately, we never heard anything from the President." Instead, Dean told them he had been appointed to keep Nixon informed of the investigation.

2nd court fight set over tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon faced the possibility of a new court challenge today just 24 hours after his lawyers filed a lengthy brief supporting his refusal to give White House tapes to Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Samuel Dash, chief counsel of the Senate Watergate committee, said the committee is "almost ready to file" its suit asking a federal judge to declare that it has a legal right to subpoena from the President documents relevant to its investigation.

In a brief filed Tuesday with U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, lawyers for the President argued that the court lacks authority to enforce Cox's subpoena demanding the tapes of nine presidential conversations. The special prosecutor has called the tapes "important evidence" in the Watergate case.

On July 23, both Cox and the committee served the President with subpoenas demanding tapes of specific conversations. He refused.

Cox immediately asked Sirica to order Nixon to say why he was not complying with the subpoena and the President filed his response Tuesday.

Sirica gave Cox until Aug. 13 to respond, in turn, to Nixon's response. He also scheduled oral arguments in the case for 10 a.m., Aug. 22.

The committee, meanwhile, has not yet acted on its decision to file a similar suit against Nixon seeking court clarification. However, Dash said now that the committee knows what to expect in the way of response from Nixon, it will go ahead and file its suit.

The presidential brief was the work of Charles Alan Wright, professor of constitutional law at the University of Texas, who is expected to present the oral arguments in the case. Cox, former U.S. solicitor general, plans to argue the case for his office.

The Nixon brief contends that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers leaves the courts powerless to enforce a subpoena.

But it asserted that although the presidential tapes are being withheld, Nixon "has been and will be making available" to Cox "documentary evidence" pertaining to the Watergate case.

However, a spokesman for the special prosecutor said a White House file in the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. antitrust case requested by Cox has not yet been made available. Ten days ago Cox disclosed that he had requested the file.

Discount gasoline stations eyed

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Already pinched by the nationwide fuel shortage, independent discount gasoline stations are facing another troublesome economic fact of life: direct competition from outlets owned by the major oil companies.

Major oil firms in the past few years have entered the discount-station market with increasing frequency, opening outlets featuring catchy names, cut-rate prices and gasoline generally comparable to that sold in their brand-name stations.

The trend has raised serious questions about the ability of the small, independent gasoline station to survive, especially since oil and gasoline will be harder and harder to come by.

The practice also has caught the eye of the Justice Department.

Justice sources said a probe is under way to determine whether the major oil companies are violating federal antitrust laws by opening more discount stations. The laws are murky in this area, especially since consumers are benefiting by lower prices.

But one Justice source said the department is concerned that independent stations will be forced out of business by the majors' cut-rate, secondary brands.

He raised the question of whether all discount stations would then vanish, leaving the consumer with no alternative to higher-priced major brands.

But major oil companies defend the practice, saying they are beginning to get into an area cornered long ago by independents, thus increasing, not inhibiting, competition.

Sensitive to charges that they can supply their discount stations much easier than the independents, the major oil companies, at least during the present gasoline shortage, have decided against opening any new discount stations.

There is no official count nationally of discount stations owned by the major oil firms. Most estimates put the number at a few thousand.

The majors' outlets have numerous names. Exxon has 28 Alert stations and two more under construction, most of them along the East Coast.

Phillips Petroleum, which began its discount program years ago, has 700 discount stations with such names as Blue Goose, Blackjack, Excel, Red Dot, Bonanza and Seaside.

Shell has Ride stations, Atlantic Richfield has Award, and Standard of Ohio has Gas-N-Go.

Mobil has 29 Sello stations in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, all run by salaried operators.

Although the overall quality of gasoline at Sello is not the same as that sold in Mobil stations, the spokesman said, regular and premium grades with octane ratings "competitive with other nonmajor marketers in the area" are sold.

The quality of the gasoline elsewhere is substantially that of the brand name stations, according to several industry spokesmen, but usually contains fewer additives.

Rechargeable pacemakers used

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Helen Chambers, a 77-year-old grey-haired Baltimore resident, recharges her implanted cardiac pacemaker "while I'm reading, or watching TV, crocheting, or doing embroidery."

Robert Frazier, a 33-year-old athletic looking amateur weightlifter, sometimes recharges his "while I'm sleeping or watching TV."

Mrs. Chambers and Frazier, both of whom have serious heart conditions, are two wearers of the world's first rechargeable pacemakers. The devices, implanted beneath their chest skins, are recharged weekly by the patient themselves.

They do so by first donning small "vests." They then plug wires from small chairside boxes into regular house electric outlets.

The box sends current to a small recharging coil attached to the vest over the implanted pacemaker, which is linked to the heart by a wire.

The coil converts the current to a magnetic field. This is transmitted through the patient's intact skin and recharges the battery of the implanted pacer. A yellow light flashes on the chairside box and a warning-buzzer sounds if the pacer is not being properly charged.

The two Baltimore patients told Tuesday about the do-it-yourself recharging process at a news conference called by scientists of the Johns Hopkins University, developers of the device.

Development of the pacemaker was first disclosed last May. The scientists said in a progress report that they have implanted pacemakers in five patients at the Baltimore hospital. They said nearly 50 other pacemakers have been manufactured and that most of these have been implanted and are working successfully in patients at a number of other American medical centers.

The new stainless steel pacemaker is about the size of a flat cigarette-lighter.

It was described as designed primarily to eliminate the need for surgical operations, every 18 months to two years, to replace run-down chemical batteries of conventional pacemakers.

More than 150,000 cardiac patients throughout the world wear the conventional type, including 60,000 Americans. The number of prospective American wearers grows by 10,000 every year. Most patients are over 60 years old but infants occasionally have been candidates.

Balloonist under way for Europe

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Bob Sparks directed his nine-story red, white and blue balloon toward Europe today in an effort to become the world's first transatlantic balloonist.

The weather was cloudy as Sparks, a 37-year-old resort recreation director, kissed his wife and children, then climbed into the aluminum gondola shortly after daybreak to begin his solo flight.

Nearly 1,000 spectators cheered as the helium-filled "Yankee Zephyr" soared into the sky from Bar Harbor Airport.

Sparks, of Tamiment, Pa., said he's aiming his craft for France, "but I'd consider anything from Finland to Italy a pinpoint landing." He said he expects the trip to take five days.

Sparks and his 20-man ground crew have been in Bar Harbor for the past three weeks, waiting for a meteorologist in New York to give the "go sign" when wind and weather conditions were right.

An experienced balloonist, Sparks has set a world record for hot-air soaring and has spent two years in preparation for the 3,200-mile flight.

Ohio Demos seek cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Democratic Party has $300,000 in a savings account but wants $2 million to run next year's campaign.

With a full-time staff of 23, the party organization is as strong as it has been in history. It hopes to benefit financially from a national Democratic party telethon Sept. 15.

State Chairman William A. Lavelle said the organization would keep half of the amount raised in Ohio.

Cambodia Reds blast radio station

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian insurgents attacked Phnom Penh's main international radio transmission center near the city's airport Tuesday night and blew up a major part of the installation, informed military sources reported.

The 100-man government force defending the station threw down their weapons and ran after the insurgents shouted to them to lay down their arms, the sources said.

The Communist force, estimated at 30 men, then occupied the main building without resistance and laid explosive charges in several radio rooms.

Seven troops hiding around the buildings were wounded by the explosions, the sources said.

Only the cable and radio circuits to Hong Kong were undamaged, the sources said.

The attack was reported earlier by the Cambodian government. It said seven government soldiers were wounded, there was some damage and international cable and telephone traffic was not interrupted.

It was the second attack in three months on the important installation at Kambol, about 11 miles west of the center of Phnom Penh.

U. S. bombers this morning began blasting areas around the airport where Communist insurgents were believed hidden. Smoke from the bombing billowed up behind the terminal as foreign passenger planes were landing.

Meanwhile, government forces were reported advancing against insurgent forces entrenched along Highways 1 and 3 south and southeast of Phnom Penh, while the rebels were pressing in toward the capital from the north and northwest.

A communique said government troops advanced more than three miles Tuesday down Highway 1. On Highway 3 the target was a concentration of insurgents dug in around the village of Kompong Tuol and along the banks of the Prek Thnot River.

U.S. bombing in the countryside in support of the government forces continued to shake Phnom Penh day and night.

Cambodian military sources reported eight persons killed and 16 wounded in the accidental U. S. bombing Tuesday of a government island in the Mekong River. The island, which was bombed by an F111 fighter-bomber, was six miles from Neak Luong, the naval base town in which an accidental B52 strike the day before killed 137 persons and wounded 118.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said the bombs that hit Tachor Island should have landed 1,800 feet away on the west bank of the Mekong. He said it appeared that the mistake may have been caused by an equipment malfunction.

Warm and humid weather remains in Ohio's weather picture for the next couple of days with possibly some relief in showers seen as a possibility Friday and Saturday.

The showers would come with a cold front associated with a low pressure area moving slowly eastward from Minnesota to Texas. The cold front is expected to move to a line from upper Michigan to Missouri by Thursday morning and continue eastward across the Great Lakes during the next couple of days.

A high pressure area now controlling Ohio's weather remains anchored along the East Coast. Skies were clear Tuesday night across the state and fog formed again in the valleys of southeastern Ohio. At dawn temperaturs were generally in the upper 60s and low 70s, and is expected to climb well into the 80s in the afternoon, and top the 90-degree mark in parts of central and southern Ohio.

Humidities will be rising gradually and cloudiness will show some increase tonight and Thursday, the Weather Service said.

Warm with a chance of showers or thundershowers Friday and Saturday, becoming fair Sunday. Highs from the mid 80s to low 90s. Lows from the mid 60s to low 70s.

Storm belt divides U.S. 'fair' zones

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms crackled from the Texas Panhandle to the northern Mississippi Valley today, dividing the country into two fair-weather zones.

Low clouds and fog marred fair skies on the Pacific Coast, and haze covered the northeastern quarter of the nation. Otherwise, mostly clear skies prevailed.

In the rainy belt, South Dakota's thunderstorms remained intense before dawn. Other thunderstorms were scattered from western Kansas to western Iowa and triggered severe weather as they churned eastward. Winds hit 50 to 60 miles per hour in central Kansas.

Troy, in extreme northeastern Kansas, was deluged with 2.40 inches of rain. St. Joseph, Mo., was drenched with 2.04 inches, and Salina, Kan., received 1.2 inches.

A tornado was sighted Tuesday night southeast of Fort Dodge, Iowa. No injuries were reported.

Lighter rain sprinkled parts of Florida, Michigan, Montana and New England.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 49 at Flagstaff, Ariz., to 90 at Needles, Calif.

Policemen reinstated

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Newark Safety Director Russell Payne announced Tuesday the 21 policemen fired for calling in sick had been reinstated under a complicated agreement worked out with their attorney.

The agreement acknowledges that the men were sick at the time, but also provides that they be reinstated under terms of the Ferguson Act, which bans strikes by public employes, Payne said.

Fire firm likes loss of business

By CLINT SWIFT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's third largest writer of fire insurance will do $1 million less business this year than last. No one is happier about it than the chairman of the board.

The happy loser is the Ohio FAIR Plan Underwriting Association, a group of more than 200 Ohio insurance companies that pooled their resources in 1968 to provide protection for businesses in run-down or riotprone urban areas.

The chairman is former state Insurance Commissioner William R. Morris, who says the decline in premiums means everything is going according to plan.

"We are very pleased that more and more of the businesses that found themselves unable to buy insurance in the long, hot summer of 1968 now can buy policies in the normal market," Morris said.

Ohio's FAIR plan was formed voluntarily the state's fire underwriters after catastrophic losses suffered during the riots of the mid-1960s.

Last year, the FAIR plan provided protection for 23,000 concerns with premiums totaling $4.5 million. With only a month to go in fiscal 1973, it appears that the association will write less than $3.5 million in premiums or about 20,000 policies.

Happiest about the decline in business are the member insurance companies which are selling the lost premiums themselves and who pay $140,000 a year to subsidize FAIR.

Last year, FAIR (which stands for Fair Access to Insurance Requirements) lost $746,-000 insuring firms in the state's designated high-risk areas. They are: Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Lima, Springfield, Toledo, Yellow Springs, Youngstown and Xenia Township in Greene County.

Arson has proved to be FAIR's biggest problem. Intentional fires cost the association more than $1 million in the last two years, mostly in Cleveland.

The FAIR plan's administrator, Richard P. Fogo, attributes the sharp decline in business to the recent calm on college campuses and inner cities and to increasing confidence on the part of insurance companies.

Fogo's staff, which last year numbered 24, will soon be down to 18.

"Some of our employes are wondering whether they have a stable employer," he smiled.

Dark figures mar agricultural forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The success or failure of Phase 4 will determine whether Americans will be facing a recession in January or looking back at "a temporary aberration" in the economy.

That was the long-range prediction Tuesday from the Agriculture Department's Outlook and Situation Board.

It forecast that prices in the grocery stores would average 20 per cent higher for all of 1973 than for 1972. It also predicted record crops in principal commodities, but with demand keeping pace with the reapers. And prices throughout the food sector will remain "strong," that is, high, said the board.

The economy's April-June performance was disturbing, said the board.

Inflation had been expected to slow during these months; instead, it increased slightly to a 6.8 per cent annual rate. Real growth had been expected to moderate "from the unsustainable 8.7 per cent annual rate" of January-March; but it plummeted to a 2.6 per cent rate.

The board looked at that, then turned around to look into the second half of 1973 and saw:

—Gross and net farm income at a record level and strong foreign and domestic demand keeping it well above previous levels.

—Corn and wheat produced at record levels. Demand will prevent an easing of price, however. And, with wheat, at least 52 per cent of the projected crop had been committed to export a month ago, when the reserves from last season carried over at a low level. With no decrease in demand, prices will average well above last year's $1.80-a-bushel average and reserves will end up at their lowest point in 22 years.

—The record soybean crop exceeding demand slightly, building a reserve in that increasingly important commodity.

—Milk and egg production both down and prices remaining high for those products, hogs and for vegetables.

—Cotton output falling close to a million bales short of satisfying demand. By a month ago, 4.7 million bales already were committed to export of a projected 12.2-million-bale crop.

—Livestock production about the same, in the face of increased demand.

"The outcome of recent policy actions will determine the timing and degree of future slowdowns in the economy," the board said. "The inflationary pressures are now confronted with Phase 4," and monetary-policy activities may help the stability of the dollar abroad.

"Whether the slowdown in the economy will lead to recession or whether the second quarter will be remembered as a temporary aberration caused by excessive first-quarter rates of growth will be greatly influenced by the success of these policies."

Cattle rustling worse in state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio beef industry is on the lookout for rustlers.

Reports of thefts at meat packing plants, storage houses and lockers are increasing, and several firms confirmed they have tightened security.

"I'm waiting here with a shotgun," said Ernest Kern of Kern and Hurley Packing Co., Piketon. The company caught two men last week trying to steal 1,200 pounds of beef.

More than $1,300 worth of beef was stolen from the firm a week ago, Kern said.

"I guess this'll keep up until people aren't so desperate any more," Kern said.

Two major meat packers in Cincinnati say they have taken new precautions in the last two months because of robberies, although not necessarily meat thefts.

"We took corrective measures about two months ago," one spokesman said. "We've doubled our locks and put bars on the windows."

Cleveland area packers said their burglar detection systems had proved adequate to deter thieves.

If housewives feel the price of beef on supermarket shelves is banditry, Ohio grocers found little evidence of it.

"You've got to be kidding," said Dahl Baer, who buys meat for Big Bear chain stores in Columbus.

"I'll guarantee you if we had the beef, they'd buy it. And I'll bet there's some farmers out there who aren't selling cattle just to spite housewives who joined in the last boycott."

Baer said he saw no local impact of a "Don't Buy Anything Day" which had been called for Tuesday by West Coast consumer groups.

Baer said the firm's warehouse, which normally holds up to a month's supply of aged beef, would be empty next week.

Actor Broderick Crawford to wed

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Veteran actor Broderick Crawford and Mary Alice Michel of Los Angeles plan to marry today in ceremonies at the St. Louis County Courthouse.

The 61-year-old actor and the 49-year-old widow applied for their license Tuesday in this St. Louis suburb.

The marriage will be the third for Crawford and the second for Mrs. Michel. The couple met in Hollywood.

Crawford just completed a six-week theater engagement in St. Louis County. He plays a grumpy policeman in the television series "Highway Patrol."

Horse shows and competitions evolved from the desire of hunt club members to compare their horses and riding skills.

Plane crash injures 3

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — "I don't know why they're alive," said Mrs. Richard L. Ottinger after a single engine plane buzzed over her bead and crashed in her back yard.

The three men in the plane, including two from Ohio, were in fair condition at Grasslands Hospital in Valhalla.

Mrs. Ottinger, wife of a former congressman, said Tuesday she was swimming in a pond on her heavily-wooded property when she heard an engine sputtering.

"It came in right over my head and crashed into the hill on the other side of the pond," she said.

An official at the Westchester County Airport, about 10 miles away, said the pilot radioed he was out of gas and the plane disappeared from the scope a moment later.

The men were identified as John Wells, 33, of Columbus, Ohio, the pilot; Kenneth Jackson, 56, of Worthington, Ohio and John Derbyshire, 45, of Skaneateles, N.Y.

Opinion And Comment

Campaign reform urgency

A new wave of election campaign reform, stimulated by the Watergate disclosures, has gotten off to a good start. The Senate has passed a bill which includes some tough restrictions and would create a federal election commission.

There is, however, some reason for concern lest the momentum die down so as to preclude final congressional action at this session. House committee hearings on the matter are not expected to begin until mid-September, so that the time for consideration and action is sharply limited.

There is some sentiment for waiting until the Senate Watergate committee offers its conclusions and recommendations. The committee's vice chairman, Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, has expressed this view, urging the Senate not to indulge in "an orgy of reforms without purpose or direction."

His colleagues were not moved by that argument, however: they acted, instead, in the spirit of the comment of Sen. Howard W. Cannon of Nevada that "I don't believe the American public is willing to wait."

One thing to bear in mind is that further changes can be made in the light of the Watergate committee recommendations when they come next year. In the meantime, the most should be made of the sense of urgency about campaign reform which pervades the American consciousness.

In this matter as in many others, the dictum holds true: Strike while the iron is hot.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by Bayard Rustin

Black progress or regress?

The controversy over how little or how much progress blacks have made has been obscured by absurdities.

President Nixon, for example, has announced the resolution of the urban crisis, and presumably the racial crisis as well. This is, of course, ridiculous, and demonstrates that the President's efforts to cover up his domestic failures are equally as feeble as his Administration's attempts to conceal its complicity in the Watergate scandals.

There are some liberals, however, who rival the President for inaccuracy by proclaiming that the civil rights laws and social programs of the 1960s were meaningless, and that blacks are as bad or worse off today as ever.

Reality lies somewhere between the President's assurances that all is well, and the pessimism and negativism of liberals. The social, economic and political progress of blacks during the 1960's was substantial and incontestable; furthermore much of that progress has persisted in the face of Nixon's abysmal, incoherent policies.

A RECENT STUDY by Richard Scammon and Ben Wattenberg, published in Commentary magazine, documents many of these gains. This article has provoked considerably criticism from black leaders largely because of the authors' assertion that the rate of progress has been sufficient to elevate the majority of blacks into the middle class.

The argument over whether most blacks have entered the middle class is largely irrelevant, although I feel it would be more accurate to say that most blacks are now part of what we generally consider the working class. I also think Scammon and Wattenberg neglected two important points: the revolution of aspirations in the black community and the fact that for those blacks who were by-passed by the progress so many others enjoyed, poverty and the cruelty of ghetto life have become both materially and psychologically more intolerable.

Nevertheless I consider the Scammon-Wattenberg article of considerable importance, particularly as it points out the importance of acknowledging the racial advancements of the '60s and understanding how this progress came about. Their point is simple, and has incalculable implications for the civil rights movement.

They believe that by insisting that the policies of liberalism have failed — that the housing programs, education programs, manpower efforts and expansionary economic policies have been unable to help those they were intended to help — liberals risk total public repudiation. To quote the authors, it is as if liberals were saying: "We have failed; let us continue."

A recent census report reinforces the conclusion of Scammon and Wattenberg that black progress is largely the result of liberal programs. Taken together, the Scammon-Wattenberg article and census studies reveal a pattern of steady advancement during the period between 1961 and 1969 — when Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were in office—and social stagnation in the years since the election of Richard Nixon.

Between 1959 and 1969 there was a substantial decrease in the racial earnings gap. Where black median income was 51 per cent of white income at the beginning of this decade, it stood at 61 per cent by the decade's conclusion. Since 1969, however, the earnings gap has actually increased to the point where the median black family income is only 59 per cent of that of whites.

In 1962, 12 million blacks, 56 per cent of all Negroes, lived below the federal poverty level; by 1969 the abolition of Jim Crow, expanding social programs, and economic policies that created thousands of jobs reduced the number of impoverished blacks to 7.6 million, or 31 per cent. Now, four years later, at least 100,000 more blacks live in poverty.

ONE MIGHT put forward numerous reasons for the blunting of black gains: The answer, however, follows directly from the job policies of the Nixon Administration. There is a historical correlation between black advancement and periods of high employment.

The years after World War II were one such period; the 1960s was another. An unemployment figure of 12.4 per cent in 1961 was cut in half by 1969; today black joblessness hovers around 10 per cent, and the situation is more depressing for teenagers, veterans and ghetto-dwellers.

The programs of the Johnson Administration were no panacea; they did not go far enough or reach enough people to satisfy the justifiably accelerating aspirations of black Americans. But if we are to press ahead with the struggle for a society that is equal and just, we must fully understand what enabled thousands to escape poverty.

If it is true that the programs of the 1960s contained flaws, it is also true that they contributed to a reduction of black unemployment of 400,000 workers and helped lift more than 4,000,000 people out of poverty.

Liberals have made mistakes; their rhetoric often outstrips their record. But the liberal program, from Roosevelt on down to Johnson, has brought a massive change in the condition of working people — black and white. By reminding us of this, Scammon and Wattenberg have made an important contribution to the future of social struggle.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — In setting forth his Phase IV guidelines for the economy, President Nixon stressed that the government must set an example in the area of fiscal responsibility.

The House recently demonstrated its willingness to cooperate in this important matter by defeating a bill which most certainly would have led to a substantial pay hike for members of Congress as well as for thousands of other employes in the three branches of the federal government.

The legislation would have authorized that the review and adjustment of executive, legislative and judicial salaries be conducted at two-year intervals as opposed to the present four year intervals. It also would have moved up the date of such salary recommendations to Aug. 31 of each review year.

There was very little doubt, however, that had this legislation passed a pay raise would have been recommended for this fall.

I WAS completely opposed to the proposal. After two devaluations of the dollar and a national debt approaching one-half trillion dollars, this is certainly not the time to be raising congressional salaries. Moreover, while the exact sum of the raise was not known, it would have been somewhere in the vicinity of $10,000 to $12,500 per year. This would have been well above the 5.6 per cent limitations of the Phase IV guidelines.

Not only the magnitude of the sum, but also the fact that we would have been left totally in the dark as to the exact amount of the raise concerned me deeply. I believe there should be some public disclosure as to the final figure on the raise before Congress should enact legislation setting the stage for the pay hike, particularly when the taxpayers would be footing the bill.

MOREOVER, during these times of inflation and high costs of government, there is no justification for Congress to vote itself a pay raise reportedly six times above the current guidelines.

I do not see how the Congress could ask the rest of the country to hold down demands for wage increases to a mere 5 or 6 per cent and then vote to increase its own pay by an amount considerably larger than this. Such an abandonment of responsibility would have fostered a most unpalatable double standard in government.

Some proponents of the legislation argued that an increase of $10,000 to $12,500 for members of Congress would not inflict much damage on the federal budget. However, recommendations are expected to also be made for pay raises for several thousands of high officials of the three branches of government.

In all likelihood, then, if salaries of members of Congress were raised $12,500 per year, ultimately more than a million federal employes would have their pay raised by an average of $5,000 per year. This would amount to a cost of $5 billion annually out of the taxpayers' pocket.

THIS IS NO paltry figure, and I believe it could be put to better use in other federal programs where more money is needed. I coult cite the water pollution control programs specifically, and a host of other health, education, housing and domestic programs. In comparison, the highway safety programs which I have proposed and which could save upwards of 10,000 lives annually, for example, would cost under a billion dollars per year.

Under these circumstances, how anyone could advocate a 30 per cent congressional pay raise on the grounds that it would not be inflationary or detrimental to the economy is simply preposterous. With prices soaring, every sector of the economy must make major sacrifices to help combat inflation.

In my mind, this certainly does not exclude top salary levels of the federal government. If Congress expects the rest of the nation to comply with Phase IV, it should be willing to do likewise.

Burr Oak park closing explained

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan's decision to close the lodge at Burr Oak State Park because of violence and threats of disruptive activity was made with public safety in mind and despite the loss of state revenues, the director of the state Department of Natural Resources says.

"We are certain all, with the apparent exception of Ohio Inns, would agree with Gov. Gilligan that the safety of the vacationing public and it being able to enjoy a hard-earned vacation free from threats of violence is the matter which is of the highest concern in this unfortunate and unnecessary situation," William B. Nye said.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

59-year-old fiance wants a bridal shower

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm actually writing a "Dear Abby" letter, but a friend has just put me on the spot, and I don't know how to handle it.

Sarah is a 59-year-old widow who "fell in love" with a 72-year-old widower she met on a cruise last winter. They are being married soon. She was just here and is as excited as a teen-ager. I think she's flipped her lid. She wants a bridal shower! Abby, Sarah has everything she needs, and she can afford to buy anything she wants, but she insists it's not the gifts, it's just the idea of having a shower.

She said when she was married the first time things were rough, and she never had a shower, and now she'd like one. Sarah is such a dear and generous person and I hate to let her down, but Abby, how can I invite women to a bridal shower for a 59-year-old bride who has everything?

ON THE SPOT IN PASSAIC

DEAR ON: Easy. Make it a gag gift shower. Ask everyone to bring a cute little inexpensive present for the 59-year-old bride of a 72-year-old groom. The possibilities are endless. (Also hilarious.)

DEAR ABBY: There's this dude named Nicky I really dig. We are both nearly 16. The other night I called Nicky up because he was home just getting over (of all things) the chicken pox!

The time passes so fast I didn't realize we'd talked for four hours, but this is what I want to say. Nicky said: "Hey, wait a minute, I think somebody's at the front door." Then he came back and said: "My dad is out of town on business and he's been trying to call the house for four hours, and he got so ticked off he called our next door neighbor long distance and asked him to come over here and tell whoever was on the phone to get the h—— off!" Naturally, we got off fast, and here's the problem.

Nicky's dad put Nicky on restrictions for a whole month: That means we can't go anyplace. Do you think this is a fair punishment for a little thing like that?

FEELS AWFUL

DEAR FEELS: It's a bit stiff. But I'll bet in the future, Nicky either gets his own telephone, or limits his conversations to 10 minutes.

DEAR ABBY: My grandson has been engaged to a lovely girl for a year and they are now making wedding plans. He is 24, and she is 22.

I know that both my grandson and his fiance would like more than anything in the world to go on a nice honeymoon, but they can't afford it because they have been buying appliances and household furnishings together.

I told him to let his friends and relatives know that they would rather have a donation toward their honeymoon than a lot of wedding presents, but he says he just couldn't tell them that as it would sound cheap.

What do you think?

GRANDMA

D E A R GRANDMA: He's right. He can't ask for money instead of gifts, but as his grandmother, you could suggest it to the relatives.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL L. SMITH

Miss Oesterle, Mr. Smith are united in marriage

Miss Melanie Sue Oesterle became the bride of Daniel Lee Smith in a candlelight ceremony in the United Methodist Church in New Holland. The Rev. Frank Allen White and Rev. Fr. David M. Schulder of Chillicothe performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. July 21. Miss Oesterle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard L. Oesterle Sr. of New Holland, and the granddaughter of Mrs. J. W. Morris and Mrs. Kenneth Oesterle Sr. also of New Holland. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Smith, 502 Edgemont Rd., Newark.

Two seven-branched candelabra decorated with greenery and multi-colored ribbon, and two baskets filled with white gladioli and multi-colored Majestic Daisies enhanced the altar. The pews were marked by multi-colored ribbons and greenery. Arrangements of daisies and fern with white candles were placed in the windows. Mrs. Charles Dinkler of Jeffersonville, organist, presented a half-hour of music.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza. Long full sleeves ended in wide bands of lace fastened at the wrist. Embroidered lace motiffs were on the bodice and the A-line skirt had a miniature pleated train. She wore a chapel length veil of silk illusion and matching lace. The bride carried a Colonial bouquet of miniature white Fuji mums and carnations and baby's breath centered with pink sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Penny Hardman was maid of honor. She wore an orchid formal length Victorian style gown of polyester with bright green and white flowers which featured a standup collar, long full sleeves with single ruffle and bright green ribbon entwined in lace at the empire waist. Also the bride fashioned parasols for her attendants matching their gowns with garlands of Majestic daisies and baby's breath, tied to parasol with matching ribbons. She also presented each with a gold bracelet.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Lawrence Woods of Columbus, sister of the bride. Her gown was identical to the maid of honor only in pink. Miss Sandra Smith of Newark, sister of the groom, wore a yellow gown, and Miss Dianne Oesterle, sister of the bride, wore pink. Miss Debora Morris of Williamsport, cousin of the bride, wore mint green.

Mrs. Oesterle chose for her daughter's wedding a street-length crepe dress of navy and white, with white accessories. She wore a corsage of red sweetheart roses. Mrs. Smith chose a blue and white floral dress with white accessories, and a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

The grandmothers wore white carnation corsages.

Warren Trakas of Bainbridge, served as best man. Groomsmen were William Hamburger, Richard Southworth of Chillicothe, David Smith, brother of the groom, and Maynard Oesterle, brother of the bride.

Hostesses for the reception which followed in Fellowship Hall were Miss Kathleen Morris of Washington C. H., Mrs. Charles Queen, sister of the groom, Mrs. Dick Downs of Mt. Sterling, and Miss Lori Brenner of Dayton, cousins of the bride.

At the guest book were Miss Cheryl Queen, of Chillicothe, niece of the groom, Miss Mary Ellen Oesterle, sister of the bride.

The buffet styled table was centered with a yellow and white floral arrangement. Invited guests served themselves to a variety of fruit dishes and salads, cheeses, finger sandwiches, nuts, punch and coffee.

Women's roles changing in Japan

By KEN YOSHIDA
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — American novelist Pearl Buck, in one of her books, once asked her Japanese secretary whether she put up with the Japanese men's habit of visiting bars after work.

The secretary replied yes. She said she even waited up for her husband coming home in the wee hours in the morning — without nagging him.

She then told Pearl Buck that she complained at first, but no longer because "he did not come home at all."

Those good old days for men are quickly fading away.

Today, few Japanese women believe in the "three canons of womanhood": Obey your father while still at home unmarried, obey your husband in marriage and obey your son after being widowed.

Most married Japanese women still refer to their husbands as "Shujin" (master), and men to their wives as "Kanai" (one-in-the-house). Young girls attend bridal schools to take lessons in flower-arranging, tea ceremonies, dressmaking or homemaking or, usually, a combination of some of them, so that they can perform wifely duties well. And female employes are often to serve tea to their male colleagues or supervisors.

A far cry from the turn of the century, however, people no longer frown upon the men washing clothes, preparing dinner or carrying babies. Opportunities for higher education are shared by men and women alike, although only one out of every four college students is a coed.

Although housewives account for fully 26 per cent of all female Japanese, many others have come out of their kitchen confines to engage in activities traditionally in the domain of men.

There are 10,420 women in administrative jobs, more than 528,000 female technologists, 58,000 professionals, 36,000 factory owners, 78,000 company executives and 429,000 shop operators. The Japan Women's Medical Association claims membership of 4,500 and estimates there may be as many nonmember female doctors in the country. There are 257 women lawyers and 657 women professors.

Women also have gained prominence for 48,000 of the nation's 362,000 crimes in 1971. There are frequent reports of women killing their babies or abandoning them. Two years ago, a 27-year-old woman led a bizarre kangaroo court which sentenced 12 members of the United Red Army to death and executed them in a mountain hideout.

The number of divorces has almost doubled in the past 10 years to an estimated 110,000 last year, the increase being largely attributed to rising women's power at home and is society.

One of the most visible of the changes is Japan's policewomen.

The Japanese government hired 63 policewomen for the first time in 1946. The number has now increased to 1,500 across the country.

The metropolitan police have assigned 800 of their 1,100 policewomen to traffice control and the rest to guiding juvenile delinquents, guarding prisoners or patrolling for female pickpockets. They have even posted 15 women at police boxes on Tokyo's busy street corners.

Surprisingly in a supposedly male-dominated country, many policewomen deny they have encountered any difficulty in dealing with male criminals or traffic violators.

"I think we have gained a reputation of being tougher than our male colleagues," Fumiko Niki, one of the two female officers at the metropolitan police, said recently. "Some drivers are scared of us."

Miss Mitsuko Ikeda, a chubby, mini-skirted 20-year-old policewoman, agrees.

"I have been giving tickets, booking traffic violators and criminals and controlling traffic." she said. "But even a drunken man didn't tease me."

Some drivers commented that policewomen are usually inflexible "and can get quite sticky if you try to get away with your violation."

It was Pearl Buck's observation that Japanese women have ceased to be subdued, withdrawn or silent — as were the women she knew before the war. The late Nobel laureate may have underestimated the changes.

Charms are popular

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IN SOME PARTS of the world, people still wear charms to ward off the evil eye, but in the U.S.A. charms are popular for more enchanting reasons. They're worn to commemorate special occasions — births, birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, graduations, promotions. Sometimes, they're chosen because they symbolize a hobby or special interest. Charms were once collected on bracelets but the latest fad is to wear them on a chain.

Wells, Inc., the largest manufacturer of sterling silver charms, catalogs 650, and that covers a lot of occasions and special interests.

For animal lovers, for example, there are bird and animal charms — dog and cat, of course, but also such exotic animals as the tiger and alligator.

Wedding and anniversary motifs are numerous, including everything from a movable ball and chain or handcuffs to a wedding ring, marriage license or champagne bucket. The best-selling charms of all are a boy's head and a girl's head, often engraved with Baby's birth date.

Other charm categories include: hobbies, housewives, grandmother, medical, military, musical, nautical, and travel,.

Who buys charms?

"Women from 18 to 30 buy 43 per cent of the charms sold," said Larry Ronco of Wells, Inc. "while teenagers account for 23 per cent of sales. Charms sell best seasonally at Christmas, Valentine's Day, graduation and Mother's Day. They appeal because they can commemorate an occasion in a very personal way."

And that's for sure! A charm bracelet or chain can tell a story via charms that symbolize the special events of a lifetime.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — That three-network fall fandango called "premiere week" won't start until Sept. 10, but the campaigns urging us to watch new and returning shows already are moving into high gear on television.

"Come and See NBC '73," says that network, which in 1972 roared: "This Fall, NBC Has It All." ABC's 1973 slogan, a slightly revamped version of last year's model, says: "This is the Place to Be—on ABC."

And CBS, which last year campaigned on "Have We Got a Fall For You," is marching this season with "This Year, Like Last Year, the Best is Right Here on CBS." It's even tossed in a bouncing ball to help you follow the words on the television screen.

The barrage of 30-second and one-minute cheers—they're called "promos" in the trade— all feature large orchestras, film and videotape flashes of coming shows and end with the general campaign slogans.

Come the start of the new season, the campaigns will get specific, giving capsule descriptions of the night's new shows and often including brief scenes from coming first-run programs.

This annual drumbeating almost was muffled this year by a 16-week Hollywood writers' strike that didn't end until July. It halted production on many new and returning shows.

NBC and ABC officials say it also delayed promotion efforts for those shows, but not seriously. The campaigns got under way the last week in July, about a week later than usual, they said.

However, Louis Dorfsman, a vice president in charge of the CBS promotion effort, says the strike had almost no effect on his campaign, mainly because it was divided into two phases.

Phase 1, he said, began the last week of June and was heavily played throughout July. It touted no shows but rather CBS' claim that Nielsen ratings show it to be the most-watched network—during prime evening hours—for 17 consecutive years.

"It's a 'tradey' kind of statement the sales department occasionally uses," he said. "Well, I took it and said, 'Damn it, that's just too good to let waste.'"

The campaign consisted of six 30-second spots in which he took what he calls "nutty world records that deal with duration"—the longest Charleston dance (27 hours), the faceslapping record (31 hours) and so forth—and matched them against CBS' 17-year claim.

The actors portraying the record-holders all swooned and collapsed upon learning of CBS' title. The idea, Dorfsman says, was to make the point with a few laughs while remaining low-key about it.

"My theory is, how could people not want to go to No. 1," he says. "People naturally gravitate to winners."

Phase 2, which began early this month, directly emphasizes the coming season with brief glimpses of the new shows.

Hoffa plans Lucasville prison tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Teamsters boss James Hoffa, who spent 58 months in a federal prison for jury tampering, will talk with inmates Thursday at the troubled Ohio prison at Lucasville.

Hoffa said he had letters from inmates saying prisoners had been stripped and locked up 24-hours a day after two guards were killed at the prison July 24.

He will be accompanied by C. Edward Lawrenson, director of the criminal reform movement of the National Association for Justice. Hoffa heads up the crisis control center of the NAJ.

Hoffa said he came to Columbus believing he could tour the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility Monday. He said he and Lawrenson had approval from Governor John J. Gilligan and prison officials to have unrestricted talks with guards and inmates.

Lawrenson said Dr. Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Ohio Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, told him the inspection would have to wait until Thursday when a shakedown of inmates is scheduled to be completed.

Although Hoffa said he would be impartial, he added, "It's unbelieveable that people would be stripped and locked into cells 24 hours a day."

Ohio Perspective

Assembly bills fall by wayside

By TERESA C. PITTS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 1,400 bills poured into Ohio's 110th General Assembly this session, but less than a sixth of them are expected to reach the governor's desk for signature or veto.

Gov. John J. Gilligan has signed 43 bills from this legislature to date and 20 more are being prepared for his action this week.

The bulk of the bills passed by the legislature—upwards of 200—probably won't be relayed to Gilligan until Aug. 14, designated as "signing day" by the legislature's adjournment bill.

The governor has 10 days to sign a bill or reject it. If he takes no action, it is known as a "pocket veto."

Since most major bills are compromise efforts, a surprise veto of important legislation would be rare, said Bob Tenembaum, the governor's press secretary.

The governor may veto "some minor bills," he said, "but why should he think about vetoing things when we're all rushing to get these things passed?"

Lawmakers, hoping to adjourn this week, have spent the last month in lengthy sessions and late-night committee hearings to clear up this year's business.

The paperwork involved in winding up a legislative session can be staggering, said Senate Clerk Harry V. Jump.

"We've been working day and night trying to get these bills printed, proofread and ready for signing."

The bills are held back until "signing day"—usually two weeks after the final gavel—so the House Speaker and President Pro Tem of the Senate can affix their signature to the bills all at the same time, Jump said.

The bills are then carried to the governor's office, where his staff checks them again for accuracy.

Approved bills are sent to the Secretary of State's Office for filing among the state statutes.

House and Senate leaders are notified of bills that have been vetoed, and may choose to call a special session to "out vote" the governor's decision, or wait until the next session convenes to take up the bills again.

10 balloonists to compete in State Fair race

It will be "Up, Up and Away" during the 6th annual 7-Up International Balloon Race at the 1973 Ohio State Fair.

Liftoff is set for 12-noon, Friday, August 31, from the infield area.

In making the announcement, Vic Lucas, general manager of the Ohio State Fair, noted that although balloon racing is a relatively new sport in this country, "the International Balloon Race at the Ohio State Fair is now the most continuously held race at one location that is officially sanctioned anywhere in the world."

Among the 10 entrants for the race will be Dennis Floder, of Flint, MI. Floder, currently U.S. National Champion, flies under the name of Captain Phineas Fogg, the hero of Jules Verne's "Around the World in 80 Days".

Also entered in the competition will be an entry from France called the "Paris Match," sponsored by the magazine of the same name.

Lucas added that the president of the Balloon Federation of England will be a special guest at the International Balloon Race.

The Ohio State Fair will be held Aug. 23 through Sept. 3.

Agents seize Vesco yacht

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami Herald says U.S. Customs agents have seized a yacht that apparently belongs to financier Robert L. Vescon who is under indictment with two former Nixon Cabinet officers on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

The Herald said the $1.4 million, 121-foot yacht Patricia III was seized last week when it berthed for repairs at a shipyard on the Miami River. A federal judge later ordered the vessel not to sail outside U.S. waters, the paper said.

The sailing injunction was issued by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Ward on a suit by attorneys for the International Controls Corp., who want the vessel as partial settlement of a $5 million claim against Vesco, a former manager of the firm, The Herald said.

Vesco, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans were indicted last May on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

Stans and Mitchell were accused of plotting to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco in return for $200,000 in contributions to President Nixon's reelection effort.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, AUG. 9

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A fair day. You can manage in better-than-average fashion, yet must take precautions neither to underestimate nor overevaluate new propositions.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

New and unusual ideas, thoughtfully presented, could bring added gains. A good period, also, for making long-range plans.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You can be very thrifty, or too extravagant; can indulge other extremes also, if not alert to this tendency now. Look for that "middle road" and stick to it.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Whether the unexpected arises or the going is "as usual," if day is well planned, you can fare well if continually on the alert. And DO ignore rumors.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Face realities and correct deficiencies as effectually as possible. Your innate foresight and good judgment should make this relatively easy.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be alert to intricacies if several people are concerned in your activities but don't overlook your own intuitive faculties in coping.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

An auspicious day for business ventures. This is a period in which to give your finest performance, to capitalize on your gift of good management.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Counting one's blessings makes every picture rosier, but DON'T count returns you have not and MAY NOT receive. Mixed influences; use care in all things.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Without much planetary assistance, you can still net top returns now but, before acting, plan well, be sure of facts and details, and DON'T procrastinate.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Important now: Common sense, logical analysis, ease of action. Regular business and work matters highly favored. Don't waste time on regrets.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Profit by past mistakes and by sound device. You have a wonderful chance for accomplishment but day needs the right push, steadiness.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Tangible gains indicated if you pursue work and handle obligations without unnecessary interruptions. Don't neglect the substantial for "flashy" but momentary gain.

YOU BORN TODAY are unusually independent and self-reliant; imaginative, competent in all your endeavors and magnetic of personality. Small packing firm falls victim

RUSHVILLE, Ill. (AP) — "The only way I could have hung on was to buy black market beef," says Ted Bartlow. "But I can't do it, I won't do it. I decided when this beef crisis started I'd rather close than resort to that."

Bartlow, with his brother Bill, is a partner in Bartlow Brothers, Inc., an independent meat packing firm that closed down this week.

They served small stores and supermarkets in towns with populations ranging from 100 to 3,000 and drew from a supply of beef and hogs produced by thousands of small farmers in a 100-mile area.

The closing of the plant and the loss of jobs for its 160 workers completed a chain of events that began at the end of May when Bartlow decided to halt his slaughtering operation.

"We had lost about $130,000 at the end of March, the end of our fiscal year," he says. "And we lost more than that during the next few months that followed."

Bartlow says it had come to the point where he was operating at a loss just to bring a hog to slaughter, without even touching the animal. The prices he paid per hundredweight became oppressive under the former Phase 3 limits of the Nixon administration's Economic Stabilization Program.

Bartlow's prices for processed meat were frozen at their March 29 levels. But the cost to him for livestock on the hoof continued to spiral.

"When you can't cover your overhead, something has to give," he said. That something was about one-third of his employes.

Bartlow says Phase 4 was the fatal blow to his business. He had hoped to keep going until the ceiling price on red meat was lifted Sept. 12, but he saw no way to recover the losses he had already incurred.

He may have to sell if there is a buyer available "when it's all over."

Bartlow feels the three greatest paradoxes to emerge from the situation are:

"How come the farmer is getting the highest prices in history for his livestock yet he is losing money? How come the average consumer today has more money in his pocket but can't buy? How come corporations are showing the greatest profits ever yet the stock market is so often depressed?"

He has no answer.

Hawaiian travelog tops Rotary Club's program

The Washington C. H. Rotary Club toured the nation's 50th state at their luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club via a travelogue type of program presented by Rotarian Howard Miller, who visited Hawaii last November.

Miller, one of the top photographers in Washington C. H., had a color-slide presentation complete with a taped commentary and Hawaiian background music.

The presentation opened with pictures of the gigantic Boeing 707 jetliner and covered the Honlulu area and surrounding beaches. Pearl Harbor, the U.S.S. Arizona Memorial and the many military cemeteries were featured. Miller explained that more than 21,000 soldiers are buried in one of the cemeteries.

Next were pictures of the skylines, hotels, the colorful orchids and banana trees. Miller explained it takes from eight to nine months for one of the banana trees to mature and produce fruit and after bearing the fruit, the tree is chopped down and the cycle starts again from the stump.

Miller noted the three major industries of the islands which are sugar cane, tourists and pineapples.

AT THE business meeting, conducted by President Phil Grover, Cindy Mustine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Bud) Mustine, spoke briefly on her recent trip to England under the Rotary exchange student program.

Katherine Garrett, a student from London, England, is currently visiting here under the same type of program and is staying with the Mustines.

Beth Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crosby, visited England with Miss Mustine, but was not present at the meeting. The Crosbys also are hosting a visitor from England.

Carolyn Miller, a student from Ohio State University, was the guest of Phil Grover at the meeting. Visiting Rotarians were Don Ray and Art Dick, both of Mount Sterling, Robert Head, of Greenfield, and Jerry Ardrey, of London.

Liquor enforcement conference slated

Fayette County Sheriff Don Thompson and an as yet unnamed city policeman will attend a liquor law enforcement conference next week in Worthington. They will be among police and sheriff's department representatives from 25 counties in attendance.

The three-day conference opens Tuesday morning at Green Meadows Country Inn. The purpose of the conference is to increase cooperation between local law enforcement agencies and the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

Organized crime's relationship to Ohio permit premises, the illicit manufacture of liquor and the importance of human relations in law enforcement will be among the topics discussed.

Former Viet POWs given assignments

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Nine former prisoners of war who were processed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base after their homecoming this spring, have been told to report for flying assignments.

They were among 19 of 30 POWs processed at the base who received duty assignments Tuesday.

The Air Force said the remaining 11 are on leave and still officially assigned to the base medical center.

Those who received flying assignments at Randolph AFB, Texas, were: Capt. Robert A. Abbott, Lt. Col. William J. Breckner Jr., Capt. Hubert E. Buchanan, Capt. Jack M. Butcher, Maj. Burton W. Campbell, Lt. Col. David H. Duart, Capt. William J. Henderson and Maj. Cowan C. Nix.

Capt. Edward J. Mechenbier received a flying assignment to Wright-Patterson, the Air Force said.

Ten of the veterans received scholastic assignments, the Air Force said. They were: Col. Robert R. Sawhill, Lt. Col. William J. Baugh, Col. Ronald E. Byrne Jr., Lt. Col. Willard S. Gideon, Col. James H. Kasler, Maj. Donald L. Heiliger, Capt. Mark J. Ruhling, Maj. Joseph F. Shanahan and Lt. Col. Robert B. Purcell.

The 19th returnee, 1st Lt. Robert M. Hudson, was assigned to Offutt AFB in Nebraska, the Air Force said.

MEAL MAKERS — Edith Parsons, left, and Mary Creed prepare meals to be delivered via the Meals on Wheels Program to Fayette County residents who are unable to prepare their own. Persons who wish to participate in the program, either as recipients or drivers, may call 335-5344 or 335-0429.

Cincy interstate work draws $7.6 million bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Transportation says a Cincinnati firm has submitted a low bid of $7.6 million on construction of an interchange linking Interstates 471 and 71 in Cincinnati.

The bid by Foley Construction Co. was below the $8.3 million estimate on the job, the department said.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the following gas companies: Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., West Ohio Gas Company, The Dayton Power and Light Company, the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company, and The Ohio Valley Gas Company, have formally requested the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to hold a hearing on the proposed amendments to their existing purchased gas adjustment clauses. Present purchased gas adjustment clauses allow the aforementioned gas companies to recover additional costs in the purchase of gas without appearing in formal proceedings before the Commission. These proposed clauses allow the gas companies to pass on to the consumer the additional costs incurred by the gas companies in the purchase of gas from the gas distribution companies. These purchases would include such non-historic sources as synthetic pipeline quality gas (SPQ), liquified natural gas (LNG) and propane air-gas. The hearings will commence on September 5, 1973 at 9:00 a.m. E.D.S.T., at the offices of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 111 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215. Further information may be obtained from the Public Utilities Commission.

GARY McMURRAY

James R. Wilson, president of the Fayette County Bank, announced Tuesday the appointment of Gary M. McMurray, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., as loan officer of the Washington C.H. branch.

McMurrary, a native of Greenfield, has been manager of the City Loan and Savings Co. office in Washington C.H. for the past five years. Previously, McMurray was manager of City Loan's Jackson operations and has served as assistant manager of both the Washington C.H. and Hillsboro offices. McMurray had worked in the Washington C.H. branch office on two previous occasions, once serving as assistant manager of the Hillsboro office and as a dealer contact representative in the Chillicothe area.

He has been associated with the City Loan and Savings Co. since 1961, starting in the company's Batavia office. He is a member of the Ohio Consumer Loan Association and the National Consumer Finance Association.

A graduate of McClain High School, Greenfield, McMurray attended Columbus Business University and served four years with the U.S. Air Force. He and his wife, Wanda, have one daughter, Jennifer.

Wilson said McMurray will assume his duties with the Fayette County Bank Sept. 15.

Real estate licensing report due

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan's committee to study state real estate licensing practices may be ready with recommendations by the end of the month.

The five-member panel held its last scheduled hearing Monday and took testimony from Ohio Real Estate Commission personnel and former employes.

Gilligan appointed the committee after it was disclosed that former Republican Gov. James Rhodes and others had received real estate licenses after taking special exams. Rhodes received his license after an oral examination instead of the regular, six-hour written test.

Paul Everson, a former OREC commissioner, testified that the commission used discretionary authority in handling some licensing cases.

He said the discretionary authority was determined for the OREC by assistant attorneys general who acted as counsel for the commission.

Scott Rawling, an assistant attorney general who has worked for the real estate commission, told the committee the attorneys general "never purported to clothe the Ohio Real Estate Commission with blanket discretionary power."

Witnesses and committee members agreed that the commission needs a full-time attorney present at all commission meetings.

Committee members also said they want to review areas where they believe the commission has exceeded its authority, as well as training programs for new commission members.

David Maffeo, a former OREC employe, was the first to testify at Monday's hearing. He resigned from the commission in April after it was discovered he had given real estate tests to relatives.

Maffeo is scheduled to take a special broker's examination Wednesday. He was disqualified from taking the exam this spring because it was similar to tests he administered while employed by the Ohio Real Estate Commission.

Maffeo told the committee he had graded the examinations, but he said he never looked at the questions.

The panel has heard testimony from commission officials, state commerce department employes and representatives of the real estate industry since hearings began in June.

Scientists move to rehabilitate California 'sea'

WASHINGTON (AP) — By diking off a portion of California's Salton Sea, a group of government and state scientists, engineers and civic leaders hope they will be able to keep the 450-square mile inland lake from getting so salty that fish can't survive in it.

By removing 5.5 million tons of salt a year from the 50-square-mile control area, the investigators figure they can restore the lake's chemical balance before irreparable harm is done.

The Salton Sea was formed between 1904 and 1907, when Colorado and Gila River flood waters broke through dikes and spread over the dry bed of an ancient lake. The fresh water soon absorbed salt from the ground, and more salt was added by irrigation runnoff. The lake has been stocked with fish, but in a few years, scientists warn, their larvae will no longer be able to survive in the increasingly salty water.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Let's assume you're East and partner leads a heart against three notrump. You take the ace and realize that a heart return would be pointless, since it is impossible for partner to have a holding where a heart return would be beneficial.

Declarer's only possible weakness must be in spades, and it is therefore clear that you should shift your attention to that suit.

But it is also clear that in returning a spade you must not make the normal lead of your fourth best card. There is too much danger of declarer's having three to the king, in which case he would follow low and so acquire an extra spade trick.

The best way of trying to overcome the contract is to lead the queen of spades at trick two. You hope to find South with the K-x-x or K-x of spades and partner with a quick entry card to lead another spade through dummy's J-9 after South has covered the queen with the king.

In the actual case, this method of defense would be admirably successful if declarer blissfully went along with your scheme by winning the spade return with the king at trick two. He could cash eight tricks in a row but would then run out of steam and finish down one.

But South can blow your scheme to kingdom come by ducking the queen of spades when you lead it. He can see what you are trying to do and he can apply a suitable countermeasure by allowing your queen to win the trick.

Once declarer does this he must inevitably prevail, but you should nevertheless feel satisfied that you gave your all to stop the contract and unfortunately met a foeman worthy of your steel.

A lot of rubber

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The auto industry will put a billion pounds of rubber parts in its cars in 1973— not including their tires.

According to the Goodyear Co., the average car now has more than 600 rubber parts, together weighing over 150 pounds. This includes about 30 pounds of seat cushions and crash pads; 15 pounds of engine mounts, body insulators and bumper parts; more than 10 pounds of hose, and at least 95 pounds of rubber stripping, chunks, bits and pieces.

You can save money and help improve the environment by washing laundry and dishes in full-load quantities only.

4-H Roundup

Fair is history; activities continue

By JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

The 1973 Fayette County Fair is now history. I believe the Junior Fair activities were quite successful, thanks to a large number of people who gave a lot of time, energy and thought to the event.

I'd like to extend a personal thanks as well as a thanks of Fayette County 4-H members to those who made the fair possible. First, a large thank-you to the businesses, businessmen and individuals who spent a great deal of money supporting the livestock sales and awards programs. Over $35,000 was spent above market price at the sales and over $2,000 to purchase trophies and awards.

Thanks to the Junior Fair Board, Senior Fair Board and 4-H Committee for all their effort in planning and taking care of the details at the fair. Also, thanks to the many parents, 4-H advisers, the 4-H members who pitched in whenever something needed done. A special thanks to John Ely, grounds keeper, for helping out whenever needed.

A big bouquet goes to the news media for excellent news coverage of the Junior Fair events and activities. A rose is also due the folks at Producers Livestock Association for handling all the book work and livestock at the Junior Fair sales.

Finally, a personal thanks to Extension secretaries Jane Dill and Clara Wehner and 4-H assistant, Jeannie Anderson for working above and beyond the call of duty, keeping records, typing show results, helping with publicity, and answering a million questions.

THE FAIR maybe behind us, but things are still happeing in 4-H. This week, over 50 Fayette County 4-H'ers are in 4-H Beginners Camp at Camp Clifton making new friends, learning new things, having a good time.

Denny Newbrey and Nanci Woods are now attending State 4-H Conservation Camp at Camp Ohio near Utica. Former 4-H'ers Richard Owens and Mark Hiser are serving as counselors at the event.

Gladys Kirk and I will be working with many 4-H'ers who are going to represent the County at the Ohio State. Fair. Over 70 4-H'ers will be joining in State Fair activities this year.

And 4-H Day Camp is in its second week at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church under the direction of Cathy White and Jannelle Donahue. They are planning two more weeks of Day Camp at Good Shepherd.

For the next three weeks, several young adults will be conducting a county government survey with the ideas of publishing a government service directory for Fayette County. This program is being coordinated by Richard Owens, area community resource development, assistant, and Cathy White, Fayette County 4-H assistant.

Body weight balance wheel in each individual seen

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A Cornell University researcher says he has found evidence that an individual's body weight tends to remain stable despite repeated diets, rigorous exercise or even the surgical removal of fatty tissue.

David A. Levitsky, a physiological psychologist, says research has led to the theory that each body has an "ideal weight" that it strives to maintain.

In doing so, the body is alternately efficient and inefficient in processing its intake of foods, Levitsky said.

"It's almost as though your brain doesn't trust your mouth," Levitsky said.

He said the brain apparently monitors the total amount of fat in the body, compares this with some ideal value and determines how efficient it will be in burning off the calories.

Levitsky's research, sponsored by a $10,000 grant from the Weight Watchers' Foundation, is aimed at discovering the mechanism through which the brain monitors the body's state of fatness at any moment.

Explaining his theory, Levitsky said: "Each fat cell produces a messenger in proportion to its size, which it dumps into the bloodstream. The larger the fat cell, the greater the concentration of these messengers in the blood. At present, however, we have no idea what the messenger is."

Once the nature of the messenger is discovered, the treatment of overweight persons should be relatively simple, he said.

He said obese persons could be given chemical substitutes for the messengers; these substitutes would force the brain to read a false "fat" message and direct the body to become increasingly efficient in its metabolic processes.

Levitsky said steroid contraceptives, such as the pill, work in a similar manner, fooling the brain with certain symptoms of pregnancy so the pituitary gland does not stimulate ovulation.

Camera catches bank robbers when they enter

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 75 per cent of bank robbers who are caught through the use of hidden cameras are identified from the film showing them entering the bank and not during the actual hold-up or getaway.

According to Norcon Electronics, Inc., a firm which installs cameras in banks, the average bank robber hides his face during the actual holdup and often is moving too quickly when he's escaping for the camera to get a good shot of him.

However, when he enters the bank he usually walks slowly and often pauses to watch the activity to determine whether the time is ripe for his crime. During this period, he is easy to catch on film.

Driver keeps his cool when wires fall on bus

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A bus driver remained cool when some hot high-voltage wires clattered down around his vehicle.

The driver kept the doors shut until the wires touching the bus stopped moving. He then hurried his passengers off the bus. Moments later the vehicle exploded into flames. No one was injured.

County Board takes formal action on building bond issue

The Fayette County Board of Education Tuesday night formally adopted a resolution to proceed with placing a $2,036,000 bond issue on the November ballot for the construction of a new junior high school and for renovation of present buildings.

The board, meeting at Jeffersonville Elementary School, also took care of a number of personnel matters, approved bids for foodstuffs, insurance and garbage collection in addition to several other items on a heavy agenda in less than 2½ hours. The meeting was conducted by Vice-President Marvin DeMent. Board president Kenneth Payton was absent.

In an important matter, the board was informed by Superintendent Guy M. Foster of several uncertainties concerning allocations of Title I funds for the 1973-74 school year. The school district's allocation may be reduced over 50 per cent from $120,000 to $58,000. The board was informed the allocation this year will be based on 1970 census figures of the number of low-income familfes in Fayette County. The state will receive the same amount of funds as a year ago.

Superintendent Foster said he learned from Mary Morris, county auditor, that 2.15 mills will be needed for the cost of construction and repairs on the old buildings. The cost estimate for the new school and site is $1,761,000 with the balance going for renovation of present buildings.

THE PROPOSED new building will house all seventh and eighth grade students in the Miami Trace School District. The proposed tax levy to pay for the building and renovation will be for 22 years.

Board member Dwight Duff, who is serving on a site selection committee, reported to the board the committee is currently considering three possible sites. The board authorized the committee to take an option on land for the new school when an agreement can be reached.

The bond issue must be submitted to the Fayette County Board of Elections today. The motion was made by Marion Waddle and seconded by Duff. The resolution was approved unanimously.

SEVEN NEW TEACHERS were employed. They were:

Miss Cathaleen Carr, Grove City, bachelors degree from Ohio State University, fifth grade at Madison Mills; Miss Karen Shool, Kettering, bachelors degree from Baldwin-Wallace College, elementary music; Mrs. Marjorie Lint, Grove City, bachelors degree from Wilmington College, junior high English; Miss Cheryl Tutera, Yorkville, bachelors degree from West Liberty College, high school speech and English; Mrs. Charlotte Cassie, bachelors degree from Wright State University, high school business education; Mrs. Sharon Lykins, Leesburg, bachelors degree from Morehead State (Ky.) University, elementary music, and Larry Stover, of Jamestown, high school business education and freshman basketball coach.

Five teachers holding temporary certificates who were employed in the school district last year were given one-year contracts. They were Mrs. Carol Thomas, learning disabilities teacher; Mrs. Betty Shipley, second grade teacher at Madison Mills; Paul Grim, high school special education teacher; Tom Yates, high school distributive education teacher, and Mrs. Joan Rhoads, music teacher.

The board recognized three teacher candidates who had refused to accepted contract offers. They were Miss Susan Sharrett, Mrs. Claudia Coe, Miss Cindy Cottrill and Miss Rebecca Gibson.

Contract changes were authorized for Mrs. Barbara Hinchman, Tim Bailey and John Wedgewood.

Supplemental contracts were awarded to Glenn Marchal for duties as the new athletic faculty manager and Paul Febo as elementary music director.

THE BOARD accepted one teacher resignation and the resignation of an assistant cook. Miss Margaret Williams resigned as a fifth grade teacher at Olive, and Mrs. Shirley Salyer resigned as an assistant cook at Good Hope.

Mrs. Rebecca Cordes, Rt. 4, Washington C.H. was employed as lunchroom supervisor for the Miami Trace School District. In other employment matters, Mrs. Clara Domby was named head teacher for the Adult Basic Education program; Bill Briggs was hired as a school bus mechanic; Lester Haines was reinstated as a school bus driver following a leave of absence, and Jerry Pendleton was employed as a school bus driver. Hugh Aills was employed as a custodian at Wilson School.

The board accepted bids for bread, milk, fleet insurance, student accident insurance and garbage collection.

A bid submitted by Pennington Bread was accepted for the supply of 13 bakery items. Pennington's bid was the only one submitted. The bid includes a 5 per cent discount.

The board accepted a bid of .08 cents per carton for white and chocolate milk submitted by Model Dairy was approved. Cedar Hill Farms submitted a bid of .0810 cents for white milk and .0860 for chocolate.

Town and Country Insurance, Washington C.H. had a bid of $1,800 for school bus insurance approved. Pennington L.P. Agency, Inc. submitted a bid of $2,294 and Richard R. Willis Insurance submitted a $2,707 bid.

A STUDENT ACCIDENT insurance package offered by the Guaranteed Trust Life Insurance Co., represented by Charles Sheridan, was approved. The plan costs $3 for students in kindergarten through the sixth grade, $5 for students in grades 5-12 and $15 for 24-hour coverage of students in all grades.

A two-year contract was awarded to Cartwright Salvage Co. for trash collection. The Cartwright bid was $2,700 per year. Willard Mitchell submitted a bid of $3,600 per year.

The board authorized the transfer of students within the district for the 1973-74 school year. Assistant Superintendent Steve Yambor said the transfers are duplications of those last year.

Bloomingburg seventh graders will be transferred to Madison Mills, fourth and fifth graders from Jasper will be transferred to Jeffersonville, students from the North Shore, Rosemont and Baker additions, near Washington C.H., will be transferred to Bloomingburg and third graders at Staunton will be transferred to Olive, Yambor said.

IN OTHER matters:

The board adopted a high school dress code for the 1973-74 school year after a report from Principal Curtis E. Fleisher. The dress code is identical to that used last year;

Heard a report from Yambor that all but six buses passed inspection and that two old buses were auctioned at a total price of $1,700 Saturday; and

The board was informed Helmick Termite Control is now doing exterminating work at Jasper School.

Housing boom 'bust' for many

By RICHARD L. STERN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's housing boom is becoming a bust for many Americans.

Costs are so high and mortgages have become so scarce within the last month that many prospective buyers with seemingly adequate incomes have found themselves priced out of the market.

An added burden is an increase in the cost of home maintenance, from painting a living room to repairing a furnace.

"When we added it all up, we just decided we better wait," said Rory Butler, a computer programmer who had been looking for a house in the New York suburbs.

The situation, which is especially troublesome to couples seeking to buy their first home, has caused concern in the industry.

While real estate agents in many parts of the country reported record sales in recent months, some housing experts have found signs the boom may be ending.

They point to recent figures showing housing costs running far ahead of increases in family incomes. And they note that federal measures to slow inflation by tightening the money supply generally have made mortgage money extremely scarce. When it is available, rates have come close to nine per cent in some cases. Banks also are demanding higher down payments and shorter repayment periods.

The finance problems and the soaring prices of land, labor and materials for new homes have so alarmed some builders that they have cut way back on their plans for new housing, the National Homebuilders Association (NHBA) reports.

"The housing industry's most disturbing problem in the last year and a half has been the increase in housing costs and prices," said Michael Sumichrast, the NHBA's chief economist.

Among those who can afford to pay the increased prices, demand for housing remains heavy, however, with many viewing it as a solid investment. "I'll sell every one I can find," said a Connecticut realtor of the demand for homes in the $75,000 range.

"I figure the price is going to keep going up; and if I don't buy now, then it's just going to cost a lot more later," said Bruce Lake, a Bethlehem Steel public relations representative who is looking for a new home, his second, in New Jersey.

In some sections of the country, especially New York and Washington, it is virtually impossible to find homes in the $30,000 to $40,000 range less than 90 minutes commuting distance from center city.

"If somebody comes to us and wants to buy a house for $35,000, we don't know what to do for him," said one Washington realtor.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the median price of new houses sold this May was $32,200, compared with $27,000 the previous May, a jump of 19 per cent. Census figures show that, over the same period, the average American family income was rising eight per cent.

Eight months ago, it was easy in many areas of the nation to finance a $30,000 home with as little down as five to 10 per cent down—$1,500 to $3,000. Thirty-year mortgages were readily available.

But a recent spot survey by The Associated Press indicated banks and mortgage companies were demanding $7,500 and more down on the same house. Mortgages, if available at all, frequently were for a maximum of 20 years.

Ginny and Riley Gibson of Montgomery, Ala., are typical of couples with mortgage problems. Both are in their early 20s and have a combined income of $16,000. They say they have found it impossible to find a mortgage for an $18,000 home, although they have $4,000 to put down.

Prices also have forced some couples to buy less than they could have a few years ago.

A Houston realtor told of a couple who moved away five years ago and returned recently. They found that, although they had the income and savings for a substantially more expensive home, values had increased so drastically that they could not afford to move back into their old neighborhood.

The price spiral is evident in cities across the nation.

In Atlanta, real estate agent Pat Gillentine reported that a three-bedroom home that 11 years ago cost $21,500 now is selling for $51,600.

A Salt Lake City realtor said a home he sold two years ago for $21,000 now is worth between $31,000 and $32,000.

In Hawaii, demand has been so high and the availability of homes so low that prices have increased as much as 50 per cent in the last two years, according to George Morris, executive vice president of the Honolulu Board of Realtors.

Earlier this year, when the Grant Co., the largest producer of higher-priced homes in Hawaii, took $500 deposits for a waiting list, some persons camped out overnight in front of the sales office.

"The deposits guaranteed nothing," neither a home style nor location, but checks were returned if persons were not satisfied with what was available, said Kurt Franks, a company representative.

One of the most spectacular areas of sales has been in high-priced homes, realtors report.

In affluent Hillsborough, Calif., where Bing Crosby lives, a house worth $50,000 in 1963, $54,000 in 1968 and $70,000 in 1971, now is reported selling for $100,000.

Maintenance costs also are rising sharply.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Statistics, the cost of maintenance and repair of a home in June was 11.5 per cent higher than in June 1972. Fuel oil and coals costs for the same period were up 11.7 per cent; repainting a living room or dining room, up 7.1 per cent; repairing a furnace, 5.3 per cent; and reshingling a roof; 5.1 per cent. Property taxes were up 5.3 per cent.

Construction wages also are up, as are the prices of some materials. From April 1972 to April 1973, the cost of softwood lumber jumped 57.5 per cent; softwood plywood, 98.3 per cent; copper pipes, 18.8 per cent; and gypsum wallboard, 20 per cent, according to the NHBA.

In recognition of the mortgage problem, the Federal Home Loan Bank took measures last week that it said would make $2.2 billion available for mortgage loans immediately.

Whether the mortgage situation and the inflationary costs will have a profound effect on the market remains to be seen, many experts say.

"We're sitting right on the fence and could fall either way," said Catherine Martini, director of economic research for the National Association of Realtors.

Spending clock speed upped

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is hardly a group in this country that doesn't have a pet educational project, a sense of mission to communicate the word as revealed to it or to correct what it feels are assumptions of the ignorant.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Tax Foundation never cease their efforts to educate the public to the dangers of government spending and deficits and taxes. Automakers preach religiously the doctrine of greater productivity. And construction workers hammer away at what they feel is a myth about their high pay scales.

Here are a few recent examples of the genre:

1. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"As the 1974 fiscal year began July 1, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States reset its Federal Spending Clock to run at an accelerated pace.

"The reason is that Federal spending this fiscal year is estimated to increase by approximately $19 billion, up to $269 billion.

"Rapidly changing digital figures across the top of the clock indicate how much the Federal government has spent since the beginning of the fiscal year. Each day the clock registers expenditures of approximately $736 million.

"Here's what the reset clock now shows:

"$10,000, nearly the average annual income of a typical American family, spent every 1.17 seconds, displayed by a sweeping dial.

"$100,000, spent every 11.7 seconds, by a light flashing on.

"$1 million, spent every one minute and 57 seconds, by a beep sounding."

2. If the sweeping dial, flashing light and beep-beep of your dollars being spent hasn't boggled your mind, you might consider the following preachment of construction workers.

Called "The 'Perpetual Myth' About Construction Costs," it was presented in the latest edition of "Viewpoint," a publication of the AFL-CIO, by Francis Burkhardt, research director for the International Brotherhood of Painters & Allied Trades.

"If someone makes $8 an hour, he must be making $16,000 per year—right? Wrong. If he's a fulltime construction worker, his work-year only averages 1,400 hours, and of the $9 union hourly rate, he never sees $1.10. This amount goes into funds to pay for health and welfare and pension benefits.

"So now we have a $7.90 wage rate, times 1,400 hours, or $9,940 per year," Burkhardt states, adding that this average is for only fulltime, year-round workers. Part-time summer workers are excluded.

Citing Bureau of Labor Statistics data, he concludes that union tradesmen can expect to earn on the average between $8,000 and $12,000 in 1973, depending on their craft.

Trial scheduled in death of child

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Trial has been scheduled for Aug. 16 for David Taflinger, 28, who is accused of first-degree murder in the Sept. 18, 1971, death of his infant son.

Hancock County Common Pleas Judge Joe Moorhead ruled Tuesday that Taflinger is eligible to stand trial.

The man has been held at Lima State Hospital since the death of the child, Trent Anthony Taflinger.

Morgan HR cushions Gullett's two-hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Morgan "was just trying to get on base somehow and hoping we could score a run."

He got on all right—on the scoreboard that is...and into the Cincinnati record books as well.

Don Gullett of the Reds and Chicago's Rick Reuschel were locked in a scoreless duel Tuesday night when Morgan strode to the plate in the seventh inning. Morgan knew what Reuschel would be throwing.

"It was a fastball...and when I went up there I just tried to concentrate on the fastball," he said.

He got it and smashed it over the right field fence for his 17th homer of the season. That was all Gullett needed, making the run stand up with a two-hitter for a 1-0 victory over the Cubs.

Morgan's blast tied him with Alex Kamouris of the 1937 Reds for the most homers by a Cincinnati second baseman.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, the New York Mets downed St. Louis 6-5, Los Angeles pummeled San Diego 6-1 and Montreal edged San Francisco 2-1.

Astros 2, Pirates 0

Don Wilson hurled a four-hitter in the Astros' 2-0 triumph over the Pirates. Nelson Briles took the loss for Pittsburgh by giving up Roger Metzger's double and Cesar Cedeno's single in the fourth inning, the only run Wilson needed. Houston added an insurance run in the eighth.

Mets 6, Cards 5

Rusty Staub singled and John Milner doubled, setting the stage for Cleon Jones' two-run single in the third inning and starting the Mets on the way to their victory over St. Louis. The loss prevented the Cardinals from widening their five-game lead in the East Division.

The hit gave New York a 5-4 lead and Staub drove in what proved to be the winner in the fourth with a single, countering Lou Brock's RBI single for the Cards in the sixth.

Dodgers 6, Padres 1

Los Angeles, retaining its four-game West Division lead over the resurgent Reds, did all its scoring in the first two innings against the Padres. San Diego finally broke a 26-inning scoreless drought in the ninth when Leron Lee hit a basesloaded single, averting a third straight Padres shutout.

Expos 2, Giants 1

The Expos climbed into a virtual second-place tie with the Cubs in the East, closing to within five games of St. Louis and a scant one percentage point of runner-up Chicago. It was Bob Bailey's bat that brought them there.

He lined a seventh-inning tiebreaking homer off Tom Bradley, snapping a 1-1 tie to give Montreal its fourth straight victory.

Nolan shelved again

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said late Tuesday night that ailing pitcher Gary Nolan will not throw again this season.

"I don't expect him to throw another ball for us this year," said Anderson of Nolan.

Nolan, disabled all year until after the All-Star game, has made two appearances, losing one game and not figuring in the outcome of the second.

Nolan, complaining of a sore arm most of the season, won 15 games last year. He remained at Tampa, Fla., after spring training this year throwing the ball and working under a physical therapist.

Now Nolan may face surgery.

"If they decide to operate they'll do it soon," said Anderson. "We won't wait until the last minute. We'll give him a full eight months to recover.

In Nolan's last appearance, he went 6 1-3 innings of shutout ball before retiring from the game with arm pain.

Steubenville, Cincy face Legion clash

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati Bentley and Steubenville racked up victories Tuesday, setting the stage for a winners' bracket championship today in the American Legion State Baseball Tournament.

Ten teams in all remained in the double elimination competition after Tuesday's games.

The tournament is scheduled to wind up with finals Friday morning, although a playoff would be held Saturday morning if necessary.

Bentley edged Ashley 9-8 in the Cincinnati team's single game Tuesday, battling back from an 0-7 deficit in the second inning. Steubenville racked up two victories—over Bellefontaine, 11-10, and an 11-9 defeat of Euclid.

Don Wilmoth of Ashley paced Tuesday's hitters, going five-for-five in his team's 3-2 morning win over Worthington. Wilmoth's hits included the game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Losers' bracket teams still in the tournament include Ashley, Tipp City, Worthington, Athens, Bellefontaine, Hillsboro, Kent and Euclid.

Everhart homer spurs Baptists

A two-run homer by Joe Everhart keyed the First Baptist Church to a 5-4 win over the Good Hope Methodist Church in church league slo-pitch softball action Tuesday at Eyman Park.

John Baker also provided plenty of support for winning pitcher Harold Everhart as he had three hits in three trips.

Swing wins feature at River Downs course

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Round Bottom was top weighted with 125 pounds today in the postponed running of the $15,000 Rhinelander Handicap at River Downs.

The race was canceled July 7 when the track was unable to field 10 horses for the annual race.

Swing won the $2,600 featured eighth race Tuesday by a head covering the six furlongs in 1:10 and paying $4, $3.60 and $2.80. Broadway Lullaby placed, paying $4 and $3.40 and the show horse was Copper Prize at $3.

Two former area coaches to be honored on Friday

CANTON — Two former area high school coaches — Columbus Upper Arlington's Marv Moorehead and Columbus North's Mike Hagely — will be inducted into the Ohio High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame during halftime ceremonies of the North-South all-star football game.

Moorehead was the master at Upper Arlington through his ultra-successful 15-year tenure in which he won three state championships and compiled a remarkable 115-23-3 record.

HAGELY WAS long the dean of area schoolboy coaches, serving 32 years as Columbus North's football coach, winning 13 Columbus City League championships and sharing the crown three other times.

Middletown's Elmo Lingrel, Toledo Woodward's Lou Meszaros and Akron St. Vincent's Eddie Wentz will also be inducted into the Coaches' Hall of Fame, joining Moorehead and Hagely to comprise the fourth induction class since the Hall of Fame's inception in 1970.

MOOREHEAD

HAGELY

Both Moorehead and Hagely have been enshrined in the Wall of Champions at the National Football Hall of Fame at Rutgers University for their contributions to the game.

Moorehead is the only one of the 1973 honorees to serve as a head coach in the all-star game, serving as such in the 1962 game.

Grid drills open Aug. 13

Prospective football candidates at Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools are going through their pre-season conditioning programs in preparation for the official opening of regular practice drills scheduled during the week of Aug. 13.

The two Fayette County schools will open full-scale practice sessions Monday, Aug. 13, since fall classes begin Aug. 28.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association requires mandatory physical conditioning programs before contact.

CONDITIONING programs at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace moved into their second phase last Wednesday when prospective candidates were permitted to practice with helmets and football shoes. Before that time it was running and exercises.

Schools that start Aug. 29-30 may launch their practice drills Aug. 14, while others will get their official workouts under way Aug. 15.

Each school is permitted three interscholastic scrimmages prior to the opening of the regular season schedules.

Season openers for Washington C.H. and Miami Trace are scheduled Sept. 7. Washington C.H., under the guidance of veteran Maurice Pfeifer, will entertain Columbus Bishop Ready, while Miami Trace's Panthers, under the direction of new head coach Fred Zechman, will play host to Springfield Northeastern.

Reid fears knee problems

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Mike Reid, Cincinnati's All-Pro defensive tackle, says his next knee injury may be his last.

"I seriously question whether I could go through it again. Four operations are enough," said Reid, who, at 25, is already being compared with pro football's finest linemen.

"Hopefully it will never happen, but you can't walk away from it. It's there," said Reid as he heads into his fourth season with the Bengals.

His knees are sound, he says, but the mental scars remain.

Cincinnati's No. 1 draft choice in 1970, Reid underwent his first knee operation in 1965 after his senior year in high school at Altoona, Pa., where he played fullback "until I got really big."

Two more followed during his brilliant career at Penn State, but even with gimpy knees he was honored with the Maxwell and Outland trophies as "outstanding college player" and "outstanding interior lineman" of 1969.

The last was in 1971, after winning all-rookie honors with the Bengals.

"There's no problem right now. The problem is usually a ligament or a chartilage.

"There's no cartilage left now. But I feel there's utmost muscular integrity at this point," said Reid.

He dismisses fears of any career-ending collision.

"You can't walk out on that field hoping you don't get hurt. You know it's there subconsciously and you're aware of it. But that's psychological entrapment.

"I'm just convinced it will never happen again," he said.

Evert and Nastase win tennis clashes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Top-seeded Chris Evert and Ilie Nastase had little trouble in the opening round Tuesday of the $75,000 Western Open Tennis Championships.

The teen-aged Fort Lauderdale sensation downed Seattle's Pat Bostrum with east, 6-1, 6-0.

Nastase, of Rumania, appeared untired by his all-night flight here from Bucharist as he defeated Patrick DuPre of Birmingham, Ala., 6-1, 6-2.

Herron risks club golf title Sunday

Rob Herron will be hoping to defend his 1972 Washington Country Club golf championship when the annual tournament climaxes here Sunday afternoon.

Herron, a 1972 product of Washington Senior High School who is a member of the Ashland College golf team, will meet three other golfers in Sunday's finale, including 1971 champion Gary Shaffer.

Others in Sunday's showdown match include Bill Junk, a classmate of Herron's at Washington C. H. and James Hanawalt. The quartet will be clashing in 36 holes of medal play, according to chairman Richard Lewis.

HERRON REACHED the finals by defeating Donald Anderson and Jim Polk, while Shaffer topped Glen Helmick and Danny Mahoney. Junk beat Dr. Robert Hagerty and Doug Dye and Hanawalt stopped James Conley and William Mount.

Club pro Tony Capuana said the golfers will start at 9 a.m. Sunday and play 18 holes. They will then take a break and finish.

The first and second flight championships will also be on the line Sunday. The first flight contenders are Robert Herron, Jack Marti, Roger Grim and Everett Rudolph.

The elder Herron reached the first flight finals by defeating Irvin Reeves and David Garringer, while Marti topped Howard Mann and received a bye. Grim received a bye and stopped Richard Lewis, while Rudolph beat Bart Mahoney and Charles Wallace.

The first and second flight contenders will play only 18 holes Sunday.

Four players are also in contention in the second flight. They are Ernie Stanforth who defeated Horace Jacobs; Chester Brown who got by Bernie Light and Larry Lehman; Ben Wright who defeated Richard Wintringham and Bill Stoughton, and Ralph Tate, who received a bye and beat George Walker.

6 healthy linemen all for Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — While the Cincinnati Bengals are hip deep in running backs, the team has only six healthy defensive linemen.

Coach Paul Brown said he has not cut any of the ten running backs this week because he wants to see them all again Saturday in the pre-season game with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Bengals lost 14-13 last week in Miami to the Dolphins.

That game cost Cincinnati left side defensive ends Ken Johnson, who has a twisted knee, and Bob Maddox, who has a sprained ankle.

Others still healthy include Mike Reid, Steve Chomyszak, Lee Thomas, Jerry Ellison and Ron Carpenter.

Bankers win

JEFFERSONVILLE — The Fayette County Bank ended their campaign in the Jeffersonville Little League with a 7-3 win over the Jeff Merchants.

Kevin Anderson clouted a pair of doubles while Darrell Williams and Rick Ward had two hits each in support of pitcher Dale Jordan. Tim Allen and Mike Williams had doubles for the losers.

A family affair

The city recreation program's annual archery tournament turned out to be a family affair.

The Norman Rodgers family, of Mount Sterling, nearly dominated the tourney with two championships and a runnerup. Norman captured honors in the open division with a 410 score, while his daughter, Tonda, grabbed the top spot in the women's division. Norman's son, Larry, was second in the men's bare division.

City recreation director Chuck Wallace took first in the bare division with a 605 score, and his wife, Kay, finished second in the women's division with a 230 count.

In the junior division a pair of brothers, Danny and Mark Hoaglin placed first and second, respectively. David Garringer was second in the open division.

Reigle's Arnie picked in Scarlet, Gray cup

COLUMBUS — The $11,050 Scarlet and Gray Cup Series three-year-old trot has attracted eight outstanding entries for its Thursday night run at Scioto Downs, including four of the sport's top-ranked Hambletonian eligibles.

The Gene Riegle stable entry of Arnie Almahurst and Dark Secret rate the pre-race favorite tag.

Howard Beissinger who has won two of the last four Hambletonian races has a solid two-horse stable entry in A.C.'s Thor and MacArthur.

Bruce Mickells has a powerful contender in Lucky Hill, winner of the Grandview Futurity last week at Northfield Park in 2:05.2. Dick Buxton's Speedy Coaltown, Charlie Jordan's Corsage Almahurst, and Vince Aquino's Red Whiz complete the select field.

ARNIE ALMAHURST, the 1972 Ohio two-year-old Trotter of the Year, was picked as the leading colt eligible for the 1973 Hambletonian after he had racked up 12 wins, three seconds and a mark of 2:01.2. He won the 1973 Challenge Stakes at Scioto Downs in 2:02.2, then began a series of misadventures in stakes races around the country.

But Riegle hopes Arnie is straightened out after a brilliant workout mile last Saturday and has started a campaign that will end in the winner's circle at DuQuoin, Ill. Aug. 29.

Beissinger won the 1969 Hambletonian with the unheralded Lindy's Pride, then repeated in the 1971 Hambletonian with the unknown Speedy Crown.

In the latest rating list issued by the U.S. Trotting Association, neither A.C.'s Thor or MacArthur are even listed in the top ten, and that's the way Beissinger wants to keep it.

A.C.'s Thor lightly race at two and with only five wins in 14 starts, shows two wins, two seconds and a third in eight 1973 starts. A.C.'s Thor has lowered his mark to 2:03.

MacArthur, owned by Joe Mendelson, of Palos Verdes, Calif., has to be considered a factor after posting a new lifetime mark of 2:03.2 just last Friday at Scioto Downs.

Buxton has another son of B.F. Coaltown, Speedy Coaltown with a mark of 2:04.2.

Cincinnati coliseum closer to reality

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Financing for the Cincinnati coliseum became reality Tuesday when private investors reached agreement in the second round of negotiations.

Plans for the 18,000-seat, $18.5-million facility, sought by a local sports group, Cincinnati Sports, Inc., collapsed in June when local banks could not agree on financing.

With financing assured, William DeWitt Jr., CSI vice president, said a ground-breaking could be held in 90 days.

Gypsy Favorite placed, paying $5.40 and $3.20 and OC's Fisherman showed for $3.20.

Tartan Rose and Last Dance combined 4-8 in the daily double for $39.20, and the crowd of 1,201 wagered $84,220.

'Thank you' spoiled it

LONDON (AP) — Belinda-Jane Blakeney spoiled things at a fund-raising "hush-in" at Thomas Bourne School, Berkhamstead, near London, when she politely said "thank you" for a drink. The youngsters were not supposed to speak, and they had "sponsors" who promised charity contributions that would be bigger the longer the children remained silent.

Well wishers sent in more than $120 when they read of the incident.

Bald Ad Is Hair-raising Fraud

Are hormone creams ever of any value for baldness? I spent $40 after reading about it in a pulp magazine.

I think I was a sucker. Nothing has happened.

Mr. P.F.S., Wash., D.C.

Dear Mr. S.:

If a "sucker" is one who falls into the tempting trap of fraudulent advertising then, Mr. S., you are indeed one.

It took 40 good, hard-earned dollars for you to find out that creams, lotions and ointments are not the answer to the massive problem of pattern baldness.

I would venture to say that the cream you purchased probably did not contain any of the male sex hormone, or testerone. For there are many legal statutes against incorporating hormones in over-the-counter nonprescription cosmetics and ointments.

Scientific studies were once made seeking the value of hormones for regrowth of hair. The original enthusiasm raised the hopes, but not the hair of the balding.

Male sex hormones, vigorously rubbed into the scalp, are absorbed and occasionally produce unusual side effects. Therefore, they should never be used without the specific advice of a doctor.

"Miracle" cures of all kinds are, at best, exploitative. If there were any proven value for the extravagant claims that are so openly advertised, the public should realize that all doctors would know their advantages and use them judiciously.

A blood clot formed in my leg and has caused me untold trouble.

What is the cause of a clot like this?

Miss G. R., Ohio

Dear Miss R.:

The fact that blood flows through the arteries and veins freely and uninterrupted is one of the wonders of our body.

The inner lining of blood vessels is thin and smooth. If this lining is injured, or inflamed, small deposits collect at the point of irritation, Platelets, and other components of the blood pile up, and a clot thrombus begins to form.

A slight injury, which may have gone unnoticed, may be responsible. In susceptible people, tobacco may be a cause.

Tortuous, twisting blood vessels and varicose veins may also play a role in the formation of clots.

When a clot is formed, there is a damming back of the blood, and swelling of the surrounding tissue may result.

With bed rest and the drugs that are now available, these clots can be absorbed, and the vessels returned to their normal state.

Are glycerin suppositories dangerous for constipation?

Mr. O.G., Tex.

Dear Mr. G.:

Those suppositories are probably the least hazardous of all the methods of relieving constipation. Long dependence on laxatives, suppositories and enemas are habits that usually can be broken by developing a new habit of drinking 8 glasses of water a day. Before trying it, be sure it has your doctor's approval.

Natural gas rate schedule boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has approved a new rate schedule allowing higher prices for much of the natural gas shipped to states in the Southwest and Midwest.

Members of the commission said they sought to balance consumer and investor interests in approving a new rate schedule more than doubling the production ceiling price for gas produced from the Permian Basin in West Texas and parts of New Mexico.

Gas produced from this field serves the Pacific Southwest, New Mexico, Texas and two Midwestern pipelines—Natural Gas Pipeline and Northern Natural Gas.

The rate schedule affects prices at the wellhead. The FPC specifically refused to speculate on the effect of the change on consumer prices.

The rate approved calls for an increase from 16.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet to 35 cents on gas produced under contracts dated since Oct. 1, 1968. Gas produced under contracts drawn before that date had its ceiling price increased from 14.5 to 23 cents.

"It is only in this manner that we can attempt to alleviate increasing pipeline curtailments and assure adequate and safe service to meet consumer demands," the commission wrote in its decision.

Since the action by the FPC affects ceiling prices, it will not necessarily change prices under current sales contracts. However, as new contracts are signed or old ones renegotiated, the prices included could be expected to move toward the new ceilings.

High-rise fire problem seen by researcher

CHICAGO (AP) — Today's generation is poorly trained psychologically to cope with fires in high-rise buildings, says a Harvard Medical School researcher.

"Suddenly, people are going to be confronted with a situation in which their trained response is wrong," says Dr. Ann Wight Phillips in an article in the Factory Mutual Record, an insurance company's loss-prevention magazine.

"Exit stairs of today's highrise buildings are not being designed to handle evacuation of the total occupant load, and the time required to empty such a building will be measured in hours, not minutes."

Dr. Phillips says so-called safety islands within the upper reaches of high-rise buildings are among suggestions for sheltering occupants in case of fire.

But she said persons will have to be trained to go to such refuge areas in case of an emergency.

"With a generation of citizens trained to go downward, it will not be easy to re-educate them to go laterally to an island of safety, and, I believe, impossible to induce them to go upward to one," she says.

Dr. Phillips asserted that "many of our high-rise elevators today are death traps." And she suggests:

"Fire and smoke-safe elevators should be designed so they can be manually controlled by fire department personnel and will not open if the temperature outside the elevator is above tolerance levels.

"We have learned to build beyond our capacity to protect, and the chances of a disastrous high-rise building fire in the near future are all too good."

More phone strike trouble reported

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP) — Pickets had set up automobile barricades around two General Telephone Co. office buildings and were not allowing supervisory personnel to enter or leave the premises, company officials said today.

New Philadelphia police said there were no reports of violence at the scene.

Tom Winn, company spokesman, said city police had declined to intervene in the lockout by communications workers because it was on private property.

He said the company was seeking a temporary court injunction in Tuscarawas Common Pleas Court to remove the pickets.

About seven employes who had worked on the night shift were still in one building maintaining emergency telephone service for the area, he said.

About 2,800 Communications Workers of America went on strike against General Telephone July 16 in a contract dispute over wages and union security.

Vandalism to company facilities since the walkout has been estimated at more than $700,000 by company officials.

General Telephone serves about 308,000 customers in 70 Ohio counties.

9 nominating petitions filed

Nine persons filed nominating petitions Tuesday and this morning with the Fayette County Board of Elections as candidates in the November election. The deadline for filing is 4 p.m. today. Many village offices have no candidates.

Fred L. Domenico, an incumbent, and John D. Wedgewood are seeking positions on the City Board of Education. Four persons are seeking the two positions to be filled.

John F. Morris was the 12th candidate to file petitions for Washington City Council.

Filing petitions for Milledgeville Village Council were Anna M. Anderson and Harvey Glispie.

Wayne E. Arnold was the second person to file as a candidate for Fayette County School Board. There will be three vacancies on the board.

Filing for township trustee positions were: Charles E. Ellis, Concord Township; James R. Pierson, Jasper Township, and Arthur Barton, Wayne Township.

Mrs. Mary Jean Jennings, county director of elections, said petitions will remain on file for inspection until Aug. 18, the final date for filing protests.

Mrs. Jennings also reported that the state is to reimburse Fayette County in the amount of $6,891.97 for expenses incurred on the constitutional amendments voted on in 1972 and 1973.

Rockefeller eyes presidency in '76

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he's keeping his options open for a possible bid for the presidency in 1976.

"I devoted 27 years to government ... and my basic interest is the future of the country and its role in the world," he said. He unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination in 1964 and 1968.

Rockefeller told a news conference Tuesday that he also was keeping his options open on seeking a fifth term as governor.

B'burg sewer system hopes dim

BLOOMINGBURG — Members of the Bloomingburg Village Council received some disappointing news regarding the proposed sanitary sewer system at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Council reviewed a report from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency which stated it has a total of 225 programs in which funding has been requested. The EPA report noted that Bloomingburg's sanitary sewer system project is No. 126 on the list of 225 programs and that the EPA is anticipating funding only 25 programs this year.

A request submitted by Charles Hunt asking to place a mobile home at 81 Biddle Boulevard was refused by Council. Hunt was informed by Council members that the village has an ordinance prohibiting mobile homes being placed outside the limits of the trailer park.

Council members approved the purchase of a ton and a half dump truck. Mayor Max Grim and Street Commissioner Tom Jones purchased the dump truck at a public auction recently.

In other matters, Council approved an ordinance renewing the depository contract with the First National Bank, Washington C.H., for two years and paid routine bills totaling $3,596.87.

Hint U.S. bombs hit hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee is investigating reports that enemy hospitals may have been the target of American warplanes.

Gerald Greven of Miami, a former fighter pilot, was scheduled to testify today that he saw a Viet Cong hospital hit by an American air strike.

Senate sources said that he had been admonished by his superiors not to report the incident.

Also scheduled to appear at the hearing was Army Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam during much of the secret tactical air strikes by fighter planes and B52 bombers in Cambodia and Laos.

On Tuesday, the committee heard a former Air Force intelligence officer say he was ordered to falsify several air strikes daily in Cambodia by reporting them in the eastern, rather than the western, part of the country.

At the time, it was announced U.S. policy to hit North Vietnamese sanctuaries in border areas of eastern Cambodia, but not generally in other parts of that country.

The testimony by former Air Force Capt. George R. Moses was the first indication that tactical strikes were covered up by the Nixon administration.

Meanwhile, Gen. George S. Brown, currently Air Force chief of staff, said he did not order and was unaware of any such false reporting while he commanded the 7th Air Force during some of the time Moses was in Vietnam.

Brown said in an interview that reports reaching him accurately reflected the bombing of approved targets. While not disputing testimony that there were false reports, Brown disclaimed knowledge of who may have authorized them.

Brown said he didn't understand the reason for any falsification of tactical missions in Cambodia after May 1970 because the U.S. government had acknowledged it was carrying on air operations there.

Pentagon officials have acknowledged a dual reporting system—one for the public record and one for a few officials with a "need to know."

And on Tuesday, the Defense Department also acknowledged 180 additional B52 strikes that actually occured as late as April 1972 in Laos. They had previously been reported falsely to the committee and the press as having occured in either South Vietnam or Cambodia.

'ACCIDENT' VICTIM — A Cambodian girl, wounded in an accidental B52 bombing of Neak Luong, Cambodia, is carried from a boat to an ambulance. More than 150 persons were killed and more than 300 injured in the mistake, the worst bombing incident of the Indochina war.

Nixon readies scandal reply

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the sun faded on a smoggy summer evening, President Nixon plied the Potomac searching for words to explain Watergate to his fellow Americans.

His dinnertime cruise Tuesday was a signal, to use a Nixonian sports cliche, that the ball was now in his court.

The Senate Watergate committee plopped it there on Tuesday when it recessed its hearings until after Labor Day.

Not long after the Senate Caucus Room emptied, Nixon gathered his top speechwriter, Raymond K. Price, and headed for the presidential yacht, Sequoia.

For two hours, they navigated the gentle chop of the river below Washington.

What they discussed wasn't disclosed, but it was clear that Nixon was accelerating preparation of his personal response to the swelling political scandal.

The White House insists that the President hasn't decided how or when he will make that response. But this scenario seems to be emerging:

Sometime soon, perhaps late this week but more likely next, Nixon will request a prime-time slot on the national television networks for an address from the White House.

This speech probably would last less than a half hour, but would give the President the forum to formally launch his effort to dispel the shadow Watergate has cast on his second term.

The television appearance could coincide with the release of a presidential "white paper" giving a point-by-point rebuttal of charges leveled against him and his administration.

Next could come one or more news conferences, where Nixon would respond to direct questions on the controversy that has plunged his popularity in the polls to an all-time low.

Ohio retail sales show increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail sales in Ohio climbed by 11 per cent in June from the same month in 1972, the center for business and economic research at Ohio State University reported today.

The center said sales in June increased by 2 per cent from May levels, continuing an upward trend.

For the first half of 1973, the center said, Ohio retail sales were 11 per cent above those for the first six months of 1972.

Young bicyclist killed

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — Jeff Perry, 15, of Warren, Mich., has been struck and killed while riding his bicycle on U.S. 36 near here.

Watergate staff keeps busy preparing for more hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee is giving the public a one-month summer break from its hearings, but there will be no vacation for its investigators and lawyers.

After 37 days of questioning 35 witnesses whose transcribed testimony fills more than 7,500 typed double-spaced pages, the panel recessed public hearings Tuesday until at least Sept. 10. But committee chief counsel Samuel Dash said the investigation will continue at full pace through the summer break.

The panel may even add to its workload. Dash said that if the newly disclosed criminal investigation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is found to involve occurrences during the 1972 presidential campaign, the committee will investigate them, too.

Meanwhile, the panel's lawyers planned to file a lawsuit today or Thursday seeking a court order to compel President Nixon to honor subpoenas for tape recordings of his own conversations about the wiretapping and cover-up.

Nixon's lawyers said in court Tuesday that the judicial branch of government has no power to compel the President to give up the tapes, leaving open a possibility that Nixon might continue to defy the courts even if they rule against him.

Dash said staff members also will draft a status report advising committee members what they could include in an interim report, if the panel decides to issue one.

The committee's final report on the entire 1972 presidential campaign is due next February, but consideration is being given to writing a report to sum up what has been found out so far.

Until now the committee has confined itself mainly to the Watergate wiretapping and cover-up. Several possible witnesses, including former presidential adviser Charles W. Colson and Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt, may be heard on that subject when public hearings resume after Labor Day.

But after that, the committee may split into subcommittees to investigate other aspects of the campaign.

Freeze ends Monday; food to soar

Sharp price hikes coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices are virtually certain to follow the lifting of the 60-day price freeze next Monday. But Nixon administration spokesmen are unwilling to predict the size of the increases.

One reason is the difficulty in forecasting the effectiveness of Phase 4 controls, which will replace the freeze. Another is that past predictions on price increases and the rate of inflation have been far off target.

The Agriculture Department ventured a guess Tuesday that retail food prices this year could wind up 20 per cent above the 1972 level. But that outlook is based on a 12-month period, not just on the 4½ months that will follow the freeze.

The bulge could be even greater, depending on the effectiveness of Phase 4 and other wage-price actions, the department said.

The department's Outlook and Situation Board noted forecasts of record corn, wheat and soybean crops, but said the increase in supply could be offset by continued high domestic demands and the prospect of more grain exports.

Some members of Congress have suggested last year's exports, especially the $1-billion sale to the Soviet Union, resulted in a domestic shortage and higher food prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz acknowledged the exports had some effect on domestic prices.

But Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer-affairs adviser, denied in Pittsburgh Tuesday that exports brought higher prices.

She spoke of an "imaginary" food shortage and said supplies and prices should stabilize after the freeze on beef prices is lifted Sept. 12.

Meanwhile, beef supplies continued to dwindle. The American Meat Institute said the number of cattle slaughtered Monday was down to 75,000 head, compared with 118,000 during the same period a year ago.

In Chicago, the price of wheat bought for September delivery rose to $4.14 per bushel, and some analysts said traders are betting that demand will exceed supply, sending prices even higher.

The price of wheat has leaped 40 per cent in three weeks, and has almost tripled in the year since the massive sale to the Soviet Union.

The Cost of Living Council, meanwhile, released final regulations that will apply to much of the economy after the price freeze ends.

Serious crime dips slightly during 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serious crime in the United States fell 2 per cent last year for the first decrease in 17 years, Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said today.

Though the overall numbers dropped, the volume of violent crimes continued to increase but at rates somewhat less than in previous years, according to the FBI report released by Richardson and FBI director Clarence M. Kelley.

The 272-page volume of statistics is the annual edition of the FBI Uniform Crime Reports, containing final tabulations for 1972.

Richardson has said he considers the reports an inaccurate and incomplete measure of the crimes committed because they are based on data from state and local police officials.

In its report, the FBI agreed that many crimes go unreported but said the compilation offers at least some measure of crime trends.

The report defines serious crime as murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny $50 and over, and auto theft.

The total reported for 1972 was 5,891,900, compared with 5,995,200 for 1971.

Violent crimes, which totaled 828,100, reflected an overall 2 per cent increase over 1971.

Rape increased by 11 per cent, the same as in the previous year. Murder was up 5 per cent and assaults 7 per cent, less than increases recorded for those crimes in the past five years.

Auto thefts dropped 6 per cent, the largest decline of any single category. FBI officials have attributed the decrease to the efficiency of computerized listing of stolen vehicles and to the effectiveness of steering wheel locks.

Robbery, burglary and larceny all reportedly declined, reversing previous trends.

The FBI said serious crime declined 8 per cent last year in cities of more than 250,000, reversing a trend reflected in the 2 per cent increase in 1971 and the 18 per cent boost in 1968.

But outside the cities, crime continued to rise. It was reported up 2 per cent in the suburbs and 4 per cent in rural areas.

In another breakdown, the FBI said there were 2,829 crimes for each 100,000 U.S. residents last year.

Skylab mission expected to last full 59 days

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — With Skylab 2's astronauts finally settled into an orbital routine, space agency officials have expressed confidence that the mission can go the full 59 days.

"The worst may be over," one official said Tuesday in looking back on the astronauts' illnesses and technical problems that plagued the flight during its first 11 days.

The three crewmen, Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, planned a day of experiments today with their solar telescopes, medical devices and earth resources photosensors.

Garriott, the first solar physicist in space, finally got his long-awaited chance to exercise the solar telescopes on Monday—a task delayed a week because of the earlier problems.

His observations are expected to add a new dimension to the study of the sun, its source of power and how it affects weather and communications on earth.

Flight Director Milton Windler expressed confidence about completing the mission and said the astronauts would spend part of each day during the coming week in troubleshooting numerous problems still outstanding.

The most serious problem is with two steering rockets on the Apollo command ship which is to ferry the astronauts back to earth on Sept. 25. Experts feel the Apollo can safely do the job, but until they fully understand the trouble, they have as a precaution ordered launch crews at Cape Kennedy to prepare a rescue rocket and spaceship.

Crews are working around the clock, and the rescue ship is scheduled to be ready for launch on Sept. 10, or shortly after, if it is needed.

Other problems include a leak in a cooling system, a short circuit which burned out electrical wiring in one telescope television system, and a balky, but useable, device which removes moisture from the cabin air.

Deputy marshal sues Ross County Judge Ratcliff

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A deputy U. S. marshal here is suing a federal judge for $250,000 for allegedly throwing him in jail illegally following a courtroom quarrel July 24.

Herbert A. Caddell filed the suit in U. S. District Court here Tuesday claiming Ross County Common Pleas Court Judge J. Donald Ratcliff interfered with the performance of his duties and defamed his reputation.

The suit said Caddell was assigned to serve a summons on Judge Ratcliff in connection with a civil suit filed by a prison inmate.

The judge refused to accept the summons, the suit said, and after a quarrel the judge ordered Caddell arrested and placed in jail.

Nearly four hours later, Ratcliff ordered Caddell released, then "falsely and laiciously" told newsmen the marshal had been discourteous and lacked manners in the performance of his duties, the suit said.

Probe alleged Agnew payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tightening the lid on its investigation, the Justice Department has refused to comment on a report that Spiro T. Agnew received $50,000 from private contractors after he became vice president.

The report was carried today by the Knight newspaper chain, which quoted sources as saying federal prosecutors have been told that contractors paid Agnew $1,000 a week over a period of years, and the $50,000 sum after he was elected vice president.

In a story from its Washington bureau, the newspaper chain quoted the source as saying some of the contributions may have been put to Agnew's personal use.

The Justice Department has acknowledged only that Agnew is the subject of a criminal investigation, a fact disclosed Monday night by the vice president himself. He proclaimed his innocence and said he would not comment further.

No charges have been filed against the vice president, and the case, being investigated by U.S. Atty. George Beall of Baltimore, has not been referred to a grand jury.

The investigation involves allegations of bribery, extortion and tax evasion growing out of kickbacks allegedly paid by building contractors and engineers to Maryland and Baltimore County political figures.

Republican fund-raising efforts also are involved, but Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has decided against referring the case to Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

However, Samuel Dash, chief counsel for the Senate Watergate committee, says the panel may investigate the case if fund-raising for last year's presidential election is involved. The committee is empowered to investigate any wrongdoing in connection with the election.

The investigation was started last January, and originally was aimed at political corruption in Baltimore County, where Agnew got his political start.

As a result of the probe, William E. Fornoff, the Baltimore County administrative officer since 1957, pleaded guilty two months ago to a minor tax charge and was granted immunity from further prosecution.

He admitted in court that he funneled cash payments from contractors to an unidentified county official beginning in 1967. Agnew had been elected Baltimore County executive in 1962 and became Maryland governor in 1966.

Fornoff said Tuesday that in no way had he implicated Agnew.

The Knight Newspapers story said Jerome B. Wolff, a Baltimore County consultant, "has given federal prosecutors details of alleged payments to Agnew amounting to $1,000 a week."

The story said Beall and his task force, which includes Internal Revenue Service agents, are investigating allegations that:

—About $1,000 a week was contributed to Agnew by contractors from 1962 until 1966, and after he was elected governor.

—A contractor gave Agnew $50,000 in 1970 or 1971 for past and possibly future favors. Agnew became vice president on Jan. 20, 1969.

—Agnew campaign fund-raisers solicited contributions from contractors in exchange for state and federal contracts.

Watergate panel hears Petersen, goes into recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angrily, his voice at times squeaking, Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen poured out his resentment at losing control of the Watergate case to a special prosecutor.

"Damn it, I think it is a reflection on me and the Department of Justice," said Petersen, who rose from messenger to major-domo in 26 years in the department.

Following Petersen's testimony, the Senate Watergate committee recessed Tuesday to an indefinite date after the congressional summer recess ends on Sept. 5. The committee has heard 35 witnesses since it began its televised hearings May 17, but still has not quite finished the first — the Watergate — phase of its three-pronged investigation of presidential campaign practices.

Meanwhile, the committee's chief counsel, Samuel Dash, said the panel was about ready to file its lawsuit asking a federal judge to order President Nixon to supply the committee with tapes and documents relating to Watergate. He said the suit will be filed by Thursday.

Nixon, through his attorneys, told a U.S. District Court judge Tuesday that the courts have no authority to force him to turn over the material in a similar suit, filed by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

After Petersen erupted in anger over losing the investigation to Cox, he apologized to the committee.

"Excuse my emotions but I have been there too long and this has been a terrible year," he said.

Petersen took charge of the investigation hours after five men were arrested inside Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate complex June 17, 1972.

As head of the criminal division, he supervised the three young prosecutors who gained convictions of the five burglars and two former White House aides — G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Then, when new breaks in the case implicated higher-ups last April, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst was forced out of the case, and later out of office, because some of the accusations were leveled against his friends. Petersen began reporting directly to the President.

But within weeks the new attorney general, Elliot L. Richardson, fulfilled a promise to the Senate and named Cox as an independent special prosecutor to take over the case.

"You will excuse me, I have to get something off my chest," Petersen told the Watergate committee.

"I resent the appointment of a special prosecutor. Damn it, I think it is a reflection on me and the Department of Justice.

"We would have broken that case wide open and we would have done it in the most difficult of circumstances. And do you know what happened? That case was snatched out from under us when we had it 90 per cent complete ..."

Petersen said the prosecutors suspected all along that some cover-up was underway among officials of the Nixon campaign committee.

"There were no records. Things were destroyed. They didn't act like innocent people. Innocent people come in and say, 'Fine, what do you want to know?' It was not like that."

He said he hadn't suspected ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III. And until Dean's accusations, Petersen said he had only one run-in about the case with Ehrlichman, when the then chief presidential domestic adviser tried to order him to quit bothering Nixon campaign finance chief Maurice H. Stans.

After that incident, Atty. Gen. Kleindienst told Ehrlichman he might be accused of trying to obstruct justice. Kleindienst told the committee Tuesday. Kleindienst said he told Ehrlichman to stop meddling in the investigation, and threatened to resign if the President authorized Ehrlichman to give direct orders to the Watergate investigators.

Petersen said he thought that was

Deaths, Funerals

CHARLES H. WOODROW — Funeral services were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Parrett Funeral Home for Charles H. Woodrow, 66, with the Rev. Dale Orihood, of the Church of the Nazarene, officiating. Mr. Woodrow died Saturday.

George Grace sang two hymns accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Wallace. Pallbearers for the burial in White Oak Cemetery were Drexel Hynes, Gary Mickle, Ralph Blondell, Robert Haines, John Woodrow and Robert Campbell.

Seek child heard crying over radio

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — An air and ground search continued today for an unidentified child whose cries for help were picked up by ham radio operators on both coasts.

"We heard the little boy crying and screaming. He was hysterical and wanting help and he said his father was dead," said Mrs. Darlene Ross of Fontana, Calif., the citizens band radio operator who first reported the distress calls to New Mexico State Police late Tuesday.

Officers said Mrs. Ross reported the distress calls at about 6:30 p.m. Radio operators in Florida and Mississippi, as well as throughout New Mexico, also reported hearing the plea for help.

A state police spokesman said the calls continued until at least 2 a.m., but "the transmission was very poor and getting weaker."

The spokesman said the child could be "a minimum of about five years old or as old as 10."

He said the boy, who has given no indication of his name or location, "could be anywhere in New Mexico, or anywhere at all for that matter.

The spokesman said the boy apparently was unfamiliar with the equipment and was going from channel to channel, with transmissions reported on at least six channels during the night.

Mrs. Ross reported that the boy said only that he was in New Mexico.

Highway patrol post shaken up at Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — The Chillicothe State Highway Patrol Post has a new commander and assistant commander after the disciplinary transfer last week of five patrol officers.

The new commander is Myron C. Benson, formerly of the Fremont Post, and the new sergeant is Michael D. Hosler, of Elyria.

District commander Capt. Roger Wilson said former post commander Lt. Bruce Scholl and Sgt. W. D. Adams were transferred for failure to maintain control over their men during a party for another patrolman.

Wilson said patrolmen R. W. Doak, W. M. Wilburn, and L. Van De Wissell were transferred, and a fourth patrolman, Harland Chase was dismissed over the incident.

Viet Cong claim many prisoners

PARIS (AP) — A Viet Cong spokesman said today the South Vietnamese government still holds more than 200,000 political prisoners and the United States is financing "the penitentiary regime."

The statement was made by Dinh Ba Thi, a spokesman for delegates of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government. He addressed a news conference after the 20th meeting between Viet Cong and South Vietnamese government delegates trying to reach a political settlement for South Vietnam.

Meter maid tags sheriff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sheriff Raymond Percich discovered the law in St. Louis, at least where overtime parking is concerned, applies equally to all citizens.

In a hurry when he arrived Tuesday for work, Percich parked at a meter on the street rather than in the parking lot, putting nickels in the meter and his sheriff's sign in the car window.

When he came out for lunch, a $3 overtime parking ticket was on his windshield.

Corralling the meter maid, Percich said he pointed to city vehicles parked at expired meters without tickets, to no avail. Percich said he even called the Parking Meter Division to argue over a city counselor's opinion that the sheriff can be ticketed for overtime parking.

"And while I was on the phone, she (the meter maid) had put another ticket on my car," Percich said.

Both sides said there was no progress in today's talks.

just a mistake in judgment by Ehrlichman, not part of a cover-up.

Petersen and Kleindienst added some details to what already had been told.

Petersen said that five days after the Watergate raid, realizing the possibly explosive political implications, he urged that the President publicly order Kleindienst "to run an all-out investigation and let the devil take the hindmost."

But he added, "Unfortunately, we never heard anything from the President." Instead, Dean told them he had been appointed to keep Nixon informed of the investigation.

2nd court fight set over tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon faced the possibility of a new court challenge today just 24 hours after his lawyers filed a lengthy brief supporting his refusal to give White House tapes to Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Samuel Dash, chief counsel of the Senate Watergate committee, said the committee is "almost ready to file" its suit asking a federal judge to declare that it has a legal right to subpoena from the President documents relevant to its investigation.

In a brief filed Tuesday with U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, lawyers for the President argued that the court lacks authority to enforce Cox's subpoena demanding the tapes of nine presidential conversations. The special prosecutor has called the tapes "important evidence" in the Watergate case.

On July 23, both Cox and the committee served the President with subpoenas demanding tapes of specific conversations. He refused.

Cox immediately asked Sirica to order Nixon to say why he was not complying with the subpoena and the President filed his response Tuesday.

Sirica gave Cox until Aug. 13 to respond, in turn, to Nixon's response. He also scheduled oral arguments in the case for 10 a.m., Aug. 22.

The committee, meanwhile, has not yet acted on its decision to file a similar suit against Nixon seeking court clarification. However, Dash said now that the committee knows what to expect in the way of response from Nixon, it will go ahead and file its suit.

The presidential brief was the work of Charles Alan Wright, professor of constitutional law at the University of Texas, who is expected to present the oral arguments in the case. Cox, former U.S. solicitor general, plans to argue the case for his office.

The Nixon brief contends that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers leaves the courts powerless to enforce a subpoena.

But it asserted that although the presidential tapes are being withheld, Nixon "has been and will be making available" to Cox "documentary evidence" pertaining to the Watergate case.

However, a spokesman for the special prosecutor said a White House file in the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. antitrust case requested by Cox has not yet been made available. Ten days ago Cox disclosed that he had requested the file.

Discount gasoline stations eyed

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Already pinched by the nationwide fuel shortage, independent discount gasoline stations are facing another troublesome economic fact of life: direct competition from outlets owned by the major oil companies.

Major oil firms in the past few years have entered the discount-station market with increasing frequency, opening outlets featuring catchy names, cut-rate prices and gasoline generally comparable to that sold in their brand-name stations.

The trend has raised serious questions about the ability of the small, independent gasoline station to survive, especially since oil and gasoline will be harder and harder to come by.

The practice also has caught the eye of the Justice Department.

Justice sources said a probe is under way to determine whether the major oil companies are violating federal antitrust laws by opening more discount stations. The laws are murky in this area, especially since consumers are benefiting by lower prices.

But one Justice source said the department is concerned that independent stations will be forced out of business by the majors' cut-rate, secondary brands.

He raised the question of whether all discount stations would then vanish, leaving the consumer with no alternative to higher-priced major brands.

But major oil companies defend the practice, saying they are beginning to get into an area cornered long ago by independents, thus increasing, not inhibiting, competition.

Sensitive to charges that they can supply their discount stations much easier than the independents, the major oil companies, at least during the present gasoline shortage, have decided against opening any new discount stations.

There is no official count nationally of discount stations owned by the major oil firms. Most estimates put the number at a few thousand.

The majors' outlets have numerous names. Exxon has 28 Alert stations and two more under construction, most of them along the East Coast.

Phillips Petroleum, which began its discount program years ago, has 700 discount stations with such names as Blue Goose, Blackjack, Excel, Red Dot, Bonanza and Seaside.

Shell has Ride stations, Atlantic Richfield has Award, and Standard of Ohio has Gas-N-Go.

Mobil has 29 Sello stations in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, all run by salaried operators.

Although the overall quality of gasoline at Sello is not the same as that sold in Mobil stations, the spokesman said, regular and premium grades with octane ratings "competitive with other nonmajor marketers in the area" are sold.

The quality of the gasoline elsewhere is substantially that of the brand name stations, according to several industry spokesmen, but usually contains fewer additives.

Rechargeable pacemakers used

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Helen Chambers, a 77-year-old grey-haired Baltimore resident, recharges her implanted cardiac pacemaker "while I'm reading, or watching TV, crocheting, or doing embroidery."

Robert Frazier, a 33-year-old athletic looking amateur weightlifter, sometimes recharges his "while I'm sleeping or watching TV."

Mrs. Chambers and Frazier, both of whom have serious heart conditions, are two wearers of the world's first rechargeable pacemakers. The devices, implanted beneath their chest skins, are recharged weekly by the patient themselves.

They do so by first donning small "vests." They then plug wires from small chairside boxes into regular house electric outlets.

The box sends current to a small recharging coil attached to the vest over the implanted pacemaker, which is linked to the heart by a wire.

The coil converts the current to a magnetic field. This is transmitted through the patient's intact skin and recharges the battery of the implanted pacer. A yellow light flashes on the chairside box and a warning-buzzer sounds if the pacer is not being properly charged.

The two Baltimore patients told Tuesday about the do-it-yourself recharging process at a news conference called by scientists of the Johns Hopkins University, developers of the device.

Development of the pacemaker was first disclosed last May. The scientists said in a progress report that they have implanted pacemakers in five patients at the Baltimore hospital. They said nearly 50 other pacemakers have been manufactured and that most of these have been implanted and are working successfully in patients at a number of other American medical centers.

The new stainless steel pacemaker is about the size of a flat cigarette-lighter.

It was described as designed primarily to eliminate the need for surgical operations, every 18 months to two years, to replace run-down chemical batteries of conventional pacemakers.

More than 150,000 cardiac patients throughout the world wear the conventional type, including 60,000 Americans. The number of prospective American wearers grows by 10,000 every year. Most patients are over 60 years old but infants occasionally have been candidates.

Balloonist under way for Europe

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Bob Sparks directed his nine-story red, white and blue balloon toward Europe today in an effort to become the world's first transatlantic balloonist.

The weather was cloudy as Sparks, a 37-year-old resort recreation director, kissed his wife and children, then climbed into the aluminum gondola shortly after daybreak to begin his solo flight.

Nearly 1,000 spectators cheered as the helium-filled "Yankee Zephyr" soared into the sky from Bar Harbor Airport.

Sparks, of Tamiment, Pa., said he's aiming his craft for France, "but I'd consider anything from Finland to Italy a pinpoint landing." He said he expects the trip to take five days.

Sparks and his 20-man ground crew have been in Bar Harbor for the past three weeks, waiting for a meteorologist in New York to give the "go sign" when wind and weather conditions were right.

An experienced balloonist, Sparks has set a world record for hot-air soaring and has spent two years in preparation for the 3,200-mile flight.

Ohio Demos seek cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Democratic Party has $300,000 in a savings account but wants $2 million to run next year's campaign.

With a full-time staff of 23, the party organization is as strong as it has been in history. It hopes to benefit financially from a national Democratic party telethon Sept. 15.

State Chairman William A. Lavelle said the organization would keep half of the amount raised in Ohio.

Cambodia Reds blast radio station

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian insurgents attacked Phnom Penh's main international radio transmission center near the city's airport Tuesday night and blew up a major part of the installation, informed military sources reported.

The 100-man government force defending the station threw down their weapons and ran after the insurgents shouted to them to lay down their arms, the sources said.

The Communist force, estimated at 30 men, then occupied the main building without resistance and laid explosive charges in several radio rooms.

Seven troops hiding around the buildings were wounded by the explosions, the sources said.

Only the cable and radio circuits to Hong Kong were undamaged, the sources said.

The attack was reported earlier by the Cambodian government. It said seven government soldiers were wounded, there was some damage and international cable and telephone traffic was not interrupted.

It was the second attack in three months on the important installation at Kambol, about 11 miles west of the center of Phnom Penh.

U. S. bombers this morning began blasting areas around the airport where Communist insurgents were believed hidden. Smoke from the bombing billowed up behind the terminal as foreign passenger planes were landing.

Meanwhile, government forces were reported advancing against insurgent forces entrenched along Highways 1 and 3 south and southeast of Phnom Penh, while the rebels were pressing in toward the capital from the north and northwest.

A communique said government troops advanced more than three miles Tuesday down Highway 1. On Highway 3 the target was a concentration of insurgents dug in around the village of Kompong Tuol and along the banks of the Prek Thnot River.

U.S. bombing in the countryside in support of the government forces continued to shake Phnom Penh day and night.

Cambodian military sources reported eight persons killed and 16 wounded in the accidental U. S. bombing Tuesday of a government island in the Mekong River. The island, which was bombed by an F111 fighter-bomber, was six miles from Neak Luong, the naval base town in which an accidental B52 strike the day before killed 137 persons and wounded 118.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said the bombs that hit Tachor Island should have landed 1,800 feet away on the west bank of the Mekong. He said it appeared that the mistake may have been caused by an equipment malfunction.

Warm and humid weather remains in Ohio's weather picture for the next couple of days with possibly some relief in showers seen as a possibility Friday and Saturday.

The showers would come with a cold front associated with a low pressure area moving slowly eastward from Minnesota to Texas. The cold front is expected to move to a line from upper Michigan to Missouri by Thursday morning and continue eastward across the Great Lakes during the next couple of days.

A high pressure area now controlling Ohio's weather remains anchored along the East Coast. Skies were clear Tuesday night across the state and fog formed again in the valleys of southeastern Ohio. At dawn temperaturs were generally in the upper 60s and low 70s, and is expected to climb well into the 80s in the afternoon, and top the 90-degree mark in parts of central and southern Ohio.

Humidities will be rising gradually and cloudiness will show some increase tonight and Thursday, the Weather Service said.

Warm with a chance of showers or thundershowers Friday and Saturday, becoming fair Sunday. Highs from the mid 80s to low 90s. Lows from the mid 60s to low 70s.

Storm belt divides U.S. 'fair' zones

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms crackled from the Texas Panhandle to the northern Mississippi Valley today, dividing the country into two fair-weather zones.

Low clouds and fog marred fair skies on the Pacific Coast, and haze covered the northeastern quarter of the nation. Otherwise, mostly clear skies prevailed.

In the rainy belt, South Dakota's thunderstorms remained intense before dawn. Other thunderstorms were scattered from western Kansas to western Iowa and triggered severe weather as they churned eastward. Winds hit 50 to 60 miles per hour in central Kansas.

Troy, in extreme northeastern Kansas, was deluged with 2.40 inches of rain. St. Joseph, Mo., was drenched with 2.04 inches, and Salina, Kan., received 1.2 inches.

A tornado was sighted Tuesday night southeast of Fort Dodge, Iowa. No injuries were reported.

Lighter rain sprinkled parts of Florida, Michigan, Montana and New England.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 49 at Flagstaff, Ariz., to 90 at Needles, Calif.

Stock list takes slide

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market switched into reverse gear today as investors backed up because of inflation and pressure on the dollar abroad.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.15 to 904.80 at noon.

Declines held a 2-to-1 lead over advances in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange, and the broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off 0.33 to 56.50.

On the American Stock Exchange, losers also commanded a broad lead over gainers, and the price-change index was down .03 to 23.31.

CNA Financial, up 3/8 to 11 1/4, was the Big Board's most-active issue on volume of 123,300 shares, including a 100,000-share block that traded at 11.

Alcan Aluminum, the second-most-active, added 1/2 to 34 reflecting strengthening demand for aluminum products. Other heavily traded issues included Magnavox, up 1 5/8 to 12 3/8; Eastern Air Lines, down 1/4 to 8 1/2; and Teleprompter off 1 to 13 3/8.

Policemen reinstated

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Newark Safety Director Russell Payne announced Tuesday the 21 policemen fired for calling in sick had been reinstated under a complicated agreement worked out with their attorney.

The agreement acknowledges that the men were sick at the time, but also provides that they be reinstated under terms of the Ferguson Act, which bans strikes by public employes, Payne said.

Fire firm likes loss of business

By CLINT SWIFT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's third largest writer of fire insurance will do $1 million less business this year than last. No one is happier about it than the chairman of the board.

The happy loser is the Ohio FAIR Plan Underwriting Association, a group of more than 200 Ohio insurance companies that pooled their resources in 1968 to provide protection for businesses in run-down or riotprone urban areas.

The chairman is former state Insurance Commissioner William R. Morris, who says the decline in premiums means everything is going according to plan.

"We are very pleased that more and more of the businesses that found themselves unable to buy insurance in the long, hot summer of 1968 now can buy policies in the normal market," Morris said.

Ohio's FAIR plan was formed voluntarily the state's fire underwriters after catastrophic losses suffered during the riots of the mid-1960s.

Last year, the FAIR plan provided protection for 23,000 concerns with premiums totaling $4.5 million. With only a month to go in fiscal 1973, it appears that the association will write less than $3.5 million in premiums or about 20,000 policies.

Happiest about the decline in business are the member insurance companies which are selling the lost premiums themselves and who pay $140,000 a year to subsidize FAIR.

Last year, FAIR (which stands for Fair Access to Insurance Requirements) lost $746,-000 insuring firms in the state's designated high-risk areas. They are: Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Lima, Springfield, Toledo, Yellow Springs, Youngstown and Xenia Township in Greene County.

Arson has proved to be FAIR's biggest problem. Intentional fires cost the association more than $1 million in the last two years, mostly in Cleveland.

The FAIR plan's administrator, Richard P. Fogo, attributes the sharp decline in business to the recent calm on college campuses and inner cities and to increasing confidence on the part of insurance companies.

Fogo's staff, which last year numbered 24, will soon be down to 18.

"Some of our employes are wondering whether they have a stable employer," he smiled.

Dark figures mar agricultural forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The success or failure of Phase 4 will determine whether Americans will be facing a recession in January or looking back at "a temporary aberration" in the economy.

That was the long-range prediction Tuesday from the Agriculture Department's Outlook and Situation Board.

It forecast that prices in the grocery stores would average 20 per cent higher for all of 1973 than for 1972. It also predicted record crops in principal commodities, but with demand keeping pace with the reapers. And prices throughout the food sector will remain "strong," that is, high, said the board.

The economy's April-June performance was disturbing, said the board.

Inflation had been expected to slow during these months; instead, it increased slightly to a 6.8 per cent annual rate. Real growth had been expected to moderate "from the unsustainable 8.7 per cent annual rate" of January-March; but it plummeted to a 2.6 per cent rate.

The board looked at that, then turned around to look into the second half of 1973 and saw:

—Gross and net farm income at a record level and strong foreign and domestic demand keeping it well above previous levels.

—Corn and wheat produced at record levels. Demand will prevent an easing of price, however. And, with wheat, at least 52 per cent of the projected crop had been committed to export a month ago, when the reserves from last season carried over at a low level. With no decrease in demand, prices will average well above last year's $1.80-a-bushel average and reserves will end up at their lowest point in 22 years.

—The record soybean crop exceeding demand slightly, building a reserve in that increasingly important commodity.

—Milk and egg production both down and prices remaining high for those products, hogs and for vegetables.

—Cotton output falling close to a million bales short of satisfying demand. By a month ago, 4.7 million bales already were committed to export of a projected 12.2-million-bale crop.

—Livestock production about the same, in the face of increased demand.

"The outcome of recent policy actions will determine the timing and degree of future slowdowns in the economy," the board said. "The inflationary pressures are now confronted with Phase 4," and monetary-policy activities may help the stability of the dollar abroad.

"Whether the slowdown in the economy will lead to recession or whether the second quarter will be remembered as a temporary aberration caused by excessive first-quarter rates of growth will be greatly influenced by the success of these policies."

Cattle rustling worse in state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio beef industry is on the lookout for rustlers.

Reports of thefts at meat packing plants, storage houses and lockers are increasing, and several firms confirmed they have tightened security.

"I'm waiting here with a shotgun," said Ernest Kern of Kern and Hurley Packing Co., Piketon. The company caught two men last week trying to steal 1,200 pounds of beef.

More than $1,300 worth of beef was stolen from the firm a week ago, Kern said.

"I guess this'll keep up until people aren't so desperate any more," Kern said.

Two major meat packers in Cincinnati say they have taken new precautions in the last two months because of robberies, although not necessarily meat thefts.

"We took corrective measures about two months ago," one spokesman said. "We've doubled our locks and put bars on the windows."

Cleveland area packers said their burglar detection systems had proved adequate to deter thieves.

If housewives feel the price of beef on supermarket shelves is banditry, Ohio grocers found little evidence of it.

"You've got to be kidding," said Dahl Baer, who buys meat for Big Bear chain stores in Columbus.

"I'll guarantee you if we had the beef, they'd buy it. And I'll bet there's some farmers out there who aren't selling cattle just to spite housewives who joined in the last boycott."

Baer said he saw no local impact of a "Don't Buy Anything Day" which had been called for Tuesday by West Coast consumer groups.

Baer said the firm's warehouse, which normally holds up to a month's supply of aged beef, would be empty next week.

Actor Broderick Crawford to wed

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Veteran actor Broderick Crawford and Mary Alice Michel of Los Angeles plan to marry today in ceremonies at the St. Louis County Courthouse.

The 61-year-old actor and the 49-year-old widow applied for their license Tuesday in this St. Louis suburb.

The marriage will be the third for Crawford and the second for Mrs. Michel. The couple met in Hollywood.

Crawford just completed a six-week theater engagement in St. Louis County. He plays a grumpy policeman in the television series "Highway Patrol."

Horse shows and competitions evolved from the desire of hunt club members to compare their horses and riding skills.

Plane crash injures 3

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — "I don't know why they're alive," said Mrs. Richard L. Ottinger after a single engine plane buzzed over her bead and crashed in her back yard.

The three men in the plane, including two from Ohio, were in fair condition at Grasslands Hospital in Valhalla.

Mrs. Ottinger, wife of a former congressman, said Tuesday she was swimming in a pond on her heavily-wooded property when she heard an engine sputtering.

"It came in right over my head and crashed into the hill on the other side of the pond," she said.

An official at the Westchester County Airport, about 10 miles away, said the pilot radioed he was out of gas and the plane disappeared from the scope a moment later.

The men were identified as John Wells, 33, of Columbus, Ohio, the pilot; Kenneth Jackson, 56, of Worthington, Ohio and John Derbyshire, 45, of Skaneateles, N.Y.

Opinion And Comment

Campaign reform urgency

A new wave of election campaign reform, stimulated by the Watergate disclosures, has gotten off to a good start. The Senate has passed a bill which includes some tough restrictions and would create a federal election commission.

There is, however, some reason for concern lest the momentum die down so as to preclude final congressional action at this session. House committee hearings on the matter are not expected to begin until mid-September, so that the time for consideration and action is sharply limited.

There is some sentiment for waiting until the Senate Watergate committee offers its conclusions and recommendations. The committee's vice chairman, Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, has expressed this view, urging the Senate not to indulge in "an orgy of reforms without purpose or direction."

His colleagues were not moved by that argument, however: they acted, instead, in the spirit of the comment of Sen. Howard W. Cannon of Nevada that "I don't believe the American public is willing to wait."

One thing to bear in mind is that further changes can be made in the light of the Watergate committee recommendations when they come next year. In the meantime, the most should be made of the sense of urgency about campaign reform which pervades the American consciousness.

In this matter as in many others, the dictum holds true: Strike while the iron is hot.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by Bayard Rustin

Black progress or regress?

The controversy over how little or how much progress blacks have made has been obscured by absurdities.

President Nixon, for example, has announced the resolution of the urban crisis, and presumably the racial crisis as well. This is, of course, ridiculous, and demonstrates that the President's efforts to cover up his domestic failures are equally as feeble as his Administration's attempts to conceal its complicity in the Watergate scandals.

There are some liberals, however, who rival the President for inaccuracy by proclaiming that the civil rights laws and social programs of the 1960s were meaningless, and that blacks are as bad or worse off today as ever.

Reality lies somewhere between the President's assurances that all is well, and the pessimism and negativism of liberals. The social, economic and political progress of blacks during the 1960's was substantial and incontestable; furthermore much of that progress has persisted in the face of Nixon's abysmal, incoherent policies.

A RECENT STUDY by Richard Scammon and Ben Wattenberg, published in Commentary magazine, documents many of these gains. This article has provoked considerably criticism from black leaders largely because of the authors' assertion that the rate of progress has been sufficient to elevate the majority of blacks into the middle class.

The argument over whether most blacks have entered the middle class is largely irrelevant, although I feel it would be more accurate to say that most blacks are now part of what we generally consider the working class. I also think Scammon and Wattenberg neglected two important points: the revolution of aspirations in the black community and the fact that for those blacks who were by-passed by the progress so many others enjoyed, poverty and the cruelty of ghetto life have become both materially and psychologically more intolerable.

Nevertheless I consider the Scammon-Wattenberg article of considerable importance, particularly as it points out the importance of acknowledging the racial advancements of the '60s and understanding how this progress came about. Their point is simple, and has incalculable implications for the civil rights movement.

They believe that by insisting that the policies of liberalism have failed — that the housing programs, education programs, manpower efforts and expansionary economic policies have been unable to help those they were intended to help — liberals risk total public repudiation. To quote the authors, it is as if liberals were saying: "We have failed; let us continue."

A recent census report reinforces the conclusion of Scammon and Wattenberg that black progress is largely the result of liberal programs. Taken together, the Scammon-Wattenberg article and census studies reveal a pattern of steady advancement during the period between 1961 and 1969 — when Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were in office—and social stagnation in the years since the election of Richard Nixon.

Between 1959 and 1969 there was a substantial decrease in the racial earnings gap. Where black median income was 51 per cent of white income at the beginning of this decade, it stood at 61 per cent by the decade's conclusion. Since 1969, however, the earnings gap has actually increased to the point where the median black family income is only 59 per cent of that of whites.

In 1962, 12 million blacks, 56 per cent of all Negroes, lived below the federal poverty level; by 1969 the abolition of Jim Crow, expanding social programs, and economic policies that created thousands of jobs reduced the number of impoverished blacks to 7.6 million, or 31 per cent. Now, four years later, at least 100,000 more blacks live in poverty.

ONE MIGHT put forward numerous reasons for the blunting of black gains: The answer, however, follows directly from the job policies of the Nixon Administration. There is a historical correlation between black advancement and periods of high employment.

The years after World War II were one such period; the 1960s was another. An unemployment figure of 12.4 per cent in 1961 was cut in half by 1969; today black joblessness hovers around 10 per cent, and the situation is more depressing for teenagers, veterans and ghetto-dwellers.

The programs of the Johnson Administration were no panacea; they did not go far enough or reach enough people to satisfy the justifiably accelerating aspirations of black Americans. But if we are to press ahead with the struggle for a society that is equal and just, we must fully understand what enabled thousands to escape poverty.

If it is true that the programs of the 1960s contained flaws, it is also true that they contributed to a reduction of black unemployment of 400,000 workers and helped lift more than 4,000,000 people out of poverty.

Liberals have made mistakes; their rhetoric often outstrips their record. But the liberal program, from Roosevelt on down to Johnson, has brought a massive change in the condition of working people — black and white. By reminding us of this, Scammon and Wattenberg have made an important contribution to the future of social struggle.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — In setting forth his Phase IV guidelines for the economy, President Nixon stressed that the government must set an example in the area of fiscal responsibility.

The House recently demonstrated its willingness to cooperate in this important matter by defeating a bill which most certainly would have led to a substantial pay hike for members of Congress as well as for thousands of other employes in the three branches of the federal government.

The legislation would have authorized that the review and adjustment of executive, legislative and judicial salaries be conducted at two-year intervals as opposed to the present four year intervals. It also would have moved up the date of such salary recommendations to Aug. 31 of each review year.

There was very little doubt, however, that had this legislation passed a pay raise would have been recommended for this fall.

I WAS completely opposed to the proposal. After two devaluations of the dollar and a national debt approaching one-half trillion dollars, this is certainly not the time to be raising congressional salaries. Moreover, while the exact sum of the raise was not known, it would have been somewhere in the vicinity of $10,000 to $12,500 per year. This would have been well above the 5.6 per cent limitations of the Phase IV guidelines.

Not only the magnitude of the sum, but also the fact that we would have been left totally in the dark as to the exact amount of the raise concerned me deeply. I believe there should be some public disclosure as to the final figure on the raise before Congress should enact legislation setting the stage for the pay hike, particularly when the taxpayers would be footing the bill.

MOREOVER, during these times of inflation and high costs of government, there is no justification for Congress to vote itself a pay raise reportedly six times above the current guidelines.

I do not see how the Congress could ask the rest of the country to hold down demands for wage increases to a mere 5 or 6 per cent and then vote to increase its own pay by an amount considerably larger than this. Such an abandonment of responsibility would have fostered a most unpalatable double standard in government.

Some proponents of the legislation argued that an increase of $10,000 to $12,500 for members of Congress would not inflict much damage on the federal budget. However, recommendations are expected to also be made for pay raises for several thousands of high officials of the three branches of government.

In all likelihood, then, if salaries of members of Congress were raised $12,500 per year, ultimately more than a million federal employes would have their pay raised by an average of $5,000 per year. This would amount to a cost of $5 billion annually out of the taxpayers' pocket.

THIS IS NO paltry figure, and I believe it could be put to better use in other federal programs where more money is needed. I coult cite the water pollution control programs specifically, and a host of other health, education, housing and domestic programs. In comparison, the highway safety programs which I have proposed and which could save upwards of 10,000 lives annually, for example, would cost under a billion dollars per year.

Under these circumstances, how anyone could advocate a 30 per cent congressional pay raise on the grounds that it would not be inflationary or detrimental to the economy is simply preposterous. With prices soaring, every sector of the economy must make major sacrifices to help combat inflation.

In my mind, this certainly does not exclude top salary levels of the federal government. If Congress expects the rest of the nation to comply with Phase IV, it should be willing to do likewise.

Burr Oak park closing explained

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan's decision to close the lodge at Burr Oak State Park because of violence and threats of disruptive activity was made with public safety in mind and despite the loss of state revenues, the director of the state Department of Natural Resources says.

"We are certain all, with the apparent exception of Ohio Inns, would agree with Gov. Gilligan that the safety of the vacationing public and it being able to enjoy a hard-earned vacation free from threats of violence is the matter which is of the highest concern in this unfortunate and unnecessary situation," William B. Nye said.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

59-year-old fiance wants a bridal shower

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm actually writing a "Dear Abby" letter, but a friend has just put me on the spot, and I don't know how to handle it.

Sarah is a 59-year-old widow who "fell in love" with a 72-year-old widower she met on a cruise last winter. They are being married soon. She was just here and is as excited as a teen-ager. I think she's flipped her lid. She wants a bridal shower! Abby, Sarah has everything she needs, and she can afford to buy anything she wants, but she insists it's not the gifts, it's just the idea of having a shower.

She said when she was married the first time things were rough, and she never had a shower, and now she'd like one. Sarah is such a dear and generous person and I hate to let her down, but Abby, how can I invite women to a bridal shower for a 59-year-old bride who has everything?

ON THE SPOT IN PASSAIC

DEAR ON: Easy. Make it a gag gift shower. Ask everyone to bring a cute little inexpensive present for the 59-year-old bride of a 72-year-old groom. The possibilities are endless. (Also hilarious.)

DEAR ABBY: There's this dude named Nicky I really dig. We are both nearly 16. The other night I called Nicky up because he was home just getting over (of all things) the chicken pox!

The time passes so fast I didn't realize we'd talked for four hours, but this is what I want to say. Nicky said: "Hey, wait a minute, I think somebody's at the front door." Then he came back and said: "My dad is out of town on business and he's been trying to call the house for four hours, and he got so ticked off he called our next door neighbor long distance and asked him to come over here and tell whoever was on the phone to get the h—— off!" Naturally, we got off fast, and here's the problem.

Nicky's dad put Nicky on restrictions for a whole month: That means we can't go anyplace. Do you think this is a fair punishment for a little thing like that?

FEELS AWFUL

DEAR FEELS: It's a bit stiff. But I'll bet in the future, Nicky either gets his own telephone, or limits his conversations to 10 minutes.

DEAR ABBY: My grandson has been engaged to a lovely girl for a year and they are now making wedding plans. He is 24, and she is 22.

I know that both my grandson and his fiance would like more than anything in the world to go on a nice honeymoon, but they can't afford it because they have been buying appliances and household furnishings together.

I told him to let his friends and relatives know that they would rather have a donation toward their honeymoon than a lot of wedding presents, but he says he just couldn't tell them that as it would sound cheap.

What do you think?

GRANDMA

D E A R GRANDMA: He's right. He can't ask for money instead of gifts, but as his grandmother, you could suggest it to the relatives.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, August 8, the 220th day of 1973. There are 145 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1588, British sea forces under Sir Francis Drake destroyed the Spanish Armada in a battle off the coast of France.

On this date—

In 1673, the Dutch recaptured New York and New Jersey from the British.

In 1776, John Paul Jones was commissioned a captain in the American navy.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for St. Helena to spend the rest of his life in exile.

In 1945, the Soviet Union declared war on Japan—seven days before the Japanese surrendered at the end of World War II.

In 1950, Gen. Douglas MacArthur was appointed United Nations commander in Korea during the Korean War.

In 1960, the United Nations demanded the evacuation of Belgian troops from the Congo.

Ten years ago: A gang of masked robbers held up a mail train near Cheddington, England, and escaped with more than $7 million dollars in cash and gems.

Five years ago: Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon picked Maryland Governor Spiro T. Agnew as his vice presidential running mate.

One year ago: Enemy forces on a new offensive in South Viet carried the warfare near the capital of Saigon.

Today's birthdays: Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg is 65. Actress Sylvia Sidney is 63. Country music singer Webb Pierce is 47. Country music singer Mel Tillis is 41.

Thought for today: Enjoy your life without comparing it with that of others — Marquis De Condorcet, French philosopher, 1743-1794.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL L. SMITH

Miss Oesterle, Mr. Smith are united in marriage

Miss Melanie Sue Oesterle became the bride of Daniel Lee Smith in a candlelight ceremony in the United Methodist Church in New Holland. The Rev. Frank Allen White and Rev. Fr. David M. Schulder of Chillicothe performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. July 21. Miss Oesterle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard L. Oesterle Sr. of New Holland, and the granddaughter of Mrs. J. W. Morris and Mrs. Kenneth Oesterle Sr. also of New Holland. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Smith, 502 Edgemont Rd., Newark.

Two seven-branched candelabra decorated with greenery and multi-colored ribbon, and two baskets filled with white gladioli and multi-colored Majestic Daisies enhanced the altar. The pews were marked by multi-colored ribbons and greenery. Arrangements of daisies and fern with white candles were placed in the windows. Mrs. Charles Dinkler of Jeffersonville, organist, presented a half-hour of music.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza. Long full sleeves ended in wide bands of lace fastened at the wrist. Embroidered lace motiffs were on the bodice and the A-line skirt had a miniature pleated train. She wore a chapel length veil of silk illusion and matching lace. The bride carried a Colonial bouquet of miniature white Fuji mums and carnations and baby's breath centered with pink sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Penny Hardman was maid of honor. She wore an orchid formal length Victorian style gown of polyester with bright green and white flowers which featured a standup collar, long full sleeves with single ruffle and bright green ribbon entwined in lace at the empire waist. Also the bride fashioned parasols for her attendants matching their gowns with garlands of Majestic daisies and baby's breath, tied to parasol with matching ribbons. She also presented each with a gold bracelet.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Lawrence Woods of Columbus, sister of the bride. Her gown was identical to the maid of honor only in pink. Miss Sandra Smith of Newark, sister of the groom, wore a yellow gown, and Miss Dianne Oesterle, sister of the bride, wore pink. Miss Debora Morris of Williamsport, cousin of the bride, wore mint green.

Mrs. Oesterle chose for her daughter's wedding a street-length crepe dress of navy and white, with white accessories. She wore a corsage of red sweetheart roses. Mrs. Smith chose a blue and white floral dress with white accessories, and a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

The grandmothers wore white carnation corsages.

Warren Trakas of Bainbridge, served as best man. Groomsmen were William Hamburger, Richard Southworth of Chillicothe, David Smith, brother of the groom, and Maynard Oesterle, brother of the bride.

Hostesses for the reception which followed in Fellowship Hall were Miss Kathleen Morris of Washington C. H., Mrs. Charles Queen, sister of the groom, Mrs. Dick Downs of Mt. Sterling, and Miss Lori Brenner of Dayton, cousins of the bride.

At the guest book were Miss Cheryl Queen, of Chillicothe, niece of the groom, Miss Mary Ellen Oesterle, sister of the bride.

The new Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Ohio University, Athens, where she majored in education, Mr. Smith is also a graduate of Ohio University, majoring in business. He is associated with 84 Lumber Company at Painesville.

Upon returning from Niagra Falls, they are now residing at 528 High Street, Fairport Harbor.

Women's roles changing in Japan

By KEN YOSHIDA
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — American novelist Pearl Buck, in one of her books, once asked her Japanese secretary whether she put up with the Japanese men's habit of visiting bars after work.

The secretary replied yes. She said she even waited up for her husband coming home in the wee hours in the morning — without nagging him.

She then told Pearl Buck that she complained at first, but no longer because "he did not come home at all."

Those good old days for men are quickly fading away.

Today, few Japanese women believe in the "three canons of womanhood": Obey your father while still at home unmarried, obey your husband in marriage and obey your son after being widowed.

Most married Japanese women still refer to their husbands as "Shujin" (master), and men to their wives as "Kanai" (one-in-the-house). Young girls attend bridal schools to take lessons in flower-arranging, tea ceremonies, dressmaking or homemaking or, usually, a combination of some of them, so that they can perform wifely duties well. And female employes are often to serve tea to their male colleagues or supervisors.

A far cry from the turn of the century, however, people no longer frown upon the men washing clothes, preparing dinner or carrying babies. Opportunities for higher education are shared by men and women alike, although only one out of every four college students is a coed.

Although housewives account for fully 26 per cent of all female Japanese, many others have come out of their kitchen confines to engage in activities traditionally in the domain of men.

There are 10,420 women in administrative jobs, more than 528,000 female technologists, 58,000 professionals, 36,000 factory owners, 78,000 company executives and 429,000 shop operators. The Japan Women's Medical Association claims membership of 4,500 and estimates there may be as many nonmember female doctors in the country. There are 257 women lawyers and 657 women professors.

Women also have gained prominence for 48,000 of the nation's 362,000 crimes in 1971. There are frequent reports of women killing their babies or abandoning them. Two years ago, a 27-year-old woman led a bizarre kangaroo court which sentenced 12 members of the United Red Army to death and executed them in a mountain hideout.

The number of divorces has almost doubled in the past 10 years to an estimated 110,000 last year, the increase being largely attributed to rising women's power at home and is society.

One of the most visible of the changes is Japan's policewomen.

The Japanese government hired 63 policewomen for the first time in 1946. The number has now increased to 1,500 across the country.

The metropolitan police have assigned 800 of their 1,100 policewomen to traffice control and the rest to guiding juvenile delinquents, guarding prisoners or patrolling for female pickpockets. They have even posted 15 women at police boxes on Tokyo's busy street corners.

Surprisingly in a supposedly male-dominated country, many policewomen deny they have encountered any difficulty in dealing with male criminals or traffic violators.

"I think we have gained a reputation of being tougher than our male colleagues," Fumiko Niki, one of the two female officers at the metropolitan police, said recently. "Some drivers are scared of us."

Miss Mitsuko Ikeda, a chubby, miniskirted 20-year-old policewoman, agrees.

"I have been giving tickets, booking traffic violators and criminals and controlling traffic." she said. "But even a drunken man didn't tease me."

Some drivers commented that policewomen are usually inflexible "and can get quite sticky if you try to get away with your violation."

It was Pearl Buck's observation that Japanese women have ceased to be subdued, withdrawn or silent — as were the women she knew before the war. The late Nobel laureate may have underestimated the changes.

Charms are popular

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IN SOME PARTS of the world, people still wear charms to ward off the evil eye, but in the U.S.A. charms are popular for more enchanting reasons. They're worn to commemorate special occasions — births, birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, graduations, promotions. Sometimes, they're chosen because they symbolize a hobby or special interest. Charms were once collected on bracelets but the latest fad is to wear them on a chain.

Wells, Inc., the largest manufacturer of sterling silver charms, catalogs 650, and that covers a lot of occasions and special interests.

For animal lovers, for example, there are bird and animal charms — dog and cat, of course, but also such exotic animals as the tiger and alligator.

Wedding and anniversary motifs are numerous, including everything from a movable ball and chain or handcuffs to a wedding ring, marriage license or champagne bucket. The best-selling charms of all are a boy's head and a girl's head, often engraved with Baby's birth date.

Other charm categories include: hobbies, housewives, grandmother, medical, military, musical, nautical, and travel,.

Who buys charms?

"Women from 18 to 30 buy 43 per cent of the charms sold," said Larry Ronco of Wells, Inc. "while teenagers account for 23 per cent of sales. Charms sell best seasonally at Christmas, Valentine's Day, graduation and Mother's Day. They appeal because they can commemorate an occasion in a very personal way."

And that's for sure! A charm bracelet or chain can tell a story via charms that symbolize the special events of a lifetime.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — That three-network fall fandango called "premiere week" won't start until Sept. 10, but the campaigns urging us to watch new and returning shows already are moving into high gear on television.

"Come and See NBC '73," says that network, which in 1972 roared: "This Fall, NBC Has It All." ABC's 1973 slogan, a slightly revamped version of last year's model, says: "This is the Place to Be—on ABC."

And CBS, which last year campaigned on "Have We Got a Fall For You," is marching this season with "This Year, Like Last Year, the Best is Right Here on CBS." It's even tossed in a bouncing ball to help you follow the words on the television screen.

The barrage of 30-second and one-minute cheers—they're called "promos" in the trade— all feature large orchestras, film and videotape flashes of coming shows and end with the general campaign slogans.

Come the start of the new season, the campaigns will get specific, giving capsule descriptions of the night's new shows and often including brief scenes from coming first-run programs.

This annual drumbeating almost was muffled this year by a 16-week Hollywood writers' strike that didn't end until July. It halted production on many new and returning shows.

NBC and ABC officials say it also delayed promotion efforts for those shows, but not seriously. The campaigns got under way the last week in July, about a week later than usual, they said.

However, Louis Dorfsman, a vice president in charge of the CBS promotion effort, says the strike had almost no effect on his campaign, mainly because it was divided into two phases.

Phase 1, he said, began the last week of June and was heavily played throughout July. It touted no shows but rather CBS' claim that Nielsen ratings show it to be the most-watched network—during prime evening hours—for 17 consecutive years.

"It's a 'tradey' kind of statement the sales department occasionally uses," he said. "Well, I took it and said, 'Damn it, that's just too good to let waste.'"

The campaign consisted of six 30-second spots in which he took what he calls "nutty world records that deal with duration"—the longest Charleston dance (27 hours), the faceslapping record (31 hours) and so forth—and matched them against CBS' 17-year claim.

The actors portraying the record-holders all swooned and collapsed upon learning of CBS' title. The idea, Dorfsman says, was to make the point with a few laughs while remaining low-key about it.

"My theory is, how could people not want to go to No. 1," he says. "People naturally gravitate to winners."

Phase 2, which began early this month, directly emphasizes the coming season with brief glimpses of the new shows.

Hoffa plans Lucasville prison tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Teamsters boss James Hoffa, who spent 58 months in a federal prison for jury tampering, will talk with inmates Thursday at the troubled Ohio prison at Lucasville.

Hoffa said he had letters from inmates saying prisoners had been stripped and locked up 24-hours a day after two guards were killed at the prison July 24.

He will be accompanied by C. Edward Lawrenson, director of the criminal reform movement of the National Association for Justice. Hoffa heads up the crisis control center of the NAJ.

Hoffa said he came to Columbus believing he could tour the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility Monday. He said he and Lawrenson had approval from Governor John J. Gilligan and prison officials to have unrestricted talks with guards and inmates.

Lawrenson said Dr. Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Ohio Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, told him the inspection would have to wait until Thursday when a shakedown of inmates is scheduled to be completed.

Although Hoffa said he would be impartial, he added, "It's unbelieveable that people would be stripped and locked into cells 24 hours a day."

Ohio Perspective

Assembly bills fall by wayside

By TERESA C. PITTS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 1,400 bills poured into Ohio's 110th General Assembly this session, but less than a sixth of them are expected to reach the governor's desk for signature or veto.

Gov. John J. Gilligan has signed 43 bills from this legislature to date and 20 more are being prepared for his action this week.

The bulk of the bills passed by the legislature—upwards of 200—probably won't be relayed to Gilligan until Aug. 14, designated as "signing day" by the legislature's adjournment bill.

The governor has 10 days to sign a bill or reject it. If he takes no action, it is known as a "pocket veto."

Since most major bills are compromise efforts, a surprise veto of important legislation would be rare, said Bob Tenembaum, the governor's press secretary.

The governor may veto "some minor bills," he said, "but why should he think about vetoing things when we're all rushing to get these things passed?"

Lawmakers, hoping to adjourn this week, have spent the last month in lengthy sessions and late-night committee hearings to clear up this year's business.

The paperwork involved in winding up a legislative session can be staggering, said Senate Clerk Harry V. Jump.

"We've been working day and night trying to get these bills printed, proofread and ready for signing."

The bills are held back until "signing day"—usually two weeks after the final gavel—so the House Speaker and President Pro Tem of the Senate can affix their signature to the bills all at the same time, Jump said.

The bills are then carried to the governor's office, where his staff checks them again for accuracy.

Approved bills are sent to the Secretary of State's Office for filing among the state statutes.

House and Senate leaders are notified of bills that have been vetoed, and may choose to call a special session to "out vote" the governor's decision, or wait until the next session convenes to take up the bills again.

10 balloonists to compete in State Fair race

It will be "Up, Up and Away" during the 6th annual 7-Up International Balloon Race at the 1973 Ohio State Fair.

Liftoff is set for 12-noon, Friday, August 31, from the infield area.

In making the announcement, Vic Lucas, general manager of the Ohio State Fair, noted that although balloon racing is a relatively new sport in this country, "the International Balloon Race at the Ohio State Fair is now the most continuously held race at one location that is officially sanctioned anywhere in the world."

Among the 10 entrants for the race will be Dennis Floder, of Flint, MI. Floder, currently U.S. National Champion, flies under the name of Captain Phineas Fogg, the hero of Jules Verne's "Around the World in 80 Days".

Also entered in the competition will be an entry from France called the "Paris Match," sponsored by the magazine of the same name.

Lucas added that the president of the Balloon Federation of England will be a special guest at the International Balloon Race.

The Ohio State Fair will be held Aug. 23 through Sept. 3.

Agents seize Vesco yacht

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami Herald says U.S. Customs agents have seized a yacht that apparently belongs to financier Robert L. Vescon who is under indictment with two former Nixon Cabinet officers on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

The Herald said the $1.4 million, 121-foot yacht Patricia III was seized last week when it berthed for repairs at a shipyard on the Miami River. A federal judge later ordered the vessel not to sail outside U.S. waters, the paper said.

The sailing injunction was issued by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Ward on a suit by attorneys for the International Controls Corp., who want the vessel as partial settlement of a $5 million claim against Vesco, a former manager of the firm, The Herald said.

Vesco, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans were indicted last May on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

Stans and Mitchell were accused of plotting to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco in return for $200,000 in contributions to President Nixon's reelection effort.

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A fair day. You can manage in better-than-average fashion, yet must take precautions neither to underestimate nor overevaluate new propositions.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

New and unusual ideas, thoughtfully presented, could bring added gains. A good period, also, for making long-range plans.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You can be very thrifty, or too extravagant; can indulge other extremes also, if not alert to this tendency now. Look for that "middle road" and stick to it.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Whether the unexpected arises or the going is "as usual," if day is well planned, you can fare well if continually on the alert. And DO ignore rumors.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Face realities and correct deficiencies as effectually as possible. Your innate foresight and good judgment should make this relatively easy.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be alert to intricacies if several people are concerned in your activities but don't overlook your own intuitive faculties in coping.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

An auspicious day for business ventures. This is a period in which to give your finest performance, to capitalize on your gift of good management.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Counting one's blessings makes every picture rosier, but DON'T count returns you have not and MAY NOT receive. Mixed influences; use care in all things.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Without much planetary assistance, you can still net top returns now but, before acting, plan well, be sure of facts and details, and DON'T procrastinate.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Important now: Common sense, logical analysis, ease of action. Regular business and work matters highly favored. Don't waste time on regrets.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Profit by past mistakes and by sound device. You have a wonderful chance for accomplishment but day needs the right push, steadiness.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Tangible gains indicated if you pursue work and handle obligations without unnecessary interruptions. Don't neglect the substantial for "flashy" but momentary gain.

YOU BORN TODAY are unusually independent and self-reliant; imaginative, competent in all your endeavors and magnetic of personality. As an orator, lecturer or theatrical performer, your influence could be spellbinding. You should have some form of art as an avocation if you do not choose it as a lifework — where you could succeed as a writer, painter, designer or illustrator. You have a great love of poetry, but may eschew it as a career because it is not lucrative enough to bring you the luxuries you crave. You have great inner reserves of strength and are extremely courageous in the face of difficulties.

9-member committee eyes Demo candidates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Democratic Chairman William Lavelle has appointed a nine-member committee to recommend procedures for endorsing candidates in the 1974 primaries.

Lavelle said in a statement the committee will not actually make endorsements, but will recommend guidelines for the state Democratic executive committee.

Besides Lavelle, named to the committee were William L. Boyle, Democratic chairman in Lucas County; former Ohio National committeeman William Coleman; Anthony Garofoli, co-chairman of the Democratic party in Cuyahoga County; Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King; Franklin County Democratic chairman Nelson Lancione; C. J. McLin Jr., secretary of the state Democratic executive committee; Eugene O'Grady, former chairman of the Ohio Democratic party, and John Wiethe, co-chairman of the Democratic party in Hamilton County.

Orient State Hospital work draws praise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The planned $4.3 million medical-surgical building at Orient State Hospital is "one example of what the affirmative action of the people of Ohio has meant," Gov. John Gilligan said.

Gilligan participated Tuesday in groundbreaking ceremonies for the 115-bed structure, which is scheduled for completion in February, 1975.

"It shows the commitment on the part of Ohioans to provide the mentally retarded with the finest medical-surgical care possible," he said.

NEW LIBRARY ENTRANCE — This ramp entrance to the rear center door of Carnegie Public Library, 127 S. North St., is to allow easy access to the library by persons confined to wheelchairs. The cost of the project was about $3,700.

Small packing firm falls victim

RUSHVILLE, Ill. (AP) — "The only way I could have hung on was to buy black market beef," says Ted Bartlow. "But I can't do it, I won't do it. I decided when this beef crisis started I'd rather close than resort to that."

Bartlow, with his brother Bill, is a partner in Bartlow Brothers, Inc., an independent meat packing firm that closed down this week.

They served small stores and supermarkets in towns with populations ranging from 100 to 3,000 and drew from a supply of beef and hogs produced by thousands of small farmers in a 100-mile area.

The closing of the plant and the loss of jobs for its 160 workers completed a chain of events that began at the end of May when Bartlow decided to halt his slaughtering operation.

"We had lost about $130,000 at the end of March, the end of our fiscal year," he says. "And we lost more than that during the next few months that followed."

Bartlow says it had come to the point where he was operating at a loss just to bring a hog to slaughter, without even touching the animal. The prices he paid per hundredweight became oppressive under the former Phase 3 limits of the Nixon administration's Economic Stabilization Program.

Bartlow's prices for processed meat were frozen at their March 29 levels. But the cost to him for livestock on the hoof continued to spiral.

"When you can't cover your overhead, something has to give," he said. That something was about one-third of his employes.

Bartlow says Phase 4 was the fatal blow to his business. He had hoped to keep going until the ceiling price on red meat was lifted Sept. 12, but he saw no way to recover the losses he had already incurred.

He may have to sell if there is a buyer available "when it's all over."

Bartlow feels the three greatest paradoxes to emerge from the situation are:

"How come the farmer is getting the highest prices in history for his livestock yet he is losing money? How come the average consumer today has more money in his pocket but can't buy? How come corporations are showing the greatest profits ever yet the stock market is so often depressed?"

He has no answer.

Hawaiian travelog tops Rotary Club's program

The Washington C. H. Rotary Club toured the nation's 50th state at their luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club via a travelogue type of program presented by Rotarian Howard Miller, who visited Hawaii last November.

Miller, one of the top photographers in Washington C. H., had a color-slide presentation complete with a taped commentary and Hawaiian background music.

The presentation opened with pictures of the gigantic Boeing 707 jetliner and covered the Honlulu area and surrounding beaches. Pearl Harbor, the U.S.S. Arizona Memorial and the many military cemeteries were featured. Miller explained that more than 21,000 soldiers are buried in one of the cemeteries.

Next were pictures of the skylines, hotels, the colorful orchids and banana trees. Miller explained it takes from eight to nine months for one of the banana trees to mature and produce fruit and after bearing the fruit, the tree is chopped down and the cycle starts again from the stump.

Miller noted the three major industries of the islands which are sugar cane, tourists and pineapples.

AT THE business meeting, conducted by President Phil Grover, Cindy Mustine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Bud) Mustine, spoke briefly on her recent trip to England under the Rotary exchange student program.

Katherine Garrett, a student from London, England, is currently visiting here under the same type of program and is staying with the Mustines.

Beth Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crosby, visited England with Miss Mustine, but was not present at the meeting. The Crosbys also are hosting a visitor from England.

Carolyn Miller, a student from Ohio State University, was the guest of Phil Grover at the meeting. Visiting Rotarians were Don Ray and Art Dick, both of Mount Sterling, Robert Head, of Greenfield, and Jerry Ardrey, of London.

Liquor enforcement conference slated

Fayette County Sheriff Don Thompson and an as yet unnamed city policeman will attend a liquor law enforcement conference next week in Worthington. They will be among police and sheriff's department representatives from 25 counties in attendance.

The three-day conference opens Tuesday morning at Green Meadows Country Inn. The purpose of the conference is to increase cooperation between local law enforcement agencies and the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

Organized crime's relationship to Ohio permit premises, the illicit manufacture of liquor and the importance of human relations in law enforcement will be among the topics discussed.

Dividend declared by Monarch Company

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — Directors of the Monarch Machine Tool Co. Tuesday declared dividends of 45 cents to holders of Series A preferred stock and 15 cents to common shareholders.

In both cases, the dividends are payable Sept. 1 to shareholders of record Aug. 21.

Former Viet POWs given assignments

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Nine former prisoners of war who were processed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base after their homecoming this spring, have been told to report for flying assignments.

They were among 19 of 30 POWs processed at the base who received duty assignments Tuesday.

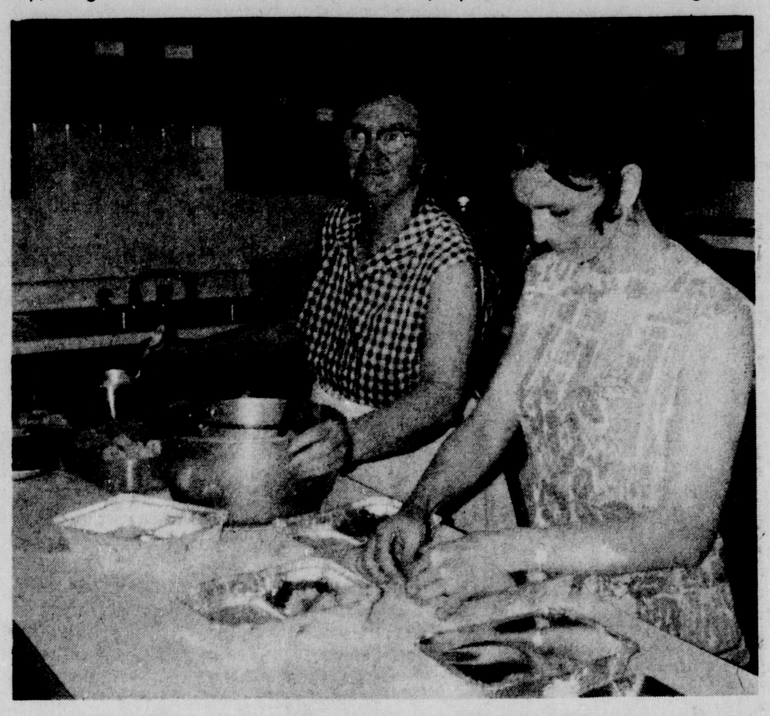
The Air Force said the remaining 11 are on leave and still officially assigned to the base medical center.

Those who received flying assignments at Randolph AFB, Texas, were: Capt. Robert A. Abbott, Lt. Col. William J. Breckner Jr., Capt. Hubert E. Buchanan, Capt. Jack M. Butcher, Maj. Burton W. Campbell, Lt. Col. David H. Duart, Capt. William J. Henderson and Maj. Cowan C. Nix.

Capt. Edward J. Mechenbier received a flying assignment to Wright-Patterson, the Air Force said.

Ten of the veterans received scholastic assignments, the Air Force said. They were: Col. Robert R. Sawhill, Lt. Col. William J. Baugh, Col. Ronald E. Byrne Jr., Lt. Col. Willard S. Gideon, Col. James H. Kasler, Maj. Donald L. Heiliger, Capt. Mark J. Ruhling, Maj. Joseph F. Shanahan and Lt. Col. Robert B. Purcell.

The 19th returnee, 1st Lt. Robert M. Hudson, was assigned to Offutt AFB in Nebraska, the Air Force said.



MEAL MAKERS — Edith Parsons, left, and Mary Creed prepare meals to be delivered via the Meals on Wheels Program to Fayette County residents who are unable to prepare their own. Persons who wish to participate in the program, either as recipients or drivers, may call 335-5344 or 335-0429.

Cincy interstate work draws $7.6 million bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Transportation says a Cincinnati firm has submitted a low bid of $7.6 million on construction of an interchange linking Interstates 471 and 71 in Cincinnati.

The bid by Foley Construction Co. was below the $8.3 million estimate on the job, the department said.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the following gas companies: Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., West Ohio Gas Company, The Dayton Power and Light Company, the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company, and The Ohio Valley Gas Company, have formally requested the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to hold a hearing on the proposed amendments to their existing purchased gas adjustment clauses. Present purchased gas adjustment clauses allow the aforementioned gas companies to recover additional costs in the purchase of gas without appearing in formal proceedings before the Commission. These proposed clauses allow the gas companies to pass on to the consumer the additional costs incurred by the gas companies in the purchase of gas from the gas distribution companies. These purchases would include such non-historic sources as synthetic pipeline quality gas (SPQ), liquified natural gas (LNG) and propane air-gas. The hearings will commence on September 5, 1973 at 9:00 a.m. E.D.S.T., at the offices of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 111 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215. Further information may be obtained from the Public Utilities Commission.

Fayette Bank names new loan officer

GARY McMURRAY

James R. Wilson, president of the Fayette County Bank, announced Tuesday the appointment of Gary M. McMurray, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., as loan officer of the Washington C.H. branch.

McMurrary, a native of Greenfield, has been manager of the City Loan and Savings Co. office in Washington C.H. for the past five years. Previously, McMurray was manager of City Loan's Jackson operations and has served as assistant manager of both the Washington C.H. and Hillsboro offices. McMurray had worked in the Washington C.H. branch office on two previous occasions, once serving as assistant manager of the Hillsboro office and as a dealer contact representative in the Chillicothe area.

He has been associated with the City Loan and Savings Co. since 1961, starting in the company's Batavia office. He is a member of the Ohio Consumer Loan Association and the National Consumer Finance Association.

A graduate of McClain High School, Greenfield, McMurray attended Columbus Business University and served four years with the U.S. Air Force. He and his wife, Wanda, have one daughter, Jennifer.

Wilson said McMurray will assume his duties with the Fayette County Bank Sept. 15.

Real estate licensing report due

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan's committee to study state real estate licensing practices may be ready with recommendations by the end of the month.

The five-member panel held its last scheduled hearing Monday and took testimony from Ohio Real Estate Commission personnel and former employes.

Gilligan appointed the committee after it was disclosed that former Republican Gov. James Rhodes and others had received real estate licenses after taking special exams. Rhodes received his license after an oral examination instead of the regular, six-hour written test.

Paul Everson, a former OREC commissioner, testified that the commission used discretionary authority in handling some licensing cases.

He said the discretionary authority was determined for the OREC by assistant attorneys general who acted as counsel for the commission.

Scott Rawling, an assistant attorney general who has worked for the real estate commission, told the committee the attorneys general "never purported to clothe the Ohio Real Estate Commission with blanket discretionary power."

Witnesses and committee members agreed that the commission needs a full-time attorney present at all commission meetings.

Committee members also said they want to review areas where they believe the commission has exceeded its authority, as well as training programs for new commission members.

David Maffeo, a former OREC employe, was the first to testify at Monday's hearing. He resigned from the commission in April after it was discovered he had given real estate tests to relatives.

Maffeo is scheduled to take a special broker's examination Wednesday. He was disqualified from taking the exam this spring because it was similar to tests he administered while employed by the Ohio Real Estate Commission.

Maffeo told the committee he had graded the examinations, but he said he never looked at the questions.

The panel has heard testimony from commission officials, state commerce department employes and representatives of the real estate industry since hearings began in June.

Scientists move to rehabilitate California 'sea'

WASHINGTON (AP) — By diking off a portion of California's Salton Sea, a group of government and state scientists, engineers and civic leaders hope they will be able to keep the 450-square mile inland lake from getting so salty that fish can't survive in it.

By removing 5.5 million tons of salt a year from the 50-square-mile control area, the investigators figure they can restore the lake's chemical balance before irreparable harm is done.

The Salton Sea was formed between 1904 and 1907, when Colorado and Gila River flood waters broke through dikes and spread over the dry bed of an ancient lake. The fresh water soon absorbed salt from the ground, and more salt was added by irrigation runnoff. The lake has been stocked with fish, but in a few years, scientists warn, their larvae will no longer be able to survive in the increasingly salty water.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Let's assume you're East and partner leads a heart against three notrump. You take the ace and realize that a heart return would be pointless, since it is impossible for partner to have a holding where a heart return would be beneficial.

Declarer's only possible weakness must be in spades, and it is therefore clear that you should shift your attention to that suit.

But it is also clear that in returning a spade you must not make the normal lead of your fourth best card. There is too much danger of declarer's having three to the king, in which case he would follow low and so acquire an extra spade trick.

The best way of trying to overcome the contract is to lead the queen of spades at trick two. You hope to find South with the K-x-x or K-x of spades and partner with a quick entry card to lead another spade through dummy's J-9 after South has covered the queen with the king.

In the actual case, this method of defense would be admirably successful if declarer blissfully went along with your scheme by winning the spade return with the king at trick two. He could cash eight tricks in a row but would then run out of steam and finish down one.

But South can blow your scheme to kingdom come by ducking the queen of spades when you lead it. He can see what you are trying to do and he can apply a suitable countermeasure by allowing your queen to win the trick.

Once declarer does this he must inevitably prevail, but you should nevertheless feel satisfied that you gave your all to stop the contract and unfortunately met a foeman worthy of your steel.

A lot of rubber

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The auto industry will put a billion pounds of rubber parts in its cars in 1973— not including their tires.

According to the Goodyear Co., the average car now has more than 600 rubber parts, together weighing over 150 pounds. This includes about 30 pounds of seat cushions and crash pads; 15 pounds of engine mounts, body insulators and bumper parts; more than 10 pounds of hose, and at least 95 pounds of rubber stripping, chunks, bits and pieces.

You can save money and help improve the environment by washing laundry and dishes in full-load quantities only.

4-H Roundup

Fair is history; activities continue

By JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

The 1973 Fayette County Fair is now history. I believe the Junior Fair activities were quite successful, thanks to a large number of people who gave a lot of time, energy and thought to the event.

I'd like to extend a personal thanks as well as a thanks of Fayette County 4-H members to those who made the fair possible. First, a large thank-you to the businesses, businessmen and individuals who spent a great deal of money supporting the livestock sales and awards programs. Over $35,000 was spent above market price at the sales and over $2,000 to purchase trophies and awards.

Thanks to the Junior Fair Board, Senior Fair Board and 4-H Committee for all their effort in planning and taking care of the details at the fair. Also, thanks to the many parents, 4-H advisers, the 4-H members who pitched in whenever something needed done. A special thanks to John Ely, grounds keeper, for helping out whenever needed.

A big bouquet goes to the news media for excellent news coverage of the Junior Fair events and activities. A rose is also due the folks at Producers Livestock Association for handling all the book work and livestock at the Junior Fair sales.

Finally, a personal thanks to Extension secretaries Jane Dill and Clara Wehner and 4-H assistant, Jeannie Anderson for working above and beyond the call of duty, keeping records, typing show results, helping with publicity, and answering a million questions.

THE FAIR maybe behind us, but things are still happeing in 4-H. This week, over 50 Fayette County 4-H'ers are in 4-H Beginners Camp at Camp Clifton making new friends, learning new things, having a good time.

Denny Newbrey and Nanci Woods are now attending State 4-H Conservation Camp at Camp Ohio near Utica. Former 4-H'ers Richard Owens and Mark Hiser are serving as counselors at the event.

Gladys Kirk and I will be working with many 4-H'ers who are going to represent the County at the Ohio State. Fair. Over 70 4-H'ers will be joining in State Fair activities this year.

And 4-H Day Camp is in its second week at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church under the direction of Cathy White and Jannelle Donahue. They are planning two more weeks of Day Camp at Good Shepherd.

For the next three weeks, several young adults will be conducting a county government survey with the ideas of publishing a government service directory for Fayette County. This program is being coordinated by Richard Owens, area community resource development, assistant, and Cathy White, Fayette County 4-H assistant.

Body weight balance wheel in each individual seen

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A Cornell University researcher says he has found evidence that an individual's body weight tends to remain stable despite repeated diets, rigorous exercise or even the surgical removal of fatty tissue.

David A. Levitsky, a physiological psychologist, says research has led to the theory that each body has an "ideal weight" that it strives to maintain.

In doing so, the body is alternately efficient and inefficient in processing its intake of foods, Levitsky said.

"It's almost as though your brain doesn't trust your mouth," Levitsky said.

He said the brain apparently monitors the total amount of fat in the body, compares this with some ideal value and determines how efficient it will be in burning off the calories.

Levitsky's research, sponsored by a $10,000 grant from the Weight Watchers' Foundation, is aimed at discovering the mechanism through which the brain monitors the body's state of fatness at any moment.

Explaining his theory, Levitsky said: "Each fat cell produces a messenger in proportion to its size, which it dumps into the bloodstream. The larger the fat cell, the greater the concentration of these messengers in the blood. At present, however, we have no idea what the messenger is."

Once the nature of the messenger is discovered, the treatment of overweight persons should be relatively simple, he said.

He said obese persons could be given chemical substitutes for the messengers; these substitutes would force the brain to read a false "fat" message and direct the body to become increasingly efficient in its metabolic processes.

Levitsky said steroid contraceptives, such as the pill, work in a similar manner, fooling the brain with certain symptoms of pregnancy so the pituitary gland does not stimulate ovulation.

Camera catches bank robbers when they enter

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 75 per cent of bank robbers who are caught through the use of hidden cameras are identified from the film showing them entering the bank and not during the actual hold-up or getaway.

According to Norcon Electronics, Inc., a firm which installs cameras in banks, the average bank robber hides his face during the actual holdup and often is moving too quickly when he's escaping for the camera to get a good shot of him.

However, when he enters the bank he usually walks slowly and often pauses to watch the activity to determine whether the time is ripe for his crime. During this period, he is easy to catch on film.

Driver keeps his cool when wires fall on bus

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A bus driver remained cool when some hot high-voltage wires clattered down around his vehicle.

The driver kept the doors shut until the wires touching the bus stopped moving. He then hurried his passengers off the bus. Moments later the vehicle exploded into flames. No one was injured.

Ending career of 36 years

Mrs. Witherspoon, nursing supervisor, to retire on Oct. 1

MRS. GRETCHEN WITHERSPOON

The Fayette County Board of Health Tuesday accepted the resignation of Mrs. Gretchen Witherspoon, supervisor of public health nursing, effective Oct. 1. Mrs. Witherspoon is retiring from public health service after a career of more than 36 years.

Dr. William Covert, county health commissioner, said that Mrs. Witherspoon will be greatly missed, adding that the board has been very appreciative of the 28 years she has spent with the Fayette County Health Department.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Mrs. Witherspoon was the first public health student to be assigned to a rural area in the state, starting in Marion County. She then worked six years in Crawford County before returning here.

She commended the county's nursing staff and noted the great strides that have been made in public health service since she started in the field. Her immediate plans are "to have a good time and take it easy, maybe do a little fishing."

No replacement for Mrs. Witherspoon has been selected as yet.

IN OTHER ACTION, the Board of Health discussed the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency's evaluation of the county landfill. The report noted improvements made in the operation of the landfill and offered some recommendations.

Better compaction of waste materials is needed, the EPA told the board. Also, a suitable final cover of at least two feet thick should go over the garbage and waste that becomes exposed due to erosion should be immediately covered.

The board also received a report from the Ohio Board of Health on the recent milk survey. The report commended sanitation in farms and milk-processing plants.

The State Board of Health has suggested that mass tuberculin skin testing be phased out, with reactors to the test to contact physicians or health departments. Skin tests will still be available at the local Board of Health, although probably on a curtailed basis.

THE BOARD also:

Discussed the .2 mill health levy that will appear on the November ballot. If passed, the board of health will receive an additional $21,000 yearly.

Authorized Dr. Covert to attend the state health commissioners' conference Sept. 12-14 in Columbus.

Discussed possible effects on health service of Gov. John Gilligan's administrative redistricting program.

Man loses fight with rare disease

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — "I am scheduled to die this year....I refuse."

With those words, veteran newsman Richard Kisonak began a hopeless 21-month fight against amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, Lou Gehrig's disease.

Kisonak died Tuesday at 44, his wife Beverly at his bedside.

He had beaten the medical odds, stretching his life nine months beyond the maximum one year which doctors had given him.

Kisonak's fight began Nov. 11, 1971, when a Portland neurosurgeon informed him he was suffering from the muscular disease. He was told that he had a year to live, "if he's lucky."

Newspaper stories about Kisonak's struggle brought inspiration to thousands of victims of the disease.

A story he wrote for the Maine Sunday Telegram of Portland, Maine, began:

"I am scheduled to die this year.

"For several months a mysterious, fatal disease, the name of which I can barely pronounce, has quietly and determinedly been waging a hellish war on my muscular system. It will continue to do this, the doctor says, until I am paralyzed—and die."

Recalling the 1971 Christmas holiday, he wrote:

"Christmas was our best ever. Lots of laughing, meeting friends, good food, gifts. That night I had a good cry when the kids were in bed and I was alone. It was my last Christmas with my family. I cried hard and am not ashamed to say so."

Kisonak was mistaken, for he squeezed out of life another Christmas with his family. That December 1972 his death was one month overdue.

"I can't put into words how good I felt, how happy I was," he said in an interview after passing the Nov. 11 deadline. "You have to be dying to understand the value of life."

Here are some of the entries that Kisonak, a reporter for nearly 20 years with the Lewiston Daily Sun, made in a journal he wrote on his ordeal:

May 13, 1972: "Dying by bits and pieces is a slow motion nightmare.... I'm scared to death."

May 15: "The insurance company bugs me....Every month I have to report to them that I am still dying."

May 29: "I turned off the late show last night and turned to God. I'm desperate and I told Him so. Never have I prayed so hard.... I'm not going to die this year. I refuse to die this year."

Sept. 2: "I've got very little time left. About two months—if I'm lucky. Well, I haven't changed my mind about living longer than that. I refuse to die by Nov. 11. I'm not going to die this year. I am going to prove the doctors wrong, even if it kills me."

Kisonak is survived by his widow, two sons, Rick, 18, and Wayne, 12, and a daughter, Jan, 17.

His funeral will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Trinity Episcopal Church in Lewiston.

Automobile, fence damaged in accident

Only one traffic accident was investigated Tuesday in the county.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department said a car driven by Steven E. Beverly, 17, of 510 S. North St., was damaged when a tow-chain came loose. The car had been pulled off Ohio 753, less than a mile north of Flakes Ford Road, and became stuck in the ditch.

A truck was trying to pull the car out of the ditch when the chain was loosened and the car rolled back into a fence. The rear end of the car and two rods of fence owned by Gary W. Taylor, Ohio 753, were damaged.

County Board takes formal action on building bond issue

The Fayette County Board of Education Tuesday night formally adopted a resolution to proceed with placing a $2,036,000 bond issue on the November ballot for the construction of a new junior high school and for renovation of present buildings.

The board, meeting at Jeffersonville Elementary School, also took care of a number of personnel matters, approved bids for foodstuffs, insurance and garbage collection in addition to several other items on a heavy agenda in less than 2½ hours. The meeting was conducted by Vice-President Marvin DeMent. Board president Kenneth Payton was absent.

In an important matter, the board was informed by Superintendent Guy M. Foster of several uncertainties concerning allocations of Title I funds for the 1973-74 school year. The school district's allocation may be reduced over 50 per cent from $120,000 to $58,000. The board was informed the allocation this year will be based on 1970 census figures of the number of low-income families in Fayette County. The state will receive the same amount of funds as a year ago.

Superintendent Foster said he learned from Mary Morris, county auditor, that 2.15 mills will be needed for the cost of construction and repairs on the old buildings. The cost estimate for the new school and site is $1,761,000 with the balance going for renovation of present buildings.

THE PROPOSED new building will house all seventh and eighth grade students in the Miami Trace School District. The proposed tax levy to pay for the building and renovation will be for 22 years.

Board member Dwight Duff, who is serving on a site selection committee, reported to the board the committee is currently considering three possible sites. The board authorized the committee to take an option on land for the new school when an agreement can be reached.

The bond issue must be submitted to the Fayette County Board of Elections today. The motion was made by Marion Waddle and seconded by Duff. The resolution was approved unanimously.

SEVEN NEW TEACHERS were employed. They were:

Miss Cathaleen Carr, Grove City, bachelors degree from Ohio State University, fifth grade at Madison Mills; Miss Karen Shool, Kettering, bachelors degree from Baldwin-Wallace College, elementary music; Mrs. Marjorie Lint, Grove City, bachelors degree from Wilmington College, junior high English; Miss Cheryl Tutera, Yorkville, bachelors degree from West Liberty College, high school speech and English; Mrs. Charlotte Cassie, bachelors degree from Wright State University, high school business education; Mrs. Sharon Lykins, Leesburg, bachelors degree from Morehead State (Ky.) University, elementary music, and Larry Stover, of Jamestown, high school business education and freshman basketball coach.

Housing boom 'bust' for many

By RICHARD L. STERN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's housing boom is becoming a bust for many Americans.

Costs are so high and mortgages have become so scarce within the last month that many prospective buyers with seemingly adequate incomes have found themselves priced out of the market.

An added burden is an increase in the cost of home maintenance, from painting a living room to repairing a furnace.

"When we added it all up, we just decided we better wait," said Rory Butler, a computer programmer who had been looking for a house in the New York suburbs.

The situation, which is especially troublesome to couples seeking to buy their first home, has caused concern in the industry.

While real estate agents in many parts of the country reported record sales in recent months, some housing experts have found signs the boom may be ending.

They point to recent figures showing housing costs running far ahead of increases in family incomes. And they note that federal measures to slow inflation by tightening the money supply generally have made mortgage money extremely scarce. When it is available, rates have come close to nine per cent in some cases. Banks also are demanding higher down payments and shorter repayment periods.

The finance problems and the soaring prices of land, labor and materials for new homes have so alarmed some builders that they have cut way back on their plans for new housing, the National Homebuilders Association (NHBA) reports.

"The housing industry's most disturbing problem in the last year and a half has been the increase in housing costs and prices," said Michael Sumichrast, the NHBA's chief economist.

Among those who can afford to pay the increased prices, demand for housing remains heavy, however, with many viewing it as a solid investment. "I'll sell every one I can find," said a Connecticut realtor of the demand for homes in the $75,000 range.

"I figure the price is going to keep going up; and if I don't buy now, then it's just going to cost a lot more later," said Bruce Lake, a Bethlehem Steel public relations representative who is looking for a new home, his second, in New Jersey.

In some sections of the country, especially New York and Washington, it is virtually impossible to find homes in the $30,000 to $40,000 range less than 90 minutes commuting distance from center city.

"If somebody comes to us and wants to buy a house for $35,000, we don't know what to do for him," said one Washington realtor.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the median price of new houses sold this May was $32,200, compared with $27,000 the previous May, a jump of 19 per cent. Census figures show that, over the same period, the average American family income was rising eight per cent.

Eight months ago, it was easy in many areas of the nation to finance a $30,000 home with as little down as five to 10 per cent down—$1,500 to $3,000. Thirty-year mortgages were readily available.

But a recent spot survey by The Associated Press indicated banks and mortgage companies were demanding $7,500 and more down on the same house. Mortgages, if available at all, frequently were for a maximum of 20 years.

Ginny and Riley Gibson of Montgomery, Ala., are typical of couples with mortgage problems. Both are in their early 20s and have a combined income of $16,000. They say they have found it impossible to find a mortgage for an $18,000 home, although they have $4,000 to put down.

Prices also have forced some couples to buy less than they could have a few years ago.

A Houston realtor told of a couple who moved away five years ago and returned recently. They found that, although they had the income and savings for a substantially more expensive home, values had increased so drastically that they could not afford to move back into their old neighborhood.

The price spiral is evident in cities across the nation.

In Atlanta, real estate agent Pat Gillentine reported that a three-bedroom home that 11 years ago cost $21,500 now is selling for $51,600.

A Salt Lake City realtor said a home he sold two years ago for $21,000 now is worth between $31,000 and $32,000.

In Hawaii, demand has been so high and the availability of homes so low that prices have increased as much as 50 per cent in the last two years, according to George Morris, executive vice president of the Honolulu Board of Realtors.

Earlier this year, when the Grant Co., the largest producer of higher-priced homes in Hawaii, took $500 deposits for a waiting list, some persons camped out overnight in front of the sales office.

"The deposits guaranteed nothing," neither a home style nor location, but checks were returned if persons were not satisfied with what was available, said Kurt Franks, a company representative.

One of the most spectacular areas of sales has been in high-priced homes, realtors report.

In affluent Hillsborough, Calif., where Bing Crosby lives, a house worth $50,000 in 1963, $54,000 in 1968 and $70,000 in 1971, now is reported selling for $100,000.

Maintenance costs also are rising sharply.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Statistics, the cost of maintenance and repair of a home in June was 11.5 per cent higher than in June 1972. Fuel oil and coals costs for the same period were up 11.7 per cent; repainting a living room or dining room, up 7.1 per cent; repairing a furnace, 5.3 per cent; and reshingling a roof; 5.1 per cent. Property taxes were up 5.3 per cent.

Construction wages also are up, as are the prices of some materials. From April 1972 to April 1973, the cost of softwood lumber jumped 57.5 per cent; softwood plywood, 98.3 per cent; copper pipes, 18.8 per cent; and gypsum wallboard, 20 per cent, according to the NHBA.

In recognition of the mortgage problem, the Federal Home Loan Bank took measures last week that it said would make $2.2 billion available for mortgage loans immediately.

Whether the mortgage situation and the inflationary costs will have a profound effect on the market remains to be seen, many experts say.

"We're sitting right on the fence and could fall either way," said Catherine Martini, director of economic research for the National Association of Realtors.

Spending clock speed upped

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is hardly a group in this country that doesn't have a pet educational project, a sense of mission to communicate the word as revealed to it or to correct what it feels are assumptions of the ignorant.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Tax Foundation never cease their efforts to educate the public to the dangers of government spending and deficits and taxes. Automakers preach religiously the doctrine of greater productivity. And construction workers hammer away at what they feel is a myth about their high pay scales.

Here are a few recent examples of the genre:

1. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"As the 1974 fiscal year began July 1, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States reset its Federal Spending Clock to run at an accelerated pace.

"The reason is that Federal spending this fiscal year is estimated to increase by approximately $19 billion, up to $269 billion.

"Rapidly changing digital figures across the top of the clock indicate how much the Federal government has spent since the beginning of the fiscal year. Each day the clock registers expenditures of approximately $736 million.

"Here's what the reset clock now shows:

"$10,000, nearly the average annual income of a typical American family, spent every 1.17 seconds, displayed by a sweeping dial.

"$100,000, spent every 11.7 seconds, by a light flashing on.

"$1 million, spent every one minute and 57 seconds, by a beep sounding."

2. If the sweeping dial, flashing light and beep-beep of your dollars being spent hasn't boggled your mind, you might consider the following preachment of construction workers.

Called "The 'Perpetual Myth' About Construction Costs," it was presented in the latest edition of "Viewpoint," a publication of the AFL-CIO, by Francis Burkhardt, research director for the International Brotherhood of Painters & Allied Trades.

"If someone makes $8 an hour, he must be making $16,000 per year—right? Wrong. If he's a fulltime construction worker, his work-year only averages 1,400 hours, and of the $9 union hourly rate, he never sees $1.10. This amount goes into funds to pay for health and welfare and pension benefits.

"So now we have a $7.90 wage rate, times 1,400 hours, or $9,940 per year," Burkhardt states, adding that this average is for only fulltime, year-round workers. Part-time summer workers are excluded.

Citing Bureau of Labor Statistics data, he concludes that union tradesmen can expect to earn on the average between $8,000 and $12,000 in 1973, depending on their craft.

NEVER SEE A LIMIT SIGN—NEVER NEED A COUPON

Morgan HR cushions Gullett's two-hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Morgan "was just trying to get on base somehow and hoping we could score a run."

He got on all right—on the scoreboard that is...and into the Cincinnati record books as well.

Don Gullett of the Reds and Chicago's Rick Reuschel were locked in a scoreless duel Tuesday night when Morgan strode to the plate in the seventh inning. Morgan knew what Reuschel would be throwing.

"It was a fastball...and when I went up there I just tried to concentrate on the fastball," he said.

He got it and smashed it over the right field fence for his 17th homer of the season. That was all Gullett needed, making the run stand up with a two-hitter for a 1-0 victory over the Cubs.

Morgan's blast tied him with Alex Kamouris of the 1937 Reds for the most homers by a Cincinnati second baseman.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, the New York Mets downed St. Louis 6-5, Los Angeles pummeled San Diego 6-1 and Montreal edged San Francisco 2-1.

Astros 2, Pirates 0

Don Wilson hurled a four-hitter in the Astros' 2-0 triumph over the Pirates. Nelson Briles took the loss for Pittsburgh by giving up Roger Metzger's double and Cesar Cedeno's single in the fourth inning, the only run Wilson needed. Houston added an insurance run in the eighth.

Mets 6, Cards 5

Rusty Staub singled and John Milner doubled, setting the stage for Cleon Jones' two-run single in the third inning and starting the Mets on the way to their victory over St. Louis. The loss prevented the Cardinals from widening their five-game lead in the East Division.

The hit gave New York a 5-4 lead and Staub drove in what proved to be the winner in the fourth with a single, countering Lou Brock's RBI single for the Cards in the sixth.

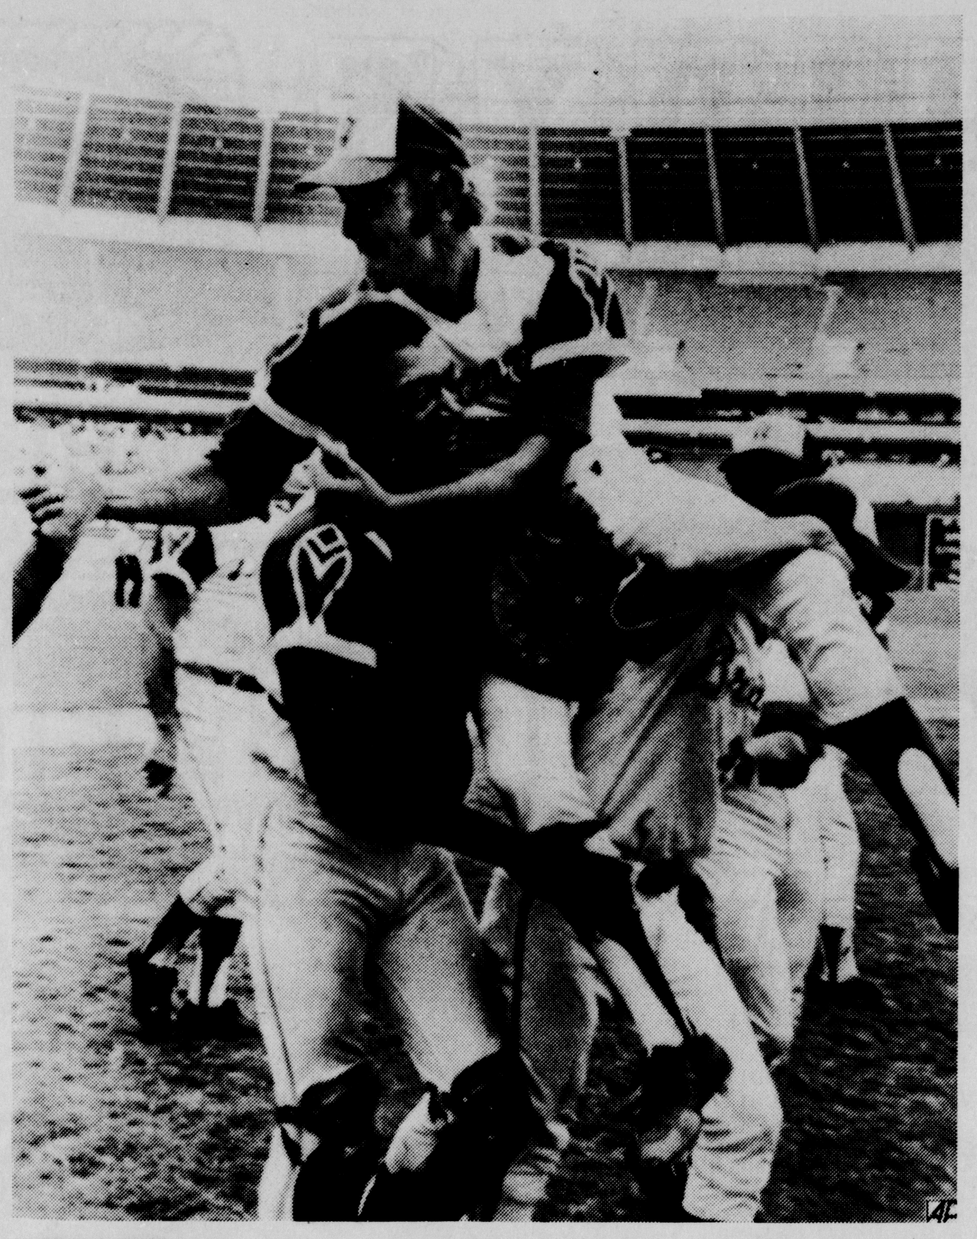
Dodgers 6, Padres 1

Los Angeles, retaining its four-game West Division lead over the resurgent Reds, did all its scoring in the first two innings against the Padres. San Diego finally broke a 26-inning scoreless drought in the ninth when Leron Lee hit a basesloaded single, averting a third straight Padres shutout.

Expos 2, Giants 1

The Expos climbed into a virtual second-place tie with the Cubs in the East, closing to within five games of St. Louis and a scant one percentage point of runner-up Chicago. It was Bob Bailey's bat that brought them there.

He lined a seventh-inning tiebreaking homer off Tom Bradley, snapping a 1-1 tie to give Montreal its fourth straight victory.



VICTORY RIDE — Atlanta Braves catcher Paul Casanova gives pitcher Phil Niekro a bear hug as he lifts him to his shoulders and carries him back to the dressing room after Niekro had pitched a no-hitter against the San Diego Padres.

Nolan shelved again

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said late Tuesday night that ailing pitcher Gary Nolan will not throw again this season.

"I don't expect him to throw another ball for us this year," said Anderson of Nolan.

Nolan, disabled all year until after the All-Star game, has made two appearances, losing one game and not figuring in the outcome of the second.

Nolan, complaining of a sore arm most of the season, won 15 games last year. He remained at Tampa, Fla., after spring training this year throwing the ball and working under a physical therapist.

Now Nolan may face surgery.

"If they decide to operate they'll do it soon," said Anderson. "We won't wait until the last minute. We'll give him a full eight months to recover.

In Nolan's last appearance, he went 6 1-3 innings of shutout ball before retiring from the game with arm pain.

Steubenville, Cincy face Legion clash

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati Bentley and Steubenville racked up victories Tuesday, setting the stage for a winners' bracket championship today in the American Legion State Baseball Tournament.

Ten teams in all remained in the double elimination competition after Tuesday's games.

The tournament is scheduled to wind up with finals Friday morning, although a playoff would be held Saturday morning if necessary.

Bentley edged Ashley 9-8 in the Cincinnati team's single game Tuesday, battling back from an 0-7 deficit in the second inning. Steubenville racked up two victories—over Bellefontaine, 11-10, and an 11-9 defeat of Euclid.

Don Wilmoth of Ashley paced Tuesday's hitters, going five-for-five in his team's 3-2 morning win over Worthington. Wilmoth's hits included the game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Losers' bracket teams still in the tournament include Ashley, Tipp City, Worthington, Athens, Bellefontaine, Hillsboro, Kent and Euclid.

Two former area coaches to be honored on Friday

CANTON — Two former area high school coaches — Columbus Upper Arlington's Marv Moorehead and Columbus North's Mike Hagely — will be inducted into the Ohio High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame during halftime ceremonies of the North-South all-star football game.

Moorehead was the master at Upper Arlington through his ultra-successful 15-year tenure in which he won three state championships and compiled a remarkable 115-23-3 record.

HAGELY WAS long the dean of area schoolboy coaches, serving 32 years as Columbus North's football coach, winning 13 Columbus City League championships and sharing the crown three other times.

Middletown's Elmo Lingrel, Toledo Woodward's Lou Meszaros and Akron St. Vincent's Eddie Wentz will also be inducted into the Coaches' Hall of Fame, joining Moorehead and Hagely to comprise the fourth induction class since the Hall of Fame's inception in 1970.

MOOREHEAD

HAGELY

Both Moorehead and Hagely have been enshrined in the Wall of Champions at the National Football Hall of Fame at Rutgers University for their contributions to the game.

Moorehead is the only one of the 1973 honorees to serve as a head coach in the all-star game, serving as such in the 1962 game.

Everhart homer spurs Baptists

A two-run homer by Joe Everhart keyed the First Baptist Church to a 5-4 win over the Good Hope Methodist Church in church league slo-pitch softball action Tuesday at Eyman Park.

John Baker also provided plenty of support for winning pitcher Harold Everhart as he had three hits in three trips.

Swing wins feature at River Downs course

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Round Bottom was top weighted with 125 pounds today in the postponed running of the $15,000 Rhinelander Handicap at River Downs.

The race was canceled July 7 when the track was unable to field 10 horses for the annual race.

Swing won the $2,600 featured eighth race Tuesday by a head covering the six furlongs in 1:10 and paying $4, $3.60 and $2.80. Broadway Lullaby placed, paying $4 and $3.40 and the show horse was Copper Prize at $3.

Grid drills open Aug. 13

Prospective football candidates at Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools are going through their pre-season conditioning programs in preparation for the official opening of regular practice drills scheduled during the week of Aug. 13.

The two Fayette County schools will open full-scale practice sessions Monday, Aug. 13, since fall classes begin Aug. 28.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association requires mandatory physical conditioning programs before contact.

CONDITIONING programs at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace moved into their second phase last Wednesday when prospective candidates were permitted to practice with helmets and football shoes. Before that time it was running and exercises.

Schools that start Aug. 29-30 may launch their practice drills Aug. 14, while others will get their official workouts under way Aug. 15.

Each school is permitted three interscholastic scrimmages prior to the opening of the regular season schedules.

Season openers for Washington C.H. and Miami Trace are scheduled Sept. 7. Washington C.H., under the guidance of veteran Maurice Pfeifer, will entertain Columbus Bishop Ready, while Miami Trace's Panthers, under the direction of new head coach Fred Zechman, will play host to Springfield Northeastern.

Reid fears knee problems

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Mike Reid, Cincinnati's All-Pro defensive tackle, says his next knee injury may be his last.

"I seriously question whether I could go through it again. Four operations are enough," said Reid, who, at 25, is already being compared with pro football's finest linemen.

"Hopefully it will never happen, but you can't walk away from it. It's there," said Reid as he heads into his fourth season with the Bengals.

His knees are sound, he says, but the mental scars remain.

Cincinnati's No. 1 draft choice in 1970, Reid underwent his first knee operation in 1965 after his senior year in high school at Altoona, Pa., where he played fullback "until I got really big."

Two more followed during his brilliant career at Penn State, but even with gimpy knees he was honored with the Maxwell and Outland trophies as "outstanding college player" and "outstanding interior lineman" of 1969.

The last was in 1971, after winning all-rookie honors with the Bengals.

"There's no problem right now. The problem is usually a ligament or a chartilage.

"There's no cartilage left now. But I feel there's utmost muscular integrity at this point," said Reid.

He dismisses fears of any career-ending collision.

"You can't walk out on that field hoping you don't get hurt. You know it's there subconsciously and you're aware of it. But that's psychological entrapment.

"I'm just convinced it will never happen again," he said.

Evert and Nastase win tennis clashes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Top-seeded Chris Evert and Ilie Nastase had little trouble in the opening round Tuesday of the $75,000 Western Open Tennis Championships.

The teen-aged Fort Lauderdale sensation downed Seattle's Pat Bostrum with east, 6-1, 6-0.

Nastase, of Rumania, appeared untired by his all-night flight here from Bucharist as he defeated Patrick DuPre of Birmingham, Ala., 6-1, 6-2.

6 healthy linemen all for Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — While the Cincinnati Bengals are hip deep in running backs, the team has only six healthy defensive linemen.

Coach Paul Brown said he has not cut any of the ten running backs this week because he wants to see them all again Saturday in the pre-season game with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Bengals lost 14-13 last week in Miami to the Dolphins.

That game cost Cincinnati left side defensive ends Ken Johnson, who has a twisted knee, and Bob Maddox, who has a sprained ankle.

Others still healthy include Mike Reid, Steve Chomyszak, Lee Thomas, Jerry Ellison and Ron Carpenter.

Bankers win

JEFFERSONVILLE — The Fayette County Bank ended their campaign in the Jeffersonville Little League with a 7-3 win over the Jeff Merchants.

Kevin Anderson clouted a pair of doubles while Darrell Williams and Rick Ward had two hits each in support of pitcher Dale Jordan. Tim Allen and Mike Williams had doubles for the losers.

Herron risks club golf title Sunday

Rob Herron will be hoping to defend his 1972 Washington Country Club golf championship when the annual tournament climaxes here Sunday afternoon.

Herron, a 1972 product of Washington Senior High School who is a member of the Ashland College golf team, will meet three other golfers in Sunday's finale, including 1971 champion Gary Shaffer.

Others in Sunday's showdown match include Bill Junk, a classmate of Herron's at Washington C. H. and James Hanawalt. The quartet will be clashing in 36 holes of medal play, according to chairman Richard Lewis.

HERRON REACHED the finals by defeating Donald Anderson and Jim Polk, while Shaffer topped Glen Helmick and Danny Mahoney. Junk beat Dr. Robert Hagerty and Doug Dye and Hanawalt stopped James Conley and William Mount.

Club pro Tony Capuana said the golfers will start at 9 a.m. Sunday and play 18 holes. They will then take a break and finish.

The first and second flight championships will also be on the line Sunday. The first flight contenders are Robert Herron, Jack Marti, Roger Grim and Everett Rudolph.

The elder Herron reached the first flight finals by defeating Irvin Reeves and David Garringer, while Marti topped Howard Mann and received a bye. Grim received a bye and stopped Richard Lewis, while Rudolph beat Bart Mahoney and Charles Wallace.

The first and second flight contenders will play only 18 holes Sunday.

Four players are also in contention in the second flight. They are Ernie Stanforth who defeated Horace Jacobs; Chester Brown who got by Bernie Light and Larry Lehman; Ben Wright who defeated Richard Wintringham and Bill Stoughton, and Ralph Tate, who received a bye and beat George Walker.

SPORTS

A family affair

The city recreation program's annual archery tournament turned out to be a family affair.

The Norman Rodgers family, of Mount Sterling, nearly dominated the tourney with two championships and a runnerup. Norman captured honors in the open division with a 410 score, while his daughter, Tonda, grabbed the top spot in the women's division. Norman's son, Larry, was second in the men's bare division.

City recreation director Chuck Wallace took first in the bare division with a 605 score, and his wife, Kay, finished second in the women's division with a 230 count.

In the junior division a pair of brothers, Danny and Mark Hoaglin placed first and second, respectively. David Garringer was second in the open division.

Reigle's Arnie picked in Scarlet, Gray cup

COLUMBUS — The $11,050 Scarlet and Gray Cup Series three-year-old trot has attracted eight outstanding entries for its Thursday night run at Scioto Downs, including four of the sport's top-ranked Hambletonian eligibles.

The Gene Riegle stable entry of Arnie Almahurst and Dark Secret rate the pre-race favorite tag.

Howard Beissinger who has won two of the last four Hambletonian races has a solid two-horse stable entry in A.C.'s Thor and MacArthur.

Bruce Mickells has a powerful contender in Lucky Hill, winner of the Grandview Futurity last week at Northfield Park in 2:05.2. Dick Buxton's Speedy Coaltown, Charlie Jordan's Corsage Almahurst, and Vince Aquino's Red Whiz complete the select field.

ARNIE ALMAHURST, the 1972 Ohio two-year-old Trotter of the Year, was picked as the leading colt eligible for the 1973 Hambletonian after he had racked up 12 wins, three seconds and a mark of 2:01.2. He won the 1973 Challenge Stakes at Scioto Downs in 2:02.2, then began a series of misadventures in stakes races around the country.

But Riegle hopes Arnie is straightened out after a brilliant workout mile last Saturday and has started a campaign that will end in the winner's circle at DuQuoin, Ill. Aug. 29.

Beissinger won the 1969 Hambletonian with the unheralded Lindy's Pride, then repeated in the 1971 Hambletonian with the unknown Speedy Crown.

In the latest rating list issued by the U.S. Trotting Association, neither A.C.'s Thor or MacArthur are even listed in the top ten, and that's the way Beissinger wants to keep it.

A.C.'s Thor lightly race at two and with only five wins in 14 starts, shows two wins, two seconds and a third in eight 1973 starts. A.C.'s Thor has lowered his mark to 2:03.

MacArthur, owned by Joe Mendelson, of Palos Verdes, Calif., has to be considered a factor after posting a new lifetime mark of 2:03.2 just last Friday at Scioto Downs.

Buxton has another son of B.F. Coaltown, Speedy Coaltown with a mark of 2:04.2.

Cleveland Browns back to workouts

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns went back to workouts today, girding for their second exhibition match of the preseason and looking for their first victory.

The Browns regrouped at the Hiram training camp Tuesday evening for dinner and a look at the films of their 27-16 loss to the San Francisco 49ers Monday night.

Cincinnati coliseum closer to reality

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Financing for the Cincinnati coliseum became reality Tuesday when private investors reached agreement in the second round of negotiations.

Plans for the 18,000-seat, $18.5-million facility, sought by a local sports group, Cincinnati Sports, Inc., collapsed in June when local banks could not agree on financing.

With financing assured, William DeWitt Jr., CSI vice president, said a ground-breaking could be held in 90 days.

Lil Demon victorious

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Lil Demon won the $2,000 conditioned trot at Latonia Tuesday night and paid $6.80, $3.40 and $2.80.

Gypsy Favorite placed, paying $5.40 and $3.20 and OC's Fisherman showed for $3.20.

Tartan Rose and Last Dance combined 4-8 in the daily double for $39.20, and the crowd of 1,201 wagered $84,220.

KEVIN SMITH

Ex-Lion gridder picks Otterbein

Kevin Smith, a 1973 product of Washington Senior High School, has received an athletic grant to attend Otterbein College, Westerville, where he will play football.

The 5-foot-10, 210-pound tackle finished eighth on the 1972 Washington C.H. Blue Lion team in tackles with 33.

He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, 4 Sunny Drive.

'Thank you' spoiled it

LONDON (AP) — Belinda-Jane Blakeney spoiled things at a fund-raising "hush-in" at Thomas Bourne School, Berkhamstead, near London, when she politely said "thank you" for a drink. The youngsters were not supposed to speak, and they had "sponsors" who promised charity contributions that would be bigger the longer the children remained silent.

Well wishers sent in more than $120 when they read of the incident.

Bald Ad Is Hair-raising Fraud

Are hormone creams ever of any value for baldness? I spent $40 after reading about it in a pulp magazine.

I think I was a sucker. Nothing has happened.

Mr. P.F.S., Wash., D.C.

Dear Mr. S.:

If a "sucker" is one who falls into the tempting trap of fraudulent advertising then, Mr. S., you are indeed one.

It took 40 good, hard-earned dollars for you to find out that creams, lotions and ointments are not the answer to the massive problem of pattern baldness.

I would venture to say that the cream you purchased probably did not contain any of the male sex hormone, or testerone. For there are many legal statutes against incorporating hormones in over-the-counter nonprescription cosmetics and ointments.

Scientific studies were once made seeking the value of hormones for regrowth of hair. The original enthusiasm raised the hopes, but not the hair of the balding.

Male sex hormones, vigorously rubbed into the scalp, are absorbed and occasionally produce unusual side effects. Therefore, they should never be used without the specific advice of a doctor.

"Miracle" cures of all kinds are, at best, exploitative. If there were any proven value for the extravagant claims that are so openly advertised, the public should realize that all doctors would know their advantages and use them judiciously.

A blood clot formed in my leg and has caused me untold trouble.

What is the cause of a clot like this?

Miss G. R., Ohio

Dear Miss R.:

The fact that blood flows through the arteries and veins freely and uninterrupted is one of the wonders of our body.

The inner lining of blood vessels is thin and smooth. If this lining is injured, or inflamed, small deposits collect at the point of irritation, Platelets, and other components of the blood pile up, and a clot thrombus begins to form.

A slight injury, which may have gone unnoticed, may be responsible. In susceptible people, tobacco may be a cause.

Tortuous, twisting blood vessels and varicose veins may also play a role in the formation of clots.

When a clot is formed, there is a damming back of the blood, and swelling of the surrounding tissue may result.

With bed rest and the drugs that are now available, these clots can be absorbed, and the vessels returned to their normal state.

Are glycerin suppositories dangerous for constipation?

Mr. O.G., Tex.

Dear Mr. G.:

Those suppositories are probably the least hazardous of all the methods of relieving constipation. Long dependence on laxatives, suppositories and enemas are habits that usually can be broken by developing a new habit of drinking 8 glasses of water a day. Before trying it, be sure it has your doctor's approval.

Natural gas rate schedule boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has approved a new rate schedule allowing higher prices for much of the natural gas shipped to states in the Southwest and Midwest.

Members of the commission said they sought to balance consumer and investor interests in approving a new rate schedule more than doubling the production ceiling price for gas produced from the Permian Basin in West Texas and parts of New Mexico.

Gas produced from this field serves the Pacific Southwest, New Mexico, Texas and two Midwestern pipelines—Natural Gas Pipeline and Northern Natural Gas.

The rate schedule affects prices at the wellhead. The FPC specifically refused to speculate on the effect of the change on consumer prices.

The rate approved calls for an increase from 16.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet to 35 cents on gas produced under contracts dated since Oct. 1, 1968. Gas produced under contracts drawn before that date had its ceiling price increased from 14.5 to 23 cents.

"It is only in this manner that we can attempt to alleviate increasing pipeline curtailments and assure adequate and safe service to meet consumer demands," the commission wrote in its decision.

Since the action by the FPC affects ceiling prices, it will not necessarily change prices under current sales contracts. However, as new contracts are signed or old ones renegotiated, the prices included could be expected to move toward the new ceilings.

High-rise fire problem seen by researcher

CHICAGO (AP) — Today's generation is poorly trained psychologically to cope with fires in high-rise buildings, says a Harvard Medical School researcher.

"Suddenly, people are going to be confronted with a situation in which their trained response is wrong," says Dr. Ann Wight Phillips in an article in the Factory Mutual Record, an insurance company's loss-prevention magazine.

"Exit stairs of today's highrise buildings are not being designed to handle evacuation of the total occupant load, and the time required to empty such a building will be measured in hours, not minutes."

Dr. Phillips says so-called safety islands within the upper reaches of high-rise buildings are among suggestions for sheltering occupants in case of fire.

But she said persons will have to be trained to go to such refuge areas in case of an emergency.

"With a generation of citizens trained to go downward, it will not be easy to re-educate them to go laterally to an island of safety, and, I believe, impossible to induce them to go upward to one," she says.

Dr. Phillips asserted that "many of our high-rise elevators today are death traps." And she suggests:

"Fire and smoke-safe elevators should be designed so they can be manually controlled by fire department personnel and will not open if the temperature outside the elevator is above tolerance levels.

"We have learned to build beyond our capacity to protect, and the chances of a disastrous high-rise building fire in the near future are all too good."

More phone strike trouble reported

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP) — Pickets had set up automobile barricades around two General Telephone Co. office buildings and were not allowing supervisory personnel to enter or leave the premises, company officials said today.

New Philadelphia police said there were no reports of violence at the scene.

Tom Winn, company spokesman, said city police had declined to intervene in the lockout by communications workers because it was on private property.

He said the company was seeking a temporary court injunction in Tuscarawas Common Pleas Court to remove the pickets.

About seven employes who had worked on the night shift were still in one building maintaining emergency telephone service for the area, he said.

About 2,800 Communications Workers of America went on strike against General Telephone July 16 in a contract dispute over wages and union security.

Vandalism to company facilities since the walkout has been estimated at more than $700,000 by company officials.

General Telephone serves about 308,000 customers in 70 Ohio counties.

Mrs. Mary Jean Jennings, county director of elections, said petitions will remain on file for inspection until Aug. 18, the final date for filing protests.

Mrs. Jennings also reported that the state is to reimburse Fayette County in the amount of $6,891.97 for expenses incurred on the constitutional amendments voted on in 1972 and 1973.

Rockefeller eyes presidency in '76

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he's keeping his options open for a possible bid for the presidency in 1976.

"I devoted 27 years to government ... and my basic interest is the future of the country and its role in the world," he said. He unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination in 1964 and 1968.

Rockefeller told a news conference Tuesday that he also was keeping his options open on seeking a fifth term as governor.

B'burg sewer system hopes dim

BLOOMINGBURG — Members of the Bloomingburg Village Council received some disappointing news regarding the proposed sanitary sewer system at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Council reviewed a report from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency which stated it has a total of 225 programs in which funding has been requested. The EPA report noted that Bloomingburg's sanitary sewer system project is No. 126 on the list of 225 programs and that the EPA is anticipating funding only 25 programs this year.

A request submitted by Charles Hunt asking to place a mobile home at 81 Biddle Boulevard was refused by Council. Hunt was informed by Council members that the village has an ordinance prohibiting mobile homes being placed outside the limits of the trailer park.

Council members approved the purchase of a ton and a half dump truck. Mayor Max Grim and Street Commissioner Tom Jones purchased the dump truck at a public auction recently.

In other matters, Council approved an ordinance renewing the depository contract with the First National Bank, Washington C.H., for two years and paid routine bills totaling $3,596.87.
